Mississippi Bans H'way Bonds; La. Faces $140,000,000 Issue

(While the Louisiana legislature of 1950 was setting up a proposed New Orleans bridge and state highway bond issue of $140,000,000, the Mississippi legislature of 1950 was outlawing all future highway issues and establishing that state on a pay-as-you-build system for all road and bridge construction and repair. As a public service to Louisiana voters who must decide in the November 7th election whether to approve or reject the $140,000,000 proposal, a staff reporter was sent to Mississippi to study that state's new plan and compare it with the Louisiana proposal. His articles will be printed daily, the following being first.)

By F. E. Shepherd

The Louisiana state administration, which now has a $91,000,000 highway fund reserve, proposes a $140,000,000 highway improvement bond issue through a constitutional amendment which will be before the voters of the state for approval or rejection November 7th.

Actual cost of the proposed bond issue to Louisiana taxpayers would be $200,000,000 or more since interest charges would add $60,000,000 to $75,000,000 to the bond principal.

Only $95,000,000 of that total actually would be used on highways—approximately $4,000,000 more than the state highway department has in reserve as of its latest fiscal statement.

In sharp contrast to this, the Mississippi state legislature last summer enacted a permanent long-range highway program which outlaws future bond issues and places all construction and repair on a pay-as-you-build system which involves no state debt and no interest payments.

The figure of $91,000,000 on hand and available for the state highway department is taken from its official fiscal year report of June 30th. The figures clash with the statements made by administration leaders during the last regular session of the legislature that the bond issue is needed because none of the regular highway funds can be spared for added road construction.

With allowances for reserves for bond interest and principal for a year in advance of the maturity dates, for funds tied up in materials, and uncollected bills, this $91,000,000 is enough to maintain construction of new highways and widening of old ones for more than two years, at the rate this was done in the 12 months ending with June 30, 1950.

Total expenditure for road work during the past four years, as materials became more readily available and construction jumped, was $35,000,000 less than the revenues received by the highway department.

Add the $61,000,000 surplus realized during the past fiscal year to the $75,000,000 balance existing at the beginning of the July 1, 1949 fiscal year and the amount is $91,000,000.

Louisiana's so-called five-year-plan highway improvement plan to be financed by the $140,000,000 bond issue, is said to call for an annual expenditure of $28,000,000 for roads and bridges. However, after the $140,000,000 is spent, payments on the principal and interest of the bonds will continue at least another 25 years before the indebtedness is cleared.

This $140,000,000, plus approximately $60,000,000 in interest, is to be added to the $98,000,000 in principal and $26,000,000 in interest, which is the amount of the state's current highway bonded indebtedness. This would bring the total bond principal to $43,000,000 and the total bond interest to $86,000,000—or an overall total of $324,000,000 in bonds and interest.

On the other hand Mississippi's pay-as-you-go plan calls for the expenditure of about $10,000,000 annually, with every cent going for road building, which will be kept current from year to year along with whatever developments are made from year to year along construction lines.

Mississippi's gasoline tax jumped from six to seven cents July 1, with $8,000,000 being diverted from the general fund for the rural highway system. Each county will put up an additional 10 per cent of whatever state aid is allocated to it.

To offset the general fund loss the legislature this year boosted the beer tax from two to four cents a gallon, and increased the retail sales tax on new automobiles and trucks from one to two per cent.

Louisiana's highway department on the other hand receives directly the proceeds of five cents of the state's nine-cent gasoline tax. Last year it received a $10,000,000 appropriation in lieu of the proceeds of another two-cents gasoline tax. The remaining two cents of the nine-cent tax is used for the retirement of outstanding highways bond principal and interest.

For road and bridge construction, under the new pay-as-you-go system, the Mississippi highway department will have funds amounting to $22,471,709.15, includ-

Communist-Led Vietminh Nationalists Of Ho Chi Minh Take Over

FRENCH TROOPS ABANDON SIXTH FRONTIER POST

Saigon, Vietnam, Indo-China, Oct. 21.—(AP)—French abandonment of the headquarters fortress city of Langson was announced today, signaling the fall of the Indo-China frontier zone to firm control of the Communist - led Vietmin Nationalists of Ho Chi Minh.

A French army communique disclosing this development vowed that the French will assume the offensive after regrouping as mobile units and "no further withdrawal of our troops is foreseen." But the evacuation of Langson, part of a gradual retreat from border positions, ended French chances of a decisive military victory anytime soon in the struggle for domination of this gateway country to southeast Asia.

Five French posts had been yielded previously.

Abandonment of the remaining French positions, at Laokay in the west and Moncay in the east, is regarded here as only a matter of time. The French defense line in North Indo-China is being shifted an average of about 75 miles southward to the northern fringes of the rich Red river delta.

MAIDS ELECTED FOR HOMECOMING

Maid Of Honor Is Miss Jeanne Sawyer; Football Team To Select Foe

Election of six maids, who will rule with the queen over Northeast Louisiana State College Homecoming festivities, was announced Saturday by the Student Council. Selection of the group is a phase of preparation for the celebration on Thursday, November 2 when Coach James L. Malone's Indians play Southwest Mississippi Junior College.

Members of the royal court, who were chosen by the student body, include a maid of honor and five maids. The Homecoming queen will be selected by the football squad, according to tradition of the college.

Capturing the maid of honor title was Miss Jeanne Sawyer, who gained the coveted honor by winning the highest number of votes.

The maids comprise: Misses Kadie Dyess, Jerry Freeman, Maurine Linquist, Lorraine McClendon and Martha Carolyn Upshaw. Runner-up in the election was Miss Sue Posey of Olla. In the event the Homecoming queen is chosen from the coeds already elected to the court, Miss Posey will join the royal court as a maid.

The queen and her court are to choose their escorts and the royal party will be presented in colorful ceremony preceding the game.

Miss Sawyer holds the distinction of serving as maid of honor in last year's Homecoming celebration when Miss Alice Perry of Perryville reigned as queen. A resident of Jones, Miss Sawyer is continuing her studies at Northeastern this year as a junior in home economics.

Miss Dyess of Sterlington is a freshman who is majoring in elementary teaching. She also is a member of the cheering squad.

Another freshman who entered Northeastern this fall is Miss Freeman, also an elementary teaching major, who lives in Monroe.

CHARGES DENIED BY TWO OFFICERS

McMurray, Hunnicutt Declare Bribe, Other Accusations Untrue

In a signed statement yesterday former police officers H. J. McMurray and W. J. Hunnicutt denied catagorically charges filed against them by the city of Monroe, Friday.

Both officers were discharged from duty Oct. 6.

Their joint statement reads as follows:

"Captain Homer J. McMurray, after being shown the charges filed by the City of oMnroe before the Civil Service Board, stated that regarding the charges in which Monroe Phipps accused the Captain of taking $5.00 a week from him from February, 1943, until October, 1950, are untrue and an absolute falsehood.

"In fact, on September 30, 1950, Captain McMurray arrested Monroe Phipps for bootlegging on Sunday, and his case was fixed for trial on Monday, October 2, 1950, and Monroe Phipps employed Joseph S. Guerriero as an attorney.

"The case was postponed until October 4, 1950, and when Guerriero went to City Court, which Court is conducted by Judge W. M. Harper, he was informed by Judge Harper that Mayor John Coon had just called him and told him to drop the charges against Monroe Phipps. This occurred prior to any charges against either Captain McMurray or Officer Hunnicutt. Lobbying Is Spotlighted By Buchanan

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Lobbying to influence federal legislation was described today by Rep. Buchanan (D.-Pa.) as "a billion dollar industry."

Buchanan, chairman of a house committee investigating such activity, said he did not want any curbs on lobbying, but wanted it carried on "in a goldfish bowl."

Buchanan predicted in a statement that the committee he heads will recommend legislation to provide the American people with a truer picture of the ways in which money is spent to influence congress.

He emphasized the results of a questionnaire survey which his group made among corporations, saying it shows many times as much money actually spent for that purpose as has been reported under the present lobbying law.

Questionnaires similar to those sent to the business corporations also were sent to farm groups and labor organizations. Reports covering their replies are in preparation, the committee said. Some members of congress also have called attention to what they term large-scale lobbying by executive officials of the government in an effort to influence congress.

Buchanan said 152 corporations, including some of the country's largest, reported spending more than $32,000,000 in the past three years in activities "relating to attempts to influence legislation." He contrasted that with $750,000 reported by the same concerns in the registration of lobbyists.

Buchanan, as chairman of the investigating committee, sent questionaires to 182 corporations. A few corporations made no reply; others said some of the questions asked did not apply to them,

Indiana, UCLA, Florida Featured In Grid Upsets

By Will Grimsley

New York, Oct. 21. —(AP)— Once mighty Notre Dame dropped its second game of the season today —bowing to Indiana, 20-7—and upsets again jarred college football's first ten.

Twice-beaten U. C. L. A. handed bowl-minded Stanford its first setback of the year, 21-7, at Los Angeles. Stanford was rated sixth in the last Associated Press poll.

Maryland, ranked eighth nationally, fell before North Carolina State, 16-13, while Illinois smashed Washington, No. 10, from the ranks of the unbeaten and untied in an intersectional game at Champaign, 20-13.

Underdog Florida added its pitch to the topsy-turvy campaign by stunning Vanderbilt, 31-27, to spoil the Commodores' perfect record.

Otherwise, scattered gridiron activities followed pretty close to the script with Army and Oklahoma extending football's current longest unbeaten streaks at the expense of mild opponents.

Army, top - ranked nationally, rolled over Harvard at Cambridge, 49-0, taking it easy in the final half. The Cadets now have gone 24 games without a defeat.

Oklahoma's Sooners won their 25th in a row, crushing Kansas State, 58-0.

Bobby Robertson, who lives only a few miles from the Notre Dame campus, led fired-up Indiana to its triumph over the fighting Irish at Bloomington. He scored two touchdowns and gave an outstanding all-around exhibition.

The setback, following the 28-14 loss to Purdue, assures Notre Dame, the defending national champion, of its worst season since 1945. It was the first Indiana victory over the Irish since 1906.

Meanwhile, Navy, a sleeping giant of a football team, rose up with a violent start and whipped Southern California, 27-14, at Baltimore. It was the first victory of the season for the Middies.

Wisconsin and Yale saw their records smeared for the first time.

Wisconsin caught Michigan on the rebound from the Army game and bowed to the Wolverines, 26-13. Cornell, the Ivy League favorite, found Yale as stubborn as

Proclamation Asked For Non-Remilitarization Of Germany And Stabilizing Conditions For Peace-Loving Democratic German State

By William Oatis

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A group of Communist nations headed by Soviet Russia called on the big three western powers tonight to join Russia in a four-point plan for establishment of "a democratic, peace-loving, all-German sovereign government."

A communique of about 2,000 words set forth the ideas adopted at a two-day conference of Soviet Deputy Prime Minister V. M. Molotov and the foreign ministers of seven allied nations at the Czernin palace in Prague.

It called for:

1—A proclamation by the Soviet Union, Britain, France and the United States "that they will not allow remilitarization of Germany and her being dragged into any aggressive plans." They would also pledge to "carryq out the also pledge to "carry out the of a unified, peace loving Democratic German state."

2—"Removal of all hindrances in the road of development of a peaceful German economy." The rehabilitation of German war potential was termed inadmissible.

3—"The undelayed conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany," crreation of a unified German State and withdrawal of all occupation forces a year after signature of the treaty.

4—"Creation of an all-German constitutional council on the basis of a balanced representation of western and eastern Germany, which should prepare for establishment of an interim Democratic, peace loving, all-German sovereign government." The council should "submit pertinent proposals for common approval" of the four occupying powers.

The Russian, American, British and French governments, the communique said, should be invited to consult "concerning the elaboration of the peace treaty" until the all-German government should be set up.

Without elaboration, the communique added that:

U. N. GROUP CALLS FOR MAJOR POWER PEACE CONFERENCE

Unanimously Asks For Talks Between U. S., Britain, Russia, China And France

MALIK PROBLEMATIC IN SECURITY COUNCIL PANEL

By George Bria

Lake Success, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The U. N. assembly's political committee unanimously endorsed today a Syria-Iraq resolution calling for big power peace talks. The actual vote was 59. Iceland's delegate was absent.

Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky stubbornly attempted to have the Chinese Red regime listed as one of the big powers, but after two rebuffs voted along with the committee in the rare U. N. show of unanimity.

While U. S. Delegate John Foster Dulles approved the proposal, he has warned the world not to get its hopes up. He has repeatedly emphasized that Russia must be judged by her deeds, not words.

The Syria-Iraq proposal recommends that the five permanent security council members—listed in the U. N. charter as China, United States, Russia, Britain and France—consult together on their differences. It sets no date for the talks.

The Big Five, however, agreed after a security council meeting today to meet some time before Tuesday to attempt to solve the impasse over the secretary-general's expiring term.

Such a meeting would be the first session of the Big Five in the spirit of the Syria-Iraq resolution. The security council got nowhere again today in its attempt to agree on a secretary1general. Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik, who has vetoed the renomination of Trygve Lie, then moved for the before-Tuesday big power parley. Actual selection of a secretary-general is up to the assembly, acting on recommendations of the security council.

In the political committee, Vishinsky repeatedly urged the committee against an "ostrich" policy of refusing to identify the Communist Peoples Republic as the representative of China.

"Let's not be like ants, like birds, or like ostriches, who seeing approaching danger, hide their heads under their wings," he declared.

He called on the delegates to "hark with your ears to the ground for the true temper of the people."

After various delegates pointed

28,000 REDS ESTIMATED WITHIN JAWS OF PINCERS

(By The Associated Press)

Seoul, Korea, Sunday, Oct. 22.—(AP)—United Nations forces advanced today toward a North Korean town within 63 miles of Manchuria and also sealed tighter a trap on an estimated 28,000 Reds.

At Suchon, 30 miles north of captured Pyongyang, a task force of U. S. and South Korean troops set out for Kujang, 40 miles farther north.

Its mission was one of mercy. It was trying to find a train reported to be loaded with U. N. war prisoners. But the advance set the pace for three South Korean divisions expected soon to join in a war-ending push all the way to the Manchurian border.

The trap for the 28,000 Reds, first set by 4,100 paratroopers in an air drop Friday at Sunchon and Sukchon, was tightened by two moves.

One was a linkup with the paratroops by the British commonwealth 2th brigade, reported by air observers to have been achieved at Sukchon, about 30 miles north of Pyongyang.

The other was a southwestward thrust out of Pyongyang by the U. S. first cavalry division for 2 miles to the seaport of Chinnampo.

The U. S. 24th division previously had driven up a road near the west coast to one edge of the bay across from the port city.

The task force racing toward Kujang was seeking a trainload of prisoners reported to be hidden in a tunnel. The U. S. eighth army also received a report that 60 [illegible] war prisoners had been found murdered at Sunchon.

Mississippi Bans H'way Bonds; La. Faces $140,000,000 Issue

(While the Louisiana legislature of 1950 was setting up a proposed New Orleans bridge and state highway bond issue of $140,000,000, the Mississippi legislature of 1950 was outlawing all future highway issues and establishing that state on a pay-as-you-build system for all road and bridge construction and repair. As a public service to Louisiana voters who must decide in the November 7th election whether to approve or reject the $140,000,000 proposal, a staff reporter was sent to Mississippi to study that state's new plan and compare it with the Louisiana proposal. His articles will be printed daily, the following being first.)

By F. E. Shepherd

The Louisiana state administration, which now has a $91,000,000 highway fund reserve, proposes a $140,000,000 highway improvement bond issue through a constitutional amendment which will be before the voters of the state for approval or rejection November 7th.

Actual cost of the proposed bond issue to Louisiana taxpayers would be $200,000,000 or more since interest charges would add $60,000,000 to $75,000,000 to the bond principal.

Only $95,000,000 of that total actually would be used on highways—approximately $4,000,000 more than the state highway department has in reserve as of its latest fiscal statement.

In sharp contrast to this, the Mississippi state legislature last summer enacted a permanent long-range highway program which outlaws future bond issues and places all construction and repair on a pay-as-you-build system which involves no state debt and no interest payments.

The figure of $91,000,000 on hand and available for the state highway department is taken from its official fiscal year report of June 30th. The figures clash with the statements made by administration leaders during the last regular session of the legislature that the bond issue is needed because none of the regular highway funds can be spared for added road construction.

With allowances for reserves for bond interest and principal for a year in advance of the maturity dates, for funds tied up in materials, and uncollected bills, this $91,000,000 is enough to maintain construction of new highways and widening of old ones for more than two years, at the rate this was done in the 12 months ending with June 30, 1950.

Total expenditure for road work during the past four years, as materials became more readily available and construction jumped, was $35,000,000 less than the revenues received by the highway department.

Add the $61,000,000 surplus realized during the past fiscal year to the $75,000,000 balance existing at the beginning of the July 1, 1949 fiscal year and the amount is $91,000,000.

Louisiana's so-called five-year-plan highway improvement plan to be financed by the $140,000,000 bond issue, is said to call for an annual expenditure of $28,000,000 for roads and bridges. However, after the $140,000,000 is spent, payments on the principal and interest of the bonds will continue at least another 25 years before the indebtedness is cleared.

This $140,000,000, plus approximately $60,000,000 in interest, is to be added to the $98,000,000 in principal and $26,000,000 in interest, which is the amount of the state's current highway bonded indebtedness. This would bring the total bond principal to $43,000,000 and the total bond interest to $86,000,000—or an overall total of $324,000,000 in bonds and interest.

On the other hand Mississippi's pay-as-you-go plan calls for the expenditure of about $10,000,000 annually, with every cent going for road building, which will be kept current from year to year along with whatever developments are made from year to year along construction lines.

Mississippi's gasoline tax jumped from six to seven cents July 1, with $8,000,000 being diverted from the general fund for the rural highway system. Each county will put up an additional 10 per cent of whatever state aid is allocated to it.

To offset the general fund loss the legislature this year boosted the beer tax from two to four cents a gallon, and increased the retail sales tax on new automobiles and trucks from one to two per cent.

Louisiana's highway department on the other hand receives directly the proceeds of five cents of the state's nine-cent gasoline tax. Last year it received a $10,000,000 appropriation in lieu of the proceeds of another two-cents gasoline tax. The remaining two cents of the nine-cent tax is used for the retirement of outstanding highways bond principal and interest.

For road and bridge construction, under the new pay-as-you-go system, the Mississippi highway department will have funds amounting to $22,471,709.15, includ-

ONE GATEWAY LOST TO RED FORCES ON INDO-CHINA FRONT

FRENCH TROOPS ABANDON SIXTH FRONTIER POST

Saigon, Vietnam, Indo-China, Oct. 21.—(AP)—French abandonment of the headquarters fortress city of Langson was announced today, signaling the fall of the Indo-China frontier zone to firm control of the Communist - led Vietmin Nationalists of Ho Chi Minh.

A French army communique disclosing this development vowed that the French will assume the offensive after regrouping as mobile units and "no further withdrawal of our troops is foreseen." But the evacuation of Langson, part of a gradual retreat from border positions, ended French chances of a decisive military victory anytime soon in the struggle for domination of this gateway country to southeast Asia.

Five French posts had been yielded previously.

Abandonment of the remaining French positions, at Laokay in the west and Moncay in the east, is regarded here as only a matter of time. The French defense line in North Indo-China is being shifted an average of about 75 miles southward to the northern fringes of the rich Red river delta.

MAIDS ELECTED FOR HOMECOMING

Maid Of Honor Is Miss Jeanne Sawyer; Football Team To Select Opponent

Election of six maids, who will rule with the queen over Northeast Louisiana State College Homecoming festivities, was announced Saturday by the Student Council. Selection of the group is a phase of preparation for the celebration on Thursday, November 2 when Coach James L. Malone's Indians play Southwest Mississippi Junior College.

Members of the royal court, who were chosen by the student body, include a maid of honor and five maids. The Homecoming queen will be selected by the football squad, according to tradition of the college.

Capturing the maid of honor title was Miss Jeanne Sawyer, who gained the coveted honor by winning the highest number of votes.

The maids comprise: Misses Kadie Dyess, Jerry Freeman, Maurine Linquist, Lorraine McClendon and Martha Carolyn Upshaw. Runner-up in the election was Miss Sue Posey of Olla. In the event the Homecoming queen is chosen from the coeds already elected to the court, Miss Posey will join the royal court as a maid.

The queen and her court are to choose their escorts and the royal party will be presented in colorful ceremony preceding the game.

Miss Sawyer holds the distinction of serving as maid of honor in last year's Homecoming celebration when Miss Alice Perry of Perryville reigned as queen. A resident of Jones, Miss Sawyer is continuing her studies at Northeastern this year as a junior in home economics.

Miss Dyess of Sterlington is a freshman who is majoring in elementary teaching. She also is a member of the cheering squad.

Another freshman who entered Northeastern this fall is Miss Freeman, also an elementary teaching major, who lives in Monroe.

Being cast in the role of royalty is nothing new for Miss Linquist, who wore the queen's crown during Homecoming at Neville High School last year. She enrolled at the local college during the summer term following graduation last spring. Her field is teacher training in social sciences.

Miss McClendon comes from

McMurray, Hunnicutt Declare Bribe, Other Accusations Untrue

In a signed statement yesterday former police officers H. J. McMurray and W. J. Hunnicutt denied catagorically charges filed against them by the city of Monroe, Friday.

Both officers were discharged from duty Oct. 6.

Their joint statement reads as follows:

"Captain Homer J. McMurray, after being shown the charges filed by the City of oMnroe before the Civil Service Board, stated that regarding the charges in which Monroe Phipps accused the Captain of taking $5.00 a week from him from February, 1943, until October, 1950, are untrue and an absolute falsehood.

"In fact, on September 30, 1950, Captain McMurray arrested Monroe Phipps for bootlegging on Sunday, and his case was fixed for trial on Monday, October 2, 1950, and Monroe Phipps employed Joseph S. Guerriero as an attorney.

"The case was postponed until October 4, 1950, and when Guerriero went to City Court, which Court is conducted by Judge W. M. Harper, he was informed by Judge Harper that Mayor John Coon had just called him and told him to drop the charges against Monroe Phipps. This occurred prior to any charges against either Captain McMurray or Officer Hunnicutt. "When Guerriero attempted to reduce the cash bond put up by Monroe Phipps on Tuesday, October 10, 1950, he was in-

Lobbying Is Spotlighted By Buchanan

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Lobbying to influence federal legislation was described today by Rep. Buchanan (D.-Pa.) as "a billion dollar industry."

Buchanan, chairman of a house committee investigating such activity, said he did not want any curbs on lobbying, but wanted it carried on "in a goldfish bowl."

Buchanan predicted in a statement that the committee he heads will recommend legislation to provide the American people with a truer picture of the ways in which money is spent to influence congress.

He emphasized the results of a questionnaire survey which his group made among corporations, saying it shows many times as much money actually spent for that purpose as has been reported under the present lobbying law.

Questionnaires similar to those sent to the business corporations also were sent to farm groups and labor organizations. Reports covering their replies are in preparation, the committee said. Some members of congress also have called attention to what they term large-scale lobbying by executive officials of the government in an effort to influence congress.

Buchanan said 152 corporations, including some of the country's largest, reported spending more than $32,000,000 in the past three years in activities "relating to attempts to influence legislation." He contrasted that with $750,000 reported by the same concerns in the registration of lobbyists.

Buchanan, as chairman of the investigating committee, sent questionaires to 182 corporations. A few corporations made no reply; others said some of the questions asked did not apply to them,

Indiana, UCLA, Florida Featured In Grid Upsets

By Will Grimsley

New York, Oct. 21. —(AP)— Once mighty Notre Dame dropped its second game of the season today —bowing to Indiana, 20-7—and upsets again jarred college football's first ten.

Twice-beaten U. C. L. A. handed bowl-minded Stanford its first setback of the year, 21-7, at Los Angeles. Stanford was rated sixth in the last Associated Press poll.

Maryland, ranked eighth nationally, fell before North Carolina State, 16-13, while Illinois smashed Washington, No. 10, from the ranks of the unbeaten and untied in an intersectional game at Champaign, 20-13.

Underdog Florida added its pitch to the topsy-turvy campaign by stunning Vanderbilt, 31-27, to spoil the Commodores' perfect record.

Otherwise, scattered gridiron activities followed pretty close to the script with Army and Oklahoma extending football's current longest unbeaten streaks at the expense of mild opponents.

Army, top - ranked nationally, rolled over Harvard at Cambridge, 49-0, taking it easy in the final half. The Cadets now have gone 24 games without a defeat.

Oklahoma's Sooners won their 25th in a row, crushing Kansas State 58-0.

Bobby Robertson, who lives only a few miles from the Notre Dame campus, led fired-up Indiana to its triumph over the fighting Irish at Bloomington. He scored two touchdowns and gave an outstanding all-around exhibition.

The setback, following the 28-14 loss to Purdue, assures Notre Dame, the defending national champion, of its worst season since 1945. It was the first Indiana victory over the Irish since 1906.

Meanwhile, Navy, a sleeping giant of a football team, rose up with a violent start and whipped Southern California, 27-14, at Baltimore. It was the first victory of the season for the Middies.

Wisconsin and Yale saw their records smeared for the first time. Wisconsin caught Michigan on the rebound from the Army game and bowed to the Wolverines, 26-13. Cornell, the Ivy League favorite, found Yale as stubborn as

Proclamation Asked For Non-Remilitarization Of Germany And Stabilizing Conditions For Peace-Loving Democratic German State

By William Oatis

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A group of Communist nations headed by Soviet Russia called on the big three western powers tonight to join Russia in a four-point plan for establishment of "a democratic, peace-loving, all-German sovereign government."

A communique of about 2,000 words set forth the ideas adopted at a two-day conference of Soviet Deputy Prime Minister V. M. Molotov and the foreign ministers of seven allied nations at the Czernin palace in Prague.

It called for:

1—A proclamation by the Soviet Union, Britain, France and the United States "that they will not allow remilitarization of Germany and her being dragged into any aggressive plans." They would also pledge to "carryq out the also pledge to "carry out the of a unified, peace loving Democratic German state."

2—"Removal of all hindrances in the road of development of a peaceful German economy." The rehabilitation of German war potential was termed inadmissible.

3—"The undelayed conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany," crreation of a unified German State and withdrawal of all occupation forces a year after signature of the treaty.

4—"Creation of an all-German constitutional council on the basis of a balanced representation of western and eastern Germany, which should prepare for establishment of an interim Democratic, peace loving, all-German sovereign government." The council should "submit pertinent proposals for common approval" of the four occupying powers.

The Russian, American, British and French governments, the communique said, should be invited to consult "concerning the elaboration of the peace treaty" until the all-German government should be set up.

Without elaboration, the communique added that:

"Under given conditions, it is possible to appeal directly to the

TRAP CLOSING

(By The Associated Press)

Seoul, Korea, Sunday, Oct. 22.—(AP)—United Nations forces advanced today toward a North Korean town within 63 miles of Manchuria and also sealed tighter a trap on an estimated 28,000 Reds.

At Suchon, 30 miles north of captured Pyongyang, a task force of U. S. and South Korean troops set out for Kujang, 40 miles farther north.

Its mission was one of mercy. It was trying to find a train reported to be loaded with U. N. war prisoners. But the advance set the pace for three South Korean divisions expected soon to join in a war-ending push all the way to the Manchurian border.

The trap for the 28,000 Reds, first set by 4,100 paratroopers in an air drop Friday at Sunchon and Sukchon, was tightened by two moves.

One was a linkup with the paratroops by the British commonwealth 2th brigade, reported by air observers to have been achieved at Sukchon, about 30 miles north of Pyongyang.

The other was a southwestward thrust out of Pyongyang by the U. S. first cavalry division for 2 miles to the seaport of Chinnampo.

The U. S. 24th division previously had driven up a road near the west coast to one edge of the bay across from the port city.

The task force racing toward Kujang was seeking a trainload of prisoners reported to be hidden in a tunnel. The U. S. eighth army also received a report that 60 U. S. war prisoners had been found murdered at Sunchon.

U. N. GROUP CALLS FOR MAJOR POWER PEACE CONFERENCE

Unanimously Asks For Talks Between U. S., Britain, Russia, China And France

By George Bria

Lake Success, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The U. N. assembly's political committee unanimously endorsed today a Syria-Iraq resolution calling for big power peace talks. The actual vote was 59. Iceland's delegate was absent.

Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky stubbornly attempted to have the Chinese Red regime listed as one of the big powers, but after two rebuffs voted along with the committee in the rare U. N. show of unanimity.

While U. S. Delegate John Foster Dulles approved the proposal, he has warned the world not to get its hopes up. He has repeatedly emphasized that Russia must be judged by her deeds, not words.

The Syria-Iraq proposal recommends that the five permanent security council members—listed in the U. N. charter as China, United States, Russia, Britain and France—consult together on their differences. It sets no date for the talks.

The Big Five, however, agreed after a security council meeting today to meet some time before Tuesday to attempt to solve the impasse over the secretary-general's expiring term.

Such a meeting would be the first session of the Big Five in the spirit of the Syria-Iraq resolution. The security council got nowhere again today in its attempt to agree on a secretarylgeneral. Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik, who has vetoed the renomination of Trygve Lie, then moved for the before-Tuesday big power parley. Actual selection of a secretary-general is up to the assembly, acting on recommendations of the security council.

In the political committee, Vishinsky repeatedly urged the committee against an "ostrich" policy of refusing to identify the Communist Peoples Republic as the representative of China.

"Let's not be like ants, like birds, or like ostriches, who seeing approaching danger, hide their heads under their wings," he declared.

He called on the delegates to "hark with your ears to the ground for the true temper of the people."

After various delegates pointed

ADVANCE HALTED TO AID ONE MAN

Jeeps, Tanks, Trucks Groan To Halt As Plane Pilot Falls

By Tom Lambert

Pyongyang, Korea, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The U. S. advance on Pyongyang once came to a halt for 15 minutes—to help one lone American in distress.

Tanks, guns and troops had been rolling up the road toward the Red north Korean capital through an autumn countryside vivid with color.

Now and then the tanks fired in angry roars. Machineguns chattered their annoyance at targets nearer the road.

Ahead U. S. warplanes bored through the air. Towers of smoke rose from towns and villages where their bombs and jellied gasoline fell.

Dotted trails of smoke puffed from their strafing guns. And then the stutter of the explosions from the 50-caliber cartridges came down the wind.

The riflemen in the advancing column paid little attention to the warplanes.

Then four F-51s came thundering over the column from a swift run on a nearby target.

The men in the column saw one plane waver and jerk up. The plexiglass canopy fell off and flashed end over end in the sunlight.

The fighter plane tipped up on its left wing. It faltered and began its straight and seemingly certain dive to destruction.

At about 300 feet the pilot bailed out. His body hurtled for a moment like a large bomb.

Jeeps, tanks and trucks squealed and groaned to a halt. There was furious profanity aimed either at the enemy gun that may have got him or at the mechanical failure. They knew not which.

"Well, let's go," a medical sergeant shouted. Medics carrying a litter ran into the field.

The threeother F-51s flew over their fallen comrade in tight whining circles They waggled their wings, guiding the medics through the rice field.

The advance on Pyongyang was forgotten. Swearing infantrymen jumped from the trucks and started into the field. A tank lurched down from the road after them.

There was a village out there and the enemy could be lurking. And infantrymen love pilots for battering and softening the enemy—if men can be said to love those they never see face to face.

The medics found the pilot beneath the great white blossom of the opened parachute.

There was a blue bruise on his forehead. A thin streak of blood, like a red pencil mark, ran from his mouth.

A medic felt his pulse. "He's still alive," he said.

The medics picked up the pilot carefully. They carried the letter off across the field and over a muddy stream.

They placed the pilot on the waiting tank. Good, the riflemen said, he's still alive. Then tank, medics, riflemen and the injured pilot went back to the road.

They put the pilot in a jeep ambulance and it went back down the road to the rear. The column moved on again toward Pyongyang.

It was a good 15 minutes spent, the riflemen thought, even though it was 15 minutes lost in the race with south Koreans to Pyongyang.

An hour later the ambulance jeep came back. The riflemen in the column looked at the medic.

"The pilot died," the medic said

LEGION WEEK UP IN OBSERVANCE

Mayor Coon Proclaims Current Period Devoted To Legionaires

The week of October 22-28 will be designated American Legion Week, it was announced today by Alex C. Lea, commander of L. B. Faulk Post Number 13 of Monroe. Mayor John E. Coon of Monroe has issued a proclamation to that effect.

Commander Lea stated that the local post is making every effort to reach a record membership this year, in pursuit of the goal of 50,000 Louisiana Legionnaires set by State Commander Claude Duval. Every afternoon and until 8 o'clock every evening during American Legion Week, Legionnaire Edith Farris will be on hand in the lobby of the Virginia Hotel to register new members and receive dues from old members, Commander Lea reported.

"American Legion Week is the high-point of our current membership drive,' Lea stated, "and we want to use this opportunity to give publicity to some of the purposes and projects of the legion.

"It is the world's largest organization of veterans, and it continues to enroll a majority of the service men and women each year. There's good reason for that. The American Legion offers the ideal vehicle to every war veteran for making his continued service to community, state and nation count the most.

"There is a place in the legion for every man and woman who has served in the armed forces of our great nation. We need all the help we can get in the furtherance of our programs for the welfare of disabled veterans, of war widows, of war orphans and all other underprivileged children. We need even more help in our fight for national security (both external and internal) and in pursuing our aim of 100 per cent Americanism in government.

"Veterans in the Monroe area can render service by becoming members of L. B. Faulk Post Number 13 of the American Legion. In return for that service, they will find in the legion a good fellowship that can be found nowhere else; and they will achieve the satisfaction of being potent factors in building a better and greater America to make their own personal wartime sacrifices worth while," Commander Lea concluded.

WHEREAS, The American Legion has always and at all times dedicated itself towards the advancement and betterment of the community throughout the land, and,

WHEREAS, The American Legion through its veteran membership stands as a mighty guardian against the inroads of communism in these critical times, and,

WHEREAS, the Louisiana Department of the American Legion has declared the week of October LEGION WEEK,during which time it calls all eligible veterans of the Great Wars to join its ranks in its fight against all enemies which threaten our great American way of life, and,

WHEREAS, it is deemed fitting and proper at this time to publicly commend this great organization for its fine record and for its achievements,

WE, NOW THEREFORE, by virtue of the power vested in us as Mayor's of the Twin Cities of Monroe and West Monroe, Louisiana, do proclaim the week of October 21st to October 29th, 1950, American Legion Week and do urge and recommend that our citizenry assist and support the program of the American Legion in our community, state and nation.

PARENTS ATTEND P-TA DAD'S NIGHT

Rev. Staples Discusses Freedom To Grow Spiritually

Seventy-five mothers and fathers were privileged to hear an address by Rev. R. H. Staples, pastor First Methodist Church, West Monroe, when he was guest speaker at the Selman Parent-Teacher association, Thursday evening. This night had been designated as fathers night—and they took advantage of it.

Rev. Staples chose as his subject for discussion, "Freedom to Grow Spiritually." He said in part: "Spirituality has no meaning without personality—and personality is dependent on spiritual life to be complete and well-rounded. Spiritual resources are a vital necessity. We are beginning to realize that man, with all his knowledge and skill, with all his scientific knowledge and wisdom, must have spiritual balance, else he might use his scientific knowledge for his ultimate distruction instead of for ultimate good. We have drifted away from the spiritual life-living without spiritual resources—but we must come back to the spiritual life and God. We must realize that spiritual content is all-important and that all else without it is futile. Spiritual content must be a part of our very being—a definite part of us.

"Life is not complete without being balanced by spiritual resources. As teachers you have a great responsibility, that of moulding the characters of children—but the task is simplified if you have the spiritual balance that is a necessity in your life. With this guiding hand of God your task as teachers and moulders of characters becomes not a task but a great privilege."

Mrs. J. H. Alford presiding during the business session reminded the group of the clothes bank for underprivileged children. Mrs. C. M. Crawford reported the plan for a chicken spaghetti supper to be held at the Selman cafeteria Saturday, November 18. Tickets will be on sale in the near future.

Mrs. W. T. Smith, Jr., reported the completion of teachers lounge No. 1 in H. Building No. 1.

Mrs. Paul Bauer, sixth grade and Mrs. G. B. Wilson, fifth grade tied for the room award by having the same number of parents present.

NOW IS SERGEANT

Mrs. Laura E. Luttrell, Route 2, West Monroe, was delighted to hear the past week that her son Cpl. Grady A. Luttrell, with the signal corps in the training center at Camp Gordon, Ga., has been promoted to the rank of sergeant. He entered armed services two years ago.

ADVANCE HALTED TO AID ONE MAN

Jeeps, Tanks, Trucks Groan To Halt As Plane Pilot Falls

By Tom Lambert

Pyongyang, Korea, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The U. S. advance on Pyongyang once came to a halt for 15 minutes—to help one lone American in distress.

Tanks, guns and troops had been rolling up the road toward the Red north Korean capital through an autumn countryside vivid with color.

Now and then the tanks fired in angry roars. Machineguns chattered their annoyance at targets nearer the road.

Ahead U. S. warplanes bored through the air. Towers of smoke rose from towns and villages where their bombs and jellied gasoline fell.

Dotted trails of smoke puffed from their strafing guns. And then the stutter of the explosions from the 50-caliber cartridges came down the wind.

The riflemen in the advancing column paid little attention to the warplanes.

Then four F-51s came thundering over the column from a swift run on a nearby target.

The men in the column saw one plane waver and jerk up. The plexiglass canopy fell off and flashed end over end in the sunlight.

The fighter plane tipped up on its left wing. It faltered and began its straight and seemingly certain dive to destruction.

At about 300 feet the pilot bailed out. His body hurtled for a moment like a large bomb.

Jeeps, tanks and trucks squealed and groaned to a halt. There was furious profanity aimed either at the enemy gun that may have got him or at the mechanical failure. They knew not which.

"Well, let's go," a medical sergeant shouted. Medics carrying a litter ran into the field.

The threeother F-51s flew over their fallen comrade in tight whining circles They waggled their wings, guiding the medics through the rice field.

The advance on Pyongyang was forgotten. Swearing infantrymen jumped from the trucks and started into the field. A tank lurched down from the road after them.

There was a village out there and the enemy could be lurking. And infantrymen love pilots for battering and softening the enemy—if men can be said to love those they never see face to face.

The medics found the pilot beneath the great white blossom of the opened parachute.

There was a blue bruise on his forehead. A thin streak of blood, like a red pencil mark, ran from his mouth.

A medic felt his pulse. "He's still alive," he said.

The medics picked up the pilot carefully. They carried the letter off across the field and over a muddy stream.

They placed the pilot on the waiting tank. Good, the riflemen said, he's still alive. Then tank, medics, riflemen and the injured pilot went back to the road.

They put the pilot in a jeep ambulance and it went back down the road to the rear. The column moved on again toward Pyongyang.

It was a good 15 minutes spent, the riflemen thought, even though it was 15 minutes lost in the race with south Koreans to Pyongyang.

An hour later the ambulance jeep came back. The riflemen in the column looked at the medic.

"The pilot died," the medic said

Mayor Coon Proclaims Current Period Devoted To Legionaires

The week of October 22-28 will be designated American Legion Week, it was announced today by Alex C. Lea, commander of L. B. Faulk Post Number 13 of Monroe. Mayor John E. Coon of Monroe has issued a proclamation to that effect.

Commander Lea stated that the local post is making every effort to reach a record membership this year, in pursuit of the goal of 50,000 Louisiana Legionnaires set by State Commander Claude Duval. Every afternoon and until 8 o'clock every evening during American Legion Week, Legionnaire Edith Farris will be on hand in the lobby of the Virginia Hotel to register new members and receive dues from old members, Commander Lea reported.

"American Legion Week is the high-point of our current membership drive,' Lea stated, "and we want to use this opportunity to give publicity to some of the purposes and projects of the legion.

"It is the world's largest organization of veterans, and it continues to enroll a majority of the service men and women each year. There's good reason for that. The American Legion offers the ideal vehicle to every war veteran for making his continued service to community, state and nation count the most.

"There is a place in the legion for every man and woman who has served in the armed forces of our great nation. We need all the help we can get in the furtherance of our programs for the welfare of disabled veterans, of war widows, of war orphans and all other underprivileged children. We need even more help in our fight for national security (both external and internal) and in pursuing our aim of 100 per cent Americanism in government.

"Veterans in the Monroe area can render service by becoming members of L. B. Faulk Post Number 13 of the American Legion. In return for that service, they will find in the legion a good fellowship that can be found nowhere else; and they will achieve the satisfaction of being potent factors in building a better and greater America to make their own personal wartime sacrifices worth while," Commander Lea concluded.

WHEREAS, The American Legion has always and at all times dedicated itself towards the advancement and betterment of the community throughout the land, and,

WHEREAS, The American Legion through its veteran membership stands as a mighty guardian against the inroads of communism in these critical times, and,

WHEREAS, the Louisiana Department of the American Legion has declared the week of October LEGION WEEK,during which time it calls all eligible veterans of the Great Wars to join its ranks in its fight against all enemies which threaten our great American way of life, and,

WHEREAS, it is deemed fitting and proper at this time to publicly commend this great organization for its fine record and for its achievements,

WE, NOW THEREFORE, by virtue of the power vested in us as Mayor's of the Twin Cities of Monroe and West Monroe, Louisiana, do proclaim the week of October 21st to October 29th, 1950, American Legion Week and do urge and recommend that our citizenry assist and support the program of the American Legion in our community, state and nation.

JOHN E. COON, Mayor of City of Monroe, La.
C. C. BELL, Mayor of City of West Monroe, La.

Rev. Staples Discusses Freedom To Grow Spiritually

Seventy-five mothers and fathers were privileged to hear an address by Rev. R. H. Staples, pastor First Methodist Church, West Monroe, when he was guest speaker at the Selman Parent-Teacher association, Thursday evening. This night had been designated as fathers night—and they took advantage of it.

Rev. Staples chose as his subject for discussion, "Freedom to Grow Spiritually." He said in part: "Spirituality has no meaning without personality—and personality is dependent on spiritual life to be complete and well-rounded. Spiritual resources are a vital necessity. We are beginning to realize that man, with all his knowledge and skill, with all his scientific knowledge and wisdom, must have spiritual balance, else he might use his scientific knowledge for his ultimate distruction instead of for ultimate good. We have drifted away from the spiritual life-living without spiritual resources—but we must come back to the spiritual life and God. We must realize that spiritual content is all-important and that all else wihout it is futile. Spiritual content must be a part of our very being—a definite part of us.

"Life is not complete without being balanced by spiritual resources. As teachers you have a great responsibility, that of moulding the characters of children—but the task is simplified if you have the spiritual balance that is a necessity in your life. With this guiding hand of God your task as teachers and moulders of characters becomes not a task but a great privilege."

Mrs. J. H. Alford presiding during the business session reminded the group of the clothes bank for underprivileged children. Mrs. O. M. Crawford reported the plans for a chicken spaghetti supper to be held at the Selman cafeteria, Saturday, November 18. Tickets will be on sale in the near future.

Mrs. T. T. Smith, Jr., reported the completion of teachers lounge No. 1 in H. Building No. 1.

Mrs. Paul Bauer, sixth grade, and Mrs. G. B. Wilson, fifth grade tied for the room award by having the same number of parents present.

NOW IS SERGEANT

Mrs. Laura E. Luttrell, Route 2, West Monroe, was delighted to hear the past week that her son, Cpl. Grady A. Luttrell, with the signal corps in the training center at Camp Gordon, Ga., has been promoted to the rank of sergeant. he entered armed services two years ago.

If Ike Wants G.O.P. Nomination?

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's endorsement of General Eisenhower for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination probably has to be regarded as the opening gun in that campaign, even though it's a long way off.

Since Dewey frequently disclaims interest in political office only to reverse himself later, this pronouncement can hardly be taken as his final word on 1952. But certainly it represents his present estimate of his own chances for another G. O. P. nomination at that time.

If circumstances have altered in the interim, it would be no great surprise to learn that the governor had again made himself availabe. This is not intended to be a caustic judgment of the governor, but ony a recognition of the fact that he has the presidential bug and probably won't be rid of it until he's too old to serve. He's not the only man ever to be bitten thus.

Eisenhower promptly denied, as he has many times before in different ways, that he has any presidential ambitions. Those who want him to make the race profess to see in his denials some loopholes through which he could later squeeze should he change his mind.

It may be that the general would be willing to accept the nomination if he were genuinely drafted by the Republicans and thus could enter the political wars free of any entangling alliances.

But the brutal truth is that there have been few real drafts in political history. Getting a nomination is something you work at. If you keep saying you don't want it, a lot of people will take you seriously and look elsewhere. You have to indicate somewhere along the line, privately perhaps at first, that you are really available.

It takes skillful maneuvering, once you've made up your mind to seek the nomination, to line up the delegates you need to win. A half-hearted effort is no effort at all.

So if the general does have any notions lurking in the back of his mind, he must soon decide whether to translate them into a real try or forget them. And he must pass the word to those he wants to help him; the nomination isn't gained without assistance.

There's plenty of evidence Eisenhower could get that aid if he wants it. Dewey has publicly endorsed him and presumably would back him in the convention if he wins the governorship and controls the New York delegation. Gov. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania, now bidding for a U. S. senate seat, is known to look favorably n the general's candidacy.

But even among his backers there's a feeling of uncertainty not alone about his possible intentions but about his political know-how. Some think he's extremely green as a political thinker and fear this would mean he would have to rely too heavily on the advice of others should he plunge in.

However this may be, it is plain that Eisenhower cannot wait more than perhaps another six months to act, behind the scenes at least, if he has any real wish for the presidency. To let matters drag beyond that time would be to make clear that his mind is irrevocably set against a political career unless a draft forces it upon him.

There's A Name For You!

Much of the news from Indo-China these days is pretty bleak. But there has turned up recently in that news an organization which, whatever its merits or demerits, showed extraordinary imagination in the choice of its name.

We speak of the Vietnam Renovation League. This body, which claims seven million members, has as its theme, "throw ALL the rascals out"—French and Communists alike. We suspect there are many areas right here in America that could use the services of a "Renovation League," if for nothing more than to clear the air after this strenuous electioneering season is over.

On second thought, what a name this would be for a civic group to be devoted to the renovation of the Washington bureaucracy.

Firmer "Voice"

Armed with about three times its previous resources in funds, the "Voice of America" program is now confronted with the problem of devising a strong political message, without getting into the field of blatant propaganda. The line of distinction is a difficult one to draw. In one sense, all official programs are suspect.

Hitherto the "Voice" broadcasts have given a general picture of life in the United States, hoping through such varied fare, written as objective news, to spread the virtues of the democratic tradition. The Russian output, not limited to even approximate truth, is from 10 to 15 times greater than the American in volume. The "Voice" cannot compete with this volume, much less with such disregard for facts.

What the "Voice" can do, its executives feel, is to get tougher—that is, to give the American point of view a clear advantage over conflicting points of view, to broadcast a hard-hitting political message without getting into the field of psychological warfare. That means that no effort will now be made to persuade countries behind the Iron Curtain to attempt to throw off Communist domination.

A program for Asia, the most troublesome area, and for Russia's non-Communist neighbors, such as Iran and the Turkish Republic, will not be effective unless it convines such countries that the west is strong. Part of that strength must be shown in military and economic aid.

American leadership in the world fight against Communist expansion must, in other words, be unified. Each part of the international effort must be integrated with and support the other parts. One of the important components is the "Voice of America" which congress recognizes with increasing funds for its work. It is up to the "Voice" now to prove that it knows how to use these resources to effective advantage.

WALTER WINCHELL

Oh, No! Not Another TV Critic?

Fred Allen,who was TV's first critic, is now surrounded by them. . . . We do not mean the new oracles who have popped up in the newspapers covering this and that new program. . . . We mean that devastating critical fraternity in the homes of the nation, from Mr. and Mrs. down to their broods, whose opinions decide the Nielsens, Hoopers and Pulses week after week. . . . Not all of the televiewers in their parlors are impressed so much by what an entertainer has to offer as they are by his or her personal appeal. . . . One commentator, frinstance, who was orating on what the Korean War meant to us all, was voted down not because of his continuity but because he had a distracting blink. . . . "I don't like his face!" one of the clan announced and she switched over to a dull comic. The commentator's opinions are quoted by editorialists all over the land! . . . At any rate, here are a few more constructive complaints, which are happily offered to all concerned to improve their acts.

TV is the Brat of the show world, a pain in the neck to its elders. . . . It has raided the legit of its temples, the movies of their audiences and it even had night baseball (last year's brat) whimpering. . . . It is such an ingrate it has even turned on its pappy, the barroom. . . . TV is still in the second hand business. . . . It has thefted everything radio has except its best punch—the sound effects. . . . It has worked the miracle of bringing back from the dead some acts that perished when big-time vaudeville died, and it is headlining flickers that would have had to bribe their way into the bottom section of a double-feature. . . . The dramas are also reissues, mostly plays the movies spurned.

But Television has scored several knockouts. . . . It made a monkey of Hollywood by working first rate shows out of books and dramas that had too many bright ideas for the flickers to handle. . . . TV has been bold enough to consider that some of the audience is over 12 years old, and it takes chances on unknown talent. . . . That is a lot more courage than Broadway's had lately.

The Big Ticket right now on TV is the "Boo!" program, gun epics and psycho sagas, with casualties like war. They are expertly done in half light and the actors using their scariest ghost story voices. . . . Comedy gets a fast brush, except in the musicals, where it is supplied by the star comic from what he's bought or burgled. . . . Sponsors claim that comedy Does Not Get Over. . . . Meaning that there's no audience to guffaw on signal.

Video, which was supposed to be supreme on sports, isn't always so gideo even there. . . . It handles boxing well and it is aces on the roller-skate pratt falls, but it gives you ball games in fragments, racing with a hellandgone lens, and the tough cameras make wrestling look even phonier than it is. . . . Besides, the sports reporters gab too much, not always their fault, since they must figure on picture tubes blowing. . . . The forums are entertaining, especially if the orators get sore at each other and they have a topic a little more up-to-date than bobbed hair. . . . TV's best scoop to date was Eisenhower's "Crusade in Europe," which is neither geewhiz nor jingo, but one of the best documentaries.

News programs need re-staging. . . . The hottest news of the day would seem to be the reporter himself, judging by the film footage he gets. . . . A gabby closeup is hard to take even when the face belongs to Miss Grable. . . . The program spots a few films along the way, pulse-quickening views of parades in Europe, usually. . . . News reporters appear to be striving to look like fashion plates, instead of newspaper people, and nobody is fooled by those who look straight at you without a script in their hands—as though they memorized the bulletins. . . . They are reading them off a blackboard, of course, but you'd never know they were doing that unless you looked at them. . . . John Crosby, one of the top-flighters among the critics, recently inscribed: "Television's news shows, so far, are no improvement on radio news shows—in fact, they're not as good."

One thing the upstart medium has is plenty of talent, mostly on the cutie side. If it is smart enough to favor cheese-cake and closeups of pretties. . . . Some of those closeups are good enough to repay the networks for all the expense. . . . But, girls, don't let these artistic jokers shoot your beautiful faces from below. . . . The upward sweeps of the camera makes everybody, boys and girls, look like Peter Lorre trying to appear at his worst. . . . This is no reflection on Mr. Lorre's face. Just a reminder that he had it first.

The "aside," which was dicsarded when the theater left the Bowery, gets a big play in TV dramas. . . . Only it is several hundred words longer now. . . . It is a quick way of presenting the plot and it probably gives the camera man time to get a cup of coffee. . . . The Private Eyes are much more fearless than their brothers in the cinema. Ralph Bellamy, frinstance, has taken so many loaded guns away from would-be assassins that it might pep up his show if they covered him with one. . . . Every parlor game but post-office has had a fling. . . . One of these days a shrewd sponsor is going to offer one that permits the audience to have as much fun as the performers seem to have.

Some of the brightest chicks, Fay Emerson, Wendy Barrie, Ilka Chase, Maggi McNellis, to name a handful, deftly handle smarty crossfire with guests. . . . All the amateur nights are now called talent tests. . . . Having found a new word for "amateur," they'd better think of something else to call Talent.

Just the same, TV has come up with a number of shows that Broadway and Hollywood could look at with profit. . . . "Lights Out" is back to its bigtime standard, and "Studio One" is another expert offering. . . . Some of the items on "Suspense" and the magnificent "Goldberg" are other musts. . . . "Your Show of Shows" is a welcome visitor, "This Is Show Business," even with its minor flaw, is good, and M. Berle often tops musical shows getting $6 a seat across town.

The movies are playing a sulky ostrich about TV, pretending you can't see it. . . . These Hollywood die-hards are the heirs of the men who went broke waiting for the talkie fad to blow over two decades ago. . . . The performer who breaks your heart quickest is the clown, who has to protect himself from kiddie guests. He smiles and chuckles and pats their little heads while they step on his laughs, smash his props and wreck his act. He must be getting money for it. . . . It's a grim life for singers. . . . After studying in Europe, struggling up to the Met, they appear on TV and what happens? The commercial brings on an animated bottle that can sing rings around them.

FLIGHT FROM THE DOLLAR

We are seeing some indications lately that we are reaching that final, and fatal, stage of inflation —flight from money. This is the "fear stage" when people put their money into most anything tangible rather than keep it, knowing that it is steadily declining in value, knowing that it will buy less and less as the days go by. It is the stage when people unload helter-skelter securities of fixed value, when securities with fixed income are hard to sell, when government bonds in particular decline in value.

It is early yet to tell whether our inflation will run its full course to disaster in the present movement. We still have great resources, great productive capacity great resiliency in this nation. Steps may be taken that will check the movement for the time being before it reaches the panic stage.

Some people are inclined to blame this movement on the Korean War and preparations for the possibility of World War III. This is not correct. The movement is undoubtedly being spurred on by these events but it was not caused by them. The whole trend in this country for the last twenty years has been towards disastrous inflation. It is bound to come, sooner or later, unless we reverse this trend. And there is no sign now apparent, even on the faraway horizon, that it will be reversed. The only hope lies in the common sense of the American people, in their finally realizing the danger that threatens our economy and therefore our form of government and in their demanding a leadership that will return this nation to the sound economic principles upon which it was founded and has been built.

This is a much bigger question than politics. It is a question of the survival of this nation. We must demand a leadership, whether it be Democrat or Republican, that will return us to a sound economy. We must demand a leadership that will ask for economy instead of controls. For eighteen of the last twenty years, this government has spent more than it has received. It is during the last five years in particular that we can see how wedded our government has become to inflation. By all normal measures, these were years of extreme prosperity when we should have balanced our budget and when we should have been making payments on the national debt. Yet during these years our government spent more money than was spent during the 152 years of our national existence up to the beginning of the Second World War.

Now that we are in World War 11½ and threatened with World War III, we are having to enormously increase our military expenditures again. There is no getting around that; we must be prepared to win whatever war is forced upon us. This is a heavy burden to lay upon the American people with our economy in its present shape. It can only be borne by governmental economizing at every turn; it cannot be borne by controls and taxation. It is entirely possible that the entire additional cost of increased preparedness could be met with cuts in non-defense expenditures. On the other hand, it is also possible that excessive taxation and governmental controls could destroy this na-

THESE DAYS

ARSENAL OF DEFENSE

No matter how excited we naturally become over the prowess and heroism of our troops, the Korean war, as World War I and World War II, has established the fact that the realistic strength of this country lies in its productive capacity. That is our ace in the hole.

This productive capacity is not due to our abundance of raw materials; Russia is richer n that realm. It is due to a combination of management and labor, to the genius of free men functioning in various capacities in the manufacture of our needs.

The Russans operate under a controlled system, both management and labor being servants of the state. Russian manufactures, even with the assistance of American, German and Britisn managerial skills, were far behind before World War II when the United States poured $11,000,000,000 into that country and gave them our models, plans and managerial skill.

Our great achievement in World War II was in the factory, mill and mine. We so outproduced our enemies that they had no chance. Lloyd W. Hargest, former chief, statistics and reports, and recorder, army-navy production award board of the Pittsburgh ordnance district, has produced a book entitled "to the unsung heroes of the production front," which tells the full story of the army-navy "E" in the Pittsburgh area.

The army-navy "E" evolved from the navy "E," which originated in 1906 and was an award of merit not only to the owners and management of a plant but to the workers. It was an expression of gratitude by the government for excellence of service in the national defense. Mr. Hargest gives the long and complex history of how the army and navy joined in providing a unified "E" and it is astonishing how complicated a simple matter can become once the bureaucrats get hold of t.

In the course of the war, most of the outstanding producers of American products were granted the "E" amid exciting ceremonies, some sooner, some later. The C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. got into the picture and apparently were unable to bring influence to bear in Washington to favor companies that signed up with them and to withhold or delay the award of the "E" to companies that did not have contracts with them.

Mr. Hargest, in this book, devotes considerable space to the troubles of the Weirton Steel Company, which has not had a strike for 17 years, yet whose workers have not been affiliated with the C. I. O. or the A. F. of L. Its "E" award was delayed despite its astonishing productivity and record of firsts, entirely because of C. I. O. objectons to awarding an independent union that would not strike in time of war. When the award was finally granted, the C. I. O. United Steel Workers claimed the credit for getting it for a union which was not affilated with it. The union letter on the subject is quoted by Hargest as saying:

"Yet, in spite of the many records made at Weirton, it is to be remembered that the war production board refused to act on the award until the company agreed to obey the order of the court to comply with the law protecting the right of workers to join the U. S. A.-C. I. O or any union of their choice. It is to be remembered, also, that it was through the gallant fight of the U. S. A.-C. I. O. that the company was forced to comply."

There must be other cases of this nature throughout the United States, but this is the only one reported in this book—instances of the war production board and other agencies of government accepting guidance in public matters from the C. I. O. or the A. F. of L., even in wartime, where all the force of government should be put behind production.

So, we now find that in the midst of war, strikes and threats of strikes continue in various industries. No credit is given those independent unions of free American workers who refuse to strike.

The deeper we get into the present war, the more serious will become this problem of placing union affiliation before the needs of the country. There is no evidence that the C. I. O. is willing to serve this country, without strikes, disturbances and stoppages as our boys are doing at the front. Nobody strikes in Korea or asks the C. I. O's permission to fight.

"Dear Sir:

"As a member of the legislature from West Carroll parish I desire to register a protest in the way school lunches of the state are administered. The state legislature at the last session voted the sum of eight and one-half million dollars against the sum of another million by the federal government, to see that Louisiana school children were fed properly during the current school year.

"But this sum is going to be woefully short before the year ends and why? It is because school teachers and other employes of the schools ring in on these 'give away' lunches. They are not entitled and were never disposed to so participate. If they were debarred, there would then be enough money left to carry though the school year.

"I know teachers and others who have been fed at public expense will go after me with axs, but I maintain that my position is correct and I feel assured that the administration heads in Baton Rouge are of the same opinion as myself."

Okaloosa Plans For Halloween

A Halloween Carnival is planned by Okaloosa High School Faculty and students for Thursday, October 26. Various concessions will begin operating at 7 p.m. The first entertainment of the evening will be a musical concert presented by the Crosley Elementary School band under the direction of Mrs. C. S. King.

The faculty wishes to take this means to thank the merchants of the Twin Cities who were so generous in donating lovely prizes to use in the concessions.

J. H. McCullen, principal of the school, and the parents in the community urge those in the surrounding communities to visit the school for this gala occasion.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

IT COULDN'T, IT SHOULDN'T

Last night at Lindy's a bunch of us were discussing what, for want of a better term, I'll call the inevitability of the impossible.

"The most improbable yarn I ever heard," said Deems Taylor, "is the one about a missionary named Renault who was captured in 1948 by a tribe of cannibals in French Equatorial Africa.

"According to a report in the files out at the U. N., just as they were about to roast him over a fire, shish-kebob style, the missionary fell to his knees and asked the Lord to have mercy on his servant, Renault. And when the cannibal chief heard the name, he untied him and told him to go about his business.

"No, it wasn't the prayer that did the trick—it seems that six months before, they had cooked and eaten another gent named Renault and he had turned out to be tough and tasteless."

"I know an equally implausible story," I piped up. "The one about the clerk in Tacoma, Washington, who was handed five thousand dollars to buy insurance for a bridge that was under construction. The fellow had never stolen a nickel in his life, but this was one temptation he couldn't stand off—what in the name of the five Ringling Brothers could happen to a bridge?

"Suiting misdeed to thought, the clerk went to Reno and blew in the whole five grand on a couple of gals, and then, the night before he was due to start back, the Mayor of Tacoma phoned and wanted to know about the insurance. It seemed that the bridge—the famous Galloping Gertie of the newsreels—had come apart at the seams and fallen into the gorge."

"The believe-it-or-not that tops them all is the one about Charles Coghlan," said Eugene Burr who writes the theatre pieces for Playbill.

'Charles who?" asked.

"Coghlan," said Burr, "the actor who used to play opposite Lily Langtry back in the last century. When he was 50, he bought himself a farm on Prince Edward Island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and quit the stage for what he thought was good. A few years later, however, Forbes-Robertson made him a very attractive offer to play Mercutio in a touring production of 'Romeo and Juliet,' and while Coghlan hated to leave the island, he couldn't afford to turn the offer down. In one season he'd earn enough to be able to live comfortably the rest of his life.

"When his neighbors came down to the boat to see him off, the actor assured them that, come heaven or high water, he'd return when his tour was ended. And he did—but it took both heaven and high water, and in that order, to arrange it.

"Heaven got into the act shortly after the tour started—in Galveston he suffered a heart attack and died, and was buried in a cemetery not far from the sea. The high water came a year later, September 8, 1900, when a tidal wave hit Galveston, drowned six thousand people and washed away a good part of the waterfront, including most of the coffins in the cemetery.

"Some months after the disaster, a fisherman on Prince Edward Island went down to the beach one morning to inspect his nets, and found a coffin which had washed up on the sands.

"On it was a brass plate with the name 'Charles Coghlan'—the actor, with an assist from the Gulf Stream, had made good his promise to return."

The national security resources board has quite a few balls and chains to drag in its drive to build up emergency stockpiles, because it has failed to obtain the full cooperation of congress.

The shining example is copper, upon which United States government and private consumers continue to pay an import tax of two cents per pound, even though domestic production falls short of meeting demand by 60,000 tons per month.

If it were not for the present emergency and the terrific task set for NSRB under Chairman W. Stuart Symington, the copper situation wouldn't be worthy of note, for import taxes on some commodities are highly important to several sections of the country. But critical defense needs would seem to change the picture, and in regard to copper they are highly critical, for it ranks next to iron and steel among the nation's vitally required metals. The two cent tax, imposed in 1932 was suspended during World War II but the suspension expired last June.

Chile is the great source of foreign copper, and the United States is its big customer. During World War II, Chile and the U. S. agreed on a price of 12½ cents per pound, about half the world price, and the difference was made up half by the Chilean government, half by the Anaconda and Montana copper interests which own more than three fourths of the Chilean mines. Despite this predominant American ownership, copper has almost a major part in Chilean economy, because of the huge mining payrolls and strong Communist and Falangist pressure to force trade agreements with other countries which would keep copper away from the United States.

After President Truman and the U. S. ambassador to Chile, aging Claude Bowers, the historian, had assured the Chilean president, Gonzalez Videla, that the copper import tax would be repealed, nine states, where three of them—George Malone (R.-Nev.), Eugene Millikin (R.-Colo.), and Carl Hayden (D.-Ariz.) are candidates for re-election, blocked repeated attempts by administration spokesmen to repeal the tax between its restoration on June 30 and the adjournment of congress.

The argument for the tax was that domestic copper resources should be more fully developed, though repeated governmental surveys have shown that domestic copper development is at its peak and additional deposits could only be developed at costs generally higher than the market price.

The two cents tax so far has strained the good relations established between Chile and the U. S. when President Videla visited Washington last April, boosted stock piling costs and given the Commies in Chile another argument against the good neighbor policy.

A good bartender is a jewel, it is generally recognized here, but everyone behind a bar isn't a bartender. Furthermore, the professional mixologists usually dress like the guests, which adds to the confusion.

At a small cocktail party, a guest stepped up to the equally small bar, asked for a martini, got it quick as a wink, accompanied by a genial "There you are, old boy!" The guest was a little on the huffy side, asked what agency had supplied that bartender?

His laugh was a little forced when he found the man tending bar was professor Ted Acheson of George Washington University, brother of Secretary of State Dean Acheson. The story gets repetitious when it is recalled, that the same thing happened at a party given by Roy St. Lewis, former Oklahoma attorney now practicing in Washington. There the "bartender" who served several guests before anyone recognized him was Claude Wickard, former secretary of agriculture. It turned out that neither host had a special bartender.

Introduced at an Overseas Writers luncheon by Columnist Peter Edson, the club president, as having been included by Madeleine Carroll, the movie actress, in a list of the world's ten handsomest men, W. Averell Harriman, now special assistant to President Truman on foreign affairs, remarked:

"Well, I was flattered. But you must remember, she also included George Bernard Shaw."

Millsaps School To Hold Carnival

The annual Hallo'ween carnival will be held by the Millsaps school P.-T. A. at the school on Friday, October 27, beginning at 7 o'clock. There will be a cake walk, bingo games. fish pond, white elephant sales, picture show, and pony rides Candy, peanuts, and popcorn will be sold. Coffee and cake will be served in the lunchroom.

Money derived from this carnival will be used by the P-T. A. to carry out the projects planned for this session, one of which is a piano to be placed in the new lunchroom-auditorium to be built at the school in the near future.

If Ike Wants G.O.P. Nomination?

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's endorsement of General Eisenhower for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination probably has to be regarded as the opening gun in that campaign, even though it's a long way off.

Since Dewey frequently disclaims interest in political office only to reverse himself later, this pronouncement can hardly be taken as his final word on 1952. But certainly it represents his present estimate of his own chances for another G. O. P. nomination at that time.

If circumstances have altered in the interim, it would be no great surprise to learn that the governor had again made himself availabe. This is not intended to be a caustic judgment of the governor, but ony a recognition of the fact that he has the presidential bug and probably won't be rid of it until he's too old to serve. He's not the only man ever to be bitten thus.

Eisenhower promptly denied, as he has many times before in different ways, that he has any presidential ambitions. Those who want him to make the race profess to see in his denials some loopholes through which he could later squeeze should he change his mind.

It may be that the general would be willing to accept the nomination if he were genuinely drafted by the Republicans and thus could enter the political wars free of any entangling alliances.

But the brutal truth is that there have been few real drafts in political history. Getting a nomination is something you work at. If you keep saying you don't want it, a lot of people will take you seriously and look elsewhere. You have to indicate somewhere along the line, privately perhaps at first, that you are really available.

It takes skillful maneuvering, once you've made up your mind to seek the nomination, to line up the delegates you need to win. A half-hearted effort is no effort at all.

So if the general does have any notions lurking in the back of his mind, he must soon decide whether to translate them into a real try or forget them. And he must pass the word to those he wants to help him; the nomination isn't gained without assistance.

There's plenty of evidence Eisenhower could get that aid if he wants it. Dewey has publicly endorsed him and presumably would back him in the convention if he wins the governorship and controls the New York delegation. Gov. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania, now bidding for a U. S. senate seat, is known to look favorably n the general's candidacy.

But even among his backers there's a feeling of uncertainty not alone about his possible intentions but about his political know-how. Some think he's extremely green as a political thinker and fear this would mean he would have to rely too heavily on the advice of others should he plunge in.

However this may be, it is plain that Eisenhower cannot wait more than perhaps another six months to act, behind the scenes at least, if he has any real wish for the presidency. To let matters drag beyond that time would be to make clear that his mind is irrevocably set against a political career unless a draft forces it upon him.

There's A Name For You!

Much of the news from Indo-China these days is pretty bleak. But there has turned up recently in that news an organization which, whatever its merits or demerits, showed extraordinary imagination in the choice of its name.

We speak of the Vietnam Renovation League. This body, which claims seven million members, has as its theme, "throw ALL the rascals out"—French and Communists alike. We suspect there are many areas right here in America that could use the services of a "Renovation League," if for nothing more than to clear the air after this strenuous electioneering season is over.

On second thought, what a name this would be for a civic group to be devoted to the renovation of the Washington bureaucracy.

Firmer "Voice"

Armed with about three times its previous resources in funds, the "Voice of America" program is now confronted with the problem of devising a strong political message, without getting into the field of blatant propaganda. The line of distinction is a difficult one to draw. In one sense, all official programs are suspect.

Hitherto the "Voice" broadcasts have given a general picture of life in the United States, hoping through such varied fare, written as objective news, to spread the virtues of the democratic tradition. The Russian output, not limited to even approximate truth, is from 10 to 15 times greater than the American in volume. The "Voice" cannot compete with this volume, much less with such disregard for facts.

What the "Voice" can do, its executives feel, is to get tougher—that is, to give the American point of view a clear advantage over conflicting points of view, to broadcast a hard-hitting political message without getting into the field of psychological warfare. That means that no effort will now be made to persuade countries behind the Iron Curtain to attempt to throw off Communist domination.

A program for Asia, the most troublesome area, and for Russia's non-Communist neighbors, such as Iran and the Turkish Republic, will not be effective unless it convines such countries that the west is strong. Part of that strength must be shown in military and economic aid.

American leadership in the world fight against Communist expansion must, in other words, be unified. Each part of the international effort must be integrated with and support the other parts. One of the important components is the "Voice of America" which congress recognizes with increasing funds for its work. It is up to the "Voice" now to prove that it knows how to use these resources to effective advantage.

Oh, No! Not Another TV Critic?

Fred Allen,who was TV's first critic, is now surrounded by them. . . . We do not mean the new oracles who have popped up in the newspapers covering this and that new program. . . . We mean that devastating critical fraternity in the homes of the nation, from Mr. and Mrs. down to their broods, whose opinions decide the Nielsens, Hoopers and Pulses week after week. . . . Not all of the televiewers in their parlors are impressed so much by what an entertainer has to offer as they are by his or her personal appeal. . . . One commentator, frinstance, who was orating on what the Korean War meant to us all, was voted down not because of his continuity but because he had a distracting blink. . . . "I don't like his face!" one of the clan announced and she switched over to a dull comic. The commentator's opinions are quoted by editorialists all over the land! . . . At any rate, here are a few more constructive complaints, which are happily offered to all concerned to improve their acts.

TV is the Brat of the show world, a pain in the neck to its elders. . . . A gabby closeup is hard to take even when the face belongs to Miss Grable. . . . The program spots a few films along the way, pulse-quickening views of parades in Europe, usually. . . . News reporters appear to be striving to look like fashion plates, instead of newspaper people, and nobody is fooled by those who look straight at you without a script in their hands—as though they memorized the bulletins. . . . They are reading them off a blackboard, of course, but you'd never know they were doing that unless you looked at them. . . . John Crosby, one of the top-flighters among the critics, recently inscribed: "Television's news shows, so far, are no improvement on radio news shows—in fact, they're not as good."

One thing the upstart medium has is plenty of talent, mostly on the cutie side. If it is smart enough to favor cheese-cake and closeups of pretties. . . . Some of those closeups are good enough to repay the networks for all the expense. . . . But, girls, don't let these artistic jokers shoot your beautiful faces from below. . . . The upward sweeps of the camera makes everybody, boys and girls, look like Peter Lorre trying to appear at his worst. . . . This is no reflection on Mr. Lorre's face. Just a reminder that he had it first.

The "aside," which was dicsarded when the theater left the Bowery, gets a big play in TV dramas. . . . Only it is several hundred words longer now. . . . It is a quick way of presenting the plot and it probably gives the camera man time to get a cup of coffee. . . . The Private Eyes are much more fearless than their brothers in the cinema. Ralph Bellamy, frinstance, has taken so many loaded guns away from would-be assassins that it might pep up his show if they covered him with one. . . . Every parlor game but post-office has had a fling. . . . One of these days a shrewd sponsor is going to offer one that permits the audience to have as much fun as the performers seem to have.

Some of the brightest chicks, Fay Emerson, Wendy Barrie, Ilka Chase, Maggi McNellis, to name a handful, deftly handle smarty crossfire with guests. . . . All the amateur nights are now called talent tests. . . . Having found a new word for "amateur," they'd better think of something else to call Talent.

Just the same, TV has come up with a number of shows that Broadway and Hollywood could look at with profit. . . . "Lights Out" is back to its bigtime standard, and "Studio One" is another expert offering. . . . Some of the items on "Suspense" and the magnificent "Goldberg" are other musts. . . . "Your Show of Shows" is a welcome visitor, "This Is Show Business," even with its minor flaw, is good, and M. Berle often tops musical shows getting $6 a seat across town.

The movies are playing a sulky ostrich about TV, pretending you can't see it. . . . These Hollywood die-hards are the heirs of the men who went broke waiting for the talkie fad to blow over two decades ago. . . . The performer who breaks your heart quickest is the clown, who has to protect himself from kiddie guests. He smiles and chuckles and pats their little heads while they step on his laughs, smash his props and wreck his act. He must be getting money for it. . . . It's a grim life for singers. . . . After studying in Europe, struggling up to the Met, they appear on TV and what happens? The commercial brings on an animated bottle that can sing rings around them.

BASCOM TIMMONS

(Bascom N. Timmons is on vacation. During his absence, his column will be written by members of his staff.)

By Charles Gridley

The national security resources board has quite a few balls and chains to drag in its drive to build up emergency stockpiles, because it has failed to obtain the full cooperation of congress.

The shining example is copper, upon which United States government and private consumers continue to pay an import tax of two cents per pound, even though domestic production falls short of meeting demand by 60,000 tons per month.

If it were not for the present emergency and the terrific task set for NSRB under Chairman W. Stuart Symington, the copper situation wouldn't be worthy of note, for import taxes on some commodities are highly important to several sections of the country. But critical defense needs would seem to change the picture, and in regard to copper they are highly critical, for it ranks next to iron and steel among the nation's vitally required metals. The two cent tax, imposed in 1932 was suspended during World War II but the suspension expired last June.

Chile is the great source of foreign copper, and the United States is its big customer. During World War II, Chile and the U. S. agreed on a price of 12½ cents per pound, about half the world price, and the difference was made up half by the Chilean government, half by the Anaconda and Montana copper interests which own more than three fourths of the Chilean mines. Despite this predominant American ownership, copper has almost a major part in Chilean economy, because of the huge mining payrolls and strong Communist and Falangist pressure to force trade agreements with other countries which would keep copper away from the United States.

After President Truman and the U. S. ambassador to Chile, aging Claude Bowers, the historian, had assured the Chilean president, Gonzalez Videla, that the copper import tax would be repealed, nine states, where three of them—George Malone (R.-Nev.), Eugene Millikin (R.-Colo.), and Carl Hayden (D.-Ariz.) are candidates for re-election, blocked repeated attempts by administration spokesmen to repeal the tax between its restoration on June 30 and the adjournment of congress.

The argument for the tax was that domestic copper resources should be more fully developed, though repeated governmental surveys have shown that domestic copper development is at its peak and additional deposits could only be developed at costs generally higher than the market price.

The two cents tax so far has strained the good relations established between Chile and the U. S. when President Videla visited Washington last April, boosted stock piling costs and given the Commies in Chile another argument against the good neighbor policy.

A good bartender is a jewel, it is generally recognized here, but everyone behind a bar isn't a bartender. Furthermore, the professional mixologists usually dress like the guests, which adds to the confusion.

At a small cocktail party, a guest stepped up to the equally small bar, asked for a martini, got it quick as a wink, accompanied by a genial "There you are, old boy!" The guest was a little on the huffy side, asked what agency had supplied that bartender?

His laugh was a little forced when he found the man tending bar was professor Ted Acheson of George Washington University, brother of Secretary of State Dean Acheson. The story gets repetitious when it is recalled, that the same thing happened at a party given by Roy St. Lewis, former Oklahoma attorney now practicing in Washington. There the "bartender" who served several guests before anyone recognized him was Claude Wickard, former secretary of agriculture. It turned out that neither host had a special bartender.

Introduced at an Overseas Writers luncheon by Columnist Peter Edson, the club president, as having been included by Madeleine Carroll, the movie actress, in a list of the world's ten handsomest men, W. Averell Harriman, now special assistant to President Truman on foreign affairs, remarked:

"Well, I was flattered. But you must remember, she also included George Bernard Shaw."

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

ARSENAL OF DEFENSE

No matter how excited we naturally become over the prowess and heroism of our troops, the Korean war, as World War I and World War II, has established the fact that the realistic strength of this country lies in its productive capacity. That is our ace in the hole.

Ths productive capacity is not due to our abundance of raw materials; Russia is richer n that realm. It is due to a combination of management and labor, to the genius of free men functioning in various capacities in the manufacture of our needs.

The Russans operate under a controlled system, both management and labor being servants of the state. Russian manufactures, even with the assistance of American, German and Britisn managerial skills, were far behind before World War II when the United States poured $11,000,000,000 into that country and gave them our models, plans and managerial skill.

Our great achievement in World War II was in the factory, mill and mine. We so outproduced our enemies that they had no chance. Lloyd W. Hargest, former chief, statistics and reports, and recorder, army-navy production award board of the Pittsburgh ordnance district, has produced a book entitled "to the unsung heroes of the production front," which tells the full story of the army-navy "E" in the Pittsburgh area.

The army-navy "E" evolved from the navy "E," which origin. ted in 1906 and was an award of merit not only to the owners and management of a plant but to the workers. It was an expression of gratitude by the government for excellence of service in the national defense. Mr. Hargest gives the long and complex history of how the army and navy joined in providing a unified "E" and it is astonishing how complicated a simple matter can become once the bureaucrats get hold of t.

In the course of the war, most of the outstanding producers of American products were granted the "E" amid exciting ceremonies, some sooner, some later. The C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. got into the picture and apparently were unable to bring influence to bear in Washington to favor companies that signed up with them and to withhold or delay the award of the "E" to companies that did not have contracts with them.

Mr. Hargest, in this book, devotes considerable space to the troubles of the Weirton Steel Company, which has not had a strike for 17 years, yet whose workers have not been affiliated with the C. I. O. or the A. F. of L. Its "E" award was delayed despite its astonishing productivity and record of firsts, entirely because of C. I. O. objectons to awarding an independent union that would not strike in time of war. When the award was finally granted, the C. I. O. United Steel Workers claimed the credit for getting it for a union which was not affilated with it. The union letter on the subject is quoted by Hargest as saying:

"Yet, in spite of the many records made at Weirton, it is to be remembered that the war production board refused to act on the award until the company agreed to obey the order of the court to comply with the law protecting the right of workers to join the U. S. A.-C. I. O or any union of their choice. It is to be remembered, also, that it was through the gallant fight of the U. S. A.-C. I. O. that the company was forced to comply."

There must be other cases of this nature throughout the United States, but this is the only one reported in this book—instances of the war production board and other agencies of government accepting guidance in public matters from the C. I. O. or the A. F. of L., even in wartime, where all the force of government should be put behind production.

So, we now find that in the midst of war, strikes and threats of strikes continue in various industries. No credit is given those independent unions of free American workers who refuse to strike.

The deeper we get into the present war, the more serious will become this problem of placing union affiliation before the needs of the country. There is no evidence that the C. I. O. is willing to serve this country, without strikes, disturbances and stoppages as our boys are doing at the front. Nobody strikes in Korea or asks the C. I. O's permission to fight.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

IT COULDN'T, IT SHOULDN'T

Last night at Lindy's a bunch of us were discussing what, for want of a better term, I'll call the inevitability of the impossible.

"The most improbable yarn I ever heard," said Deems Taylor, "is the one about a missionary named Renault who was captured in 1948 by a tribe of cannibals in French Equatorial Africa.

"According to a report in the files out at the U. N., just as they were about to roast him over a fire, shish-kebob style, the missionary fell to his knees and asked the Lord to have mercy on his servant, Renault. And when the cannibal chief heard the name, he untied him and told him to go about his business.

"No, it wasn't the prayer that did the trick—it seems that six months before, they had cooked and eaten another gent named Renault and he had turned out to be tough and tasteless."

"I know an equally implausible story," I piped up. "The one about the clerk in Tacoma, Washington, who was handed five thousand dollars to buy insurance for a bridge that was under construction. The fellow had never stolen a nickel in his life, but this was one temptation he couldn't stand off—what in the name of the five Ringling Brothers could happen to a bridge?

"Suiting misdeed to thought, the clerk went to Reno and blew in the whole five grand on a couple of gals, and then, the night before he was due to start back, the Mayor of Tacoma phoned and wanted to know about the insurance. It seemed that the bridge—the famous Galloping Gertie of the newsreels—had come apart at the seams and fallen into the gorge."

"The believe-it-or-not that tops them all is the one about Charles Coghlan," said Eugene Burr who writes the theatre pieces for Playbill.

'Charles who?" asked.

"Coghlan," said Burr, "the actor who used to play opposite Lily Langtry back in the last century. When he was 50, he bought himself a farm on Prince Edward Island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and quit the stage for what he thought was good. A few years later, however, Forbes-Robertson made him a very attractive offer to play Mercutio in a touring production of 'Romeo and Juliet,' and while Coghlan hated to leave the island, he couldn't afford to turn the offer down. In one season he'd earn enough to be able to live comfortably the rest of his life.

"When his neighbors came down to the boat to see him off, the actor assured them that, come heaven or high water, he'd return when his tour was ended. And he did—but it took both heaven and high water, and in that order, to arrange it.

"Heaven got into the act shortly after the tour started—in Galveston he suffered a heart attack and died, and was buried in a cemetery not far from the sea. The high water came a year later, September 8, 1900, when a tidal wave hit Galveston, drowned six thousand people and washed away a good part of the waterfront, including most of the coffins in the cemetery.

"Some months after the disaster, a fisherman on Prince Edward Island went down to the beach one morning to inspect his nets, and found a coffin which had washed up on the sands.

"On it was a brass plate with the name 'Charles Coghlan'—the actor, with an assist from the Gulf Stream, had made good his promise to return."

"Dear Sir:

"As a member of the legislature from West Carroll parish I desire to register a protest in the way school lunches of the state are administered. The state legislature at the last session voted the sum of eight and one-half million dollars against the sum of another million by the federal government, to see that Louisiana school children were fed properly during the current school year.

"But this sum is going to be woefully short before the year ends and why? It is because school teachers and other employes of the schools ring in on these 'give away' lunches. They are not entitled and were never disposed to so participate. If they were debarred, there would then be enough money left to carry though the school year.

"I know teachers and others who have been fed at public expense will go after me with axs, but I maintain that my position is correct and I feel assured that the administration heads in Baton Rouge are of the same opinion as myself."

Okaloosa Plans For Halloween

A Halloween Carnival is planned by Okaloosa High School Faculty and students for Thursday, October 26. Various concessions will begin operating at 7 p.m. The first entertainment of the evening will be a musical concert presented by the Crosley Elementary School band under the direction of Mrs. C. S. King.

The faculty wishes to take this means to thank the merchants of the Twin Cities who were so generous in donating lovely prizes to use in the concessions.

J. H. McCullen, principal of the school, and the parents in the community urge those in the surrounding communities to visit the school for this gala occasion.

Millsaps School To Hold Carnival

The annual Hallo'ween carnival will be held by the Millsaps school P.-T. A. at the school on Friday, October 27, beginning at 7 o'clock. There will be a cake walk, bingo games, fish pond, white elephant sales, picture show, and pony rides Candy, peanuts, and popcorn will be sold. Coffee and cake will be served in the lunchroom.

Money derived from this carnival will be used by the P-T. A. to carry out the projects planned for this session, one of which is a piano to be placed in the new lunchroom-auditorium to be built at the school in the near future.

FLIGHT FROM THE DOLLAR

We are seeing some indications lately that we are reaching that final, and fatal, stage of inflation —flight from money. This is the "fear stage" when people put their money into most anything tangible rather than keep it, knowing that it is steadily declining in value, knowing that it will buy less and less as the days go by. It is the stage when people unload helter-skelter securities of fixed value, when securities with fixed income are hard to sell, when government bonds in particular decline in value.

It is early yet to tell whether our inflation will run its full course to disaster in the present movement. We still have great resources, great productive capacity great resiliency in this nation. Steps may be taken that will check the movement for the time being before it reaches the panic stage.

Some people are inclined to blame this movement on the Korean War and preparations for the possibility of World War III. This is not correct. The movement is undoubtedly being spurred on by these events but it was not caused by them. The whole trend in this country for the last twenty years has been towards disastrous inflation. It is bound to come, sooner or later, unless we reverse this trend. And there is no sign now apparent, even on the faraway horizon, that it will be reversed. The only hope lies in the common sense of the American people, in their finally realizing the danger that threatens our economy and therefore our form of government and in their demanding a leadership that will return this nation to the sound economic principles upon which it was founded and has been built.

This is a much bigger question than politics. It is a question of the survival of this nation. We must demand a leadership, whether it be Democrat or Republican, that will return us to a sound economy. We must demand a leadership that will ask for economy instead of controls. For eighteen of the last twenty years, this government has spent more than it has received. It is during the last five years in particular that we can see how wedded our government has become to inflation. By all normal measures, these were years of extreme prosperity when we should have balanced our budget and when we should have been making payments on the national debt. Yet during these years our government spent more money than was spent during the 152 years of our national existence up to the beginning of the Second World War.

Now that we are in World War 11½ and threatened with World War III, we are having to enormously increase our military expenditures again. There is no getting around that; we must be prepared to win whatever war is forced upon us. This is a heavy burden to lay upon the American people with our economy in its present shape. It can only be borne by governmental economizing at every turn; it cannot be borne by controls and taxation. It is entirely possible that the entire additional cost of increased preparedness could be met with cuts in non-defense expenditures. On the other hand, it is also possible that excessive taxation and governmental controls could destroy this na-

Little Theatre Curtain Call

"Boy Meets Girl," the first Little Theatre production of the 1950-51 season, opens at the Selman Field playhouse next Tuesday evening. The curtain will part at 8:30 p.m. on the most boisterous and mirthful comedy yet to be presented on the local stage.

"Boy Meets Girl" was first produced by George Abbott at the Cort Theatre, New York City, in November, 1935, under the direction of Mr. Abbot. This comedy that will titilate the most dormant sense of humor was written by Bella and Samuel Spewack, reporters as well as dramatists, who report what they see and observe not what convention wants them to see.

The Monroe version of "Boy Meets Girl," under the direction of Charles Stocker Fontelieu, who gave us a brilliant season last year, has captured all the qualities that made this play a howling success on both stage and screen. George Abbott has this to say: " 'Boy Meets Girl' is, I think, the best play that has as yet appeared about Hollywood. It is the real thing.

"If, however, authenticity were the only virtues of "Boy Meets Girl" it would die unsung. It is the wit of the Spewacks that casts over the whole thing a gay charm. They know how to write lines which are not only funny to reach but which crackle when spoken in the theatre."

The idea seems to be that Mr. Abbott, the authority, enjoyed "Boy Meets Girl" on any score. We hope Little Theatre goers here will enjoy it just as much whether they are in their seat or in the aisle.

RANDOM NOTES—It was just like old times in Little Theatre to have Lorenzo and Elroy Smith in the audience for Friday evening's rehearsal—We have found out from Jackie Voorhees that the authentic autographed pictures of the stars which will adorn the stage in producer C. F. Friday's office belong to Garland Shell, who is playing the role of Friday. They were personally autographed by such stars as Greer Garson, Bing Crosby and Diana Lynn and there is one signed from former Gov. Tobin of Massachusetts who is now U. S. Secretary of Labor. Be sure to take a look at them when you visit backstage after the final curtain.—Sure had a time findng cowboy boots for Gene Ritter in this play. Guess what? Even our friend Hayes Gentry didn't have a pair and that's news. Thanks to Peggy Meeker's husband, who it seems has been somewhat of a globe trotter, Gene, playing the role of film cowboy Larry Toms, will be shod in as pretty a pair of western boots as we have ever seen.—Theatre man Melvin Greenblatt, city manager of the local Paramount-Gulf theatres is also lending us film for the film cutting scenes in "Boy Meets Girl." He has certainly been friendly and helpful this season.

Little Theatre Sketch

YVONNE LUSK—Pretty and vivacious young dramatist who is playing the feminine lead in "Boy Meets Girl" is starting her fifth year on the faculty of Ouachita Parish High School.

Her interest in drama and speech dates to high school days. The sequel includes fine work in these fields at Northeast Junior College and Louisiana State University.

If she kept a scrap book of her activities at N. J. C. it would bulge with clippings and photographs of radio and stage plays, work with dramatic organizations, the Pow Wow and the student council, in which she holds the distinction of being the only coed president.

Given the lead role in "Chintz Cottage," Yvonne knew definitely that she wanted to major in speech. Then followed the principal part in "Cry Havoc," the role of Ruth in "Blythe Spirit," a character part in "Murder Rehearsal" and other shows.

A scholarship for summer study at the radio drama workshop, Wisconsin College of Music, proved valuable. It meant busy days overflowing with writing, adapting material to radio plays, acting and directing.

Special recognition did not stop there. Yvonne's photograph appeared in the Pow Wow as one of the ten campus "Big shots" and the yearbook as one of the "beauties" and in "Who's Who'.

At L. S. U. she bore the title of a campus "favorite" for two years. There she completed work for her bachelor's degree in teacher training. As a speech major she found keen interest in corrective and interpretative speech.

One so active as Yvonne would be sure to enjoy a variety of hobbies. Here they are: hunting (for 'possums), horseback riding and boating. She's a sports fan, too.

This is a critical period in our history. It is a time for decision. We can continue the way we are going and destroy our economy; or we can reverse the trend and restore our economy.

DOROTHY DIX

Bachelor's Problem

Youth Complains Of Pursuit By Marriage-Minded Women

DEAR MISS DIX: In all love affairs the male of the species is supposed to be the villain, and I figure that it is time that he was given a break. Take my own case. I have my life planned and I do not intend to marry for ten years at least, because I want to be free to follow my ambitions, travel, etc., but although I am no ladies' man, I am pursued by girls who make love to me and write me love letters and are so determined to marry me, whether or no, that I am almost afraid to speak to a female under 80. And I am no exception to the rule. Other young men have the same experience. What's a man to do in such a case? S. G.

DOROTHY DIX

ANSWER: About all the modern young man can do is to get accustomed to being courted. Being made love to is not an unpleasant experience when you are used to it. In fact, it has been the chief diversion and excitement of women for ages.

YOU'LL GET USED TO IT

But, of course, you have to get acclimated to a hot spot. It is easy to see that a man might not enjoy being told how handsome he is, nor what lovely eyes he has, nor that he is the ideal some girl has been seeking for years and years and years, and that the moment she saw him she knew that she had met her predestined mate. It would give him the jitters.

It is easy to understand why men, who have always been the hunters in the love chase, should resent having the tables turned upon them and being forced to become the hunted. Nor is it difficult to understand why men who have always had the privilege of popping the question are embarrassed when girls ask for their hearts and hands in marriage. They have not yet learned the technique of saying "no" gracefully, and selling the rejected suitors the idea of being little brothers to them.

But times have changed. The courting that women used to do under cover, they now do openly. They no longer wear themselves out trying to inveigle a man who hangs back, up to the proposing point. They do it themselves. And so it is up to men to meet this frankness with frankness and to refuse to let themselves be shanghaied into marriages for which they have no appetites.

Instead of being dismayed at the tactics of the modern girl, men should be filled with hope and courage, provided, like you, they wish to maintain their bachelor freedom. For never were they so safe as now, because they can see the dangers that beset them, whereas before they were in the dark as to a lady's intentions.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been married almost a year. I have a very affectionate disposition, but my husband is of the cold type. He is very good to me, and doesn't drink or run around with other women, but he never talks to me or says nice things. I am only 19 and feel that I have plenty of time to find a man of my own type. I am thinking of getting a divorce and trying marriage over again. Maybe I'd have better luck. What do you say? Upon your advice depends my decision.

VERY UNHAPPY

ANSWER: Well, if you will take my advice, you will stick to the good, kind husband you have even if he isn't much as a lovemaker.

The two things in human nature that puzzle me most are why women are so crazy to have their husbands make love to them and tell them how wonderful and beautiful they are and how they couldn't live without them, and why husbands are so stingy about handing their wives a little soft talk when they know that a few kind words and a compliment or two will make the poor silly things perfectly happy.

But all the same, my dear, don't throw a good husband into the discard just because he is a dumb lovemaker. These glib lovemakers, who fancy their technique with women, are never satisfied to confine it to their wives. They are always trying it out on other women. Whereas the man to whom courtship was a chore and who choked on his Adam's apple when he tried to get sentimental means what he says when he tells a woman that she is the only one, and when he gets married he is done with philandering forever.

DEAR MISS DIX: Should a mother have her son, who is 22, absolutely under control? By this I mean should his mother have complete authority over him so that he has to ask her permission to go places, and whom to go with, and what friends he can have, and when he can use his car? A. B.

ANSWER: Certainly not. The mother is a tyrant who attempts to exercize such authority over a grown son, and he is a weakling if he submits to it. In this world we have all got to hoe our own row. We've got to depend on ourselves. We've got to learn how to judge people, how to take care of money, and we can't do this if our mothers make all our decisions for us and pick out our friends and our associates and buy us everything we need.

New York—New York now has an entirely new set of smoke, or anti-smoke regulations, a whole army of smoke inspectors to enforce them, and just as much smoke and soot as ever. Well, inspectors must live, and how does one get votes without inspectors?

The Washington Square Art Exhibit, held outdoors, as usual, was a great success this fall, despite some frosty weather. Most of the exhibiting artists wore mittens and heavy sweaters. Purchasers from out of town were numerous and seemed well satisfied as they carried off their canvases to show the folks back home that they'd really been in Greenwich Village.

It seems to me that we could find some more respectful expression with reference to our children than such fishmonger talk. Why not call them children, for instance

The activities for the day will open at 9 a.m. when booths, stocked with foods, gifts, flowers, hobby products, clothing and decorations will open for business. For those who get hungry during the day, there will be a snack bar selling coffee, doughnuts, sake, sandwiches and cold drinks.

Home made preserves, jellies, pickles, relish and fruit cakes and special quart containers of gumbo will be offered at the food counter.

The hobby booth will sell products donated by Monroe hobbyists, including dolls, handpainted china, pictures, knitted golf socks and golf club covers, camellias, azaleas and hand made toys. In addition, little Ann Trousdale will put up for sale several of her puppies, a special hobby with her.

Handwork and special clothing will also be featured at the bazaar. Babies' and children's sweaters, guest towels, pillow slips, luncehon sets, Puerto Rican linens, aprons and kitchen towels will also be on the list for sale.

With an eye toward the approaching Yuletide season, the bazaar will offer Christmas cards, wrappings and decorations. A parcel post booth will be open, and for the younger set, a Grab Bag will be set up.

Freedom Bell Placed In W. Berlin City Hall

Berlin, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The Freedom Bell inched up 200 feet today to the top of West Berlin's city hall, where it will be rung for the first time next Tuesday—United Nations day.

A crowd of 3,000 Berliners watched workmen cautiously raise the 10-ton bell by windlass to the city hall tower in a five-hour operation. It arrived safely in an American military freight car this morning after an uneventful passage of 100 miles through the Soviet zone.

The bell, paid for by public subscriptions in the United States to a government - approved private group known as the national committee for free Europe, was denounced as a "death bell" by East Germany's Communist Press.

The lifting of the bell went off without a hitch, although frequently watchers held their breath as the big bronze casting narrowly passed between fragile pieces of wooden scaffolding. West Berlin police arrested three girls and four boys of the Communist Free German Youth who tried to get onlookers to sign a petition to ban the atom bomb.

The bell, produced by a Croyden, Eng., foundry, is inscribed in English: "that this world, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom"—a paraphrase of Abraham Lincoln's words in the Gettysburg address.

Its first peal will be broadcast around the world by western radio networks. Among those present will be U. S. Commissioner John J. McCloy; his predecessor in Germany, Gen. Lucius D. Clay; and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Radio receivers of the future will be much smaller than present models. Elimination of tubes and use of "stamped" circuits instead of actual wires, and sealed components, will make the smaller sets possible.

MOBILIZATION IS PLANNED IN DARK

Authorities Still Don't Know How Big Defense Program Will Be

Washington, Oct. 21. —(AP)— The nation's industrial mobilization is being planned largely in the dark, because the national production authority still doesn't know how big the defense program will be.

In the absence of a specific target, NPA Administrator William H. Harrison is following the safety-first policy of shooting high, in his preparations to divert materials from civilian to military production.

One industry after another, summoned here to organize itself for coming curtailments, has asked how much cutback to expect. NPA has replied, in effect: "we don't know, but get ready anyhow."

One high NPA official, in a closed staff meeting this week, is known to have described the lack of imformation as "our biggest problem." Another told a reporter privately:

"We need some statements of materials requirements, beyond the military funds already voted, even if the estimates are wrong by a sizeable margin."

Such proposals as NPA's pending ban on the building of amusement places are hard to "sell," officials admit, when the construction industry cannot be told even approximately how much steel, lumber, copper and aluminum must be saved.

The munitions board, procurement planner of the armed forces, has handed NPA within the last ten days its bill of requirements for these and a number of other materials. But the list covers only the spending so far approved, up to next June 30.

Efforts to forecast beyond that, munitions board sources say, would require a crystal ball. The answers depend on congress, the high command, the Asiatic fighting, and on Joseph Stalin.

This seems to put it up to the White House and the defense department, and to defense Coordinator W. Stuart Symington to make the best guesses they can on needs and on that basis shape up the longer-range program of preparedness.

NPA officials say the information recently supplied by the munitions board is a "great help," but still inadequate as a basis for a rounded program of industrial controls and limitations on civilian output.

For one thing, the lag between placing orders and getting deliveries is months long for some weapons. hTe direct military demands for steel and rubber, for instance, are understood to be surprisingly small for the next few months.

However, Harrison knows from his World War II experience as a top army procurement official that the military drain can be expected to swell suddenly, once the production lines start rolling at top speed.

Further, the administration is expected to ask a third multi-billion dollar supplemental military appropriation when congress convenes again on Nov. 27. The amount is still unknown.

And finally, a fiscal 1952 appropriation — on which official guesses have ranged from $35,000,000,000 to $50,000,000,000—will be presented to congress in January for the year starting next July 1.

Officials emphasize that "we're not blaming the military or anybody else." In fact, one of the biggest gaps of information is the amount of material which must be earmarked for civilian programs which support the defense efforts. These include freight car building, petroleum expansion, farm machinery production, and possibly merchant ship construction and civil aircraft.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

"Boy Meets Girl," the first Little Theatre production of the 1950-51 season, opens at the Selman Field playhouse next Tuesday evening. The curtain will part at 8:30 p.m. on the most boisterous and mirthful comedy yet to be presented on the local stage.

"Boy Meets Girl" was first produced by George Abbott at the Cort Theatre, New York City, in November, 1935, under the direction of Mr. Abbot. This comedy that will titilate the most dormant sense of humor was written by Bella and Samuel Spewack, reporters as well as dramatists, who report what they see and observe not what convention wants them to see.

The Monroe version of "Boy Meets Girl," under the direction of Charles Stocker Fontelieu, who gave us a brilliant season last year, has captured all the qualities that made this play a howling success on both stage and screen. George Abbott has this to say: "'Boy Meets Girl' is, I think, the best play that has as yet appeared about Hollywood. It is the real thing.

"If, however, authenticity were the only virtues of "Boy Meets Girl" it would die unsung. It is the wit of the Spewacks that casts over the whole thing a gay charm. They know how to write lines which are not only funny to reach but which crackle when spoken in the theatre."

The idea seems to be that Mr. Abbott, the authority, enjoyed "Boy Meets Girl" on any score. We hope Little Theatre goers here will enjoy it just as much whether they are in their seat or in the aisle.

RANDOM NOTES—It was just like old times in Little Theatre to have Lorenzo and Elroy Smith in the audience for Friday evening's rehearsal—We have found out from Jackie Voorhees that the authentic autographed pictures of the stars which will adorn the stage in producer C. F. Friday's office belong to Garland Shell, who is playing the role of Friday. They were personally autographed by such stars as Greer Garson, Bing Crosby and Diana Lynn and there is one signed from former Gov. Tobin of Massachusetts who is now U. S. Secretary of Labor. Be sure to take a look at them when you visit backstage after the final curtain.—Sure had a time findng cowboy boots for Gene Ritter in this play. Guess what? Even our friend Hayes Gentry didn't have a pair and that's news. Thanks to Peggy Meeker's husband, who it seems has been somewhat of a globe trotter, Gene, playing the role of film cowboy Larry Toms, will be shod in as pretty a pair of western boots as we have ever seen.—Theatre man Melvin Greenblatt, city manager of the local Paramount-Gulf theatres is also lending us film for the film cutting scenes in "Boy Meets Girl." He has certainly been friendly and helpful this season.

Little Theatre Skecth

YVONNE LUSK—Pretty and vivacious young dramatist who is playing the feminine lead in "Boy Meets Girl" is starting her fifth year on the faculty of Ouachita Parish High School.

Her interest in drama and speech dates to high school days. The sequel includes fine work in these fields at Northeast Junior College and Louisiana State University.

If she kept a scrap book of her activities at N. J. C. it would bulge with clippings and photographs of radio and stage plays, work with dramatic organizations, the Pow Wow and the student council, in which she holds the distinction of being the only coed president.

Given the lead role in "Chintz Cottage," Yvonne knew definitely that she wanted to major in speech. Then followed the principal part in "Cry Havoc," the role of Ruth in "Blythe Spirit," a character part in "Murder Rehearsal" and other shows.

A scholarship for summer study at the radio drama workshop, Wisconsin College of Music, proved valuable. It meant busy days overflowing with writing, adapting material to radio plays, acting and directing.

Special recognition did not stop there. Yvonne's photograph appeared in the Pow Wow as one of the ten campus "Big shots" and the yearbook as one of the "beauties" and in "Who's Who".

At L. S. U. she bore the title of a campus "favorite" for two years. There she completed work for her bachelor's degree in teacher training. As a speech major she found keen interest in corrective and interpretative speech.

tion just as surely as defeat in war.

This is no time for politics as usual. This is no time for price supports for agriculture or subsidies of any sort. This is no time for federal housing or any other sort of give-away program. This is no time for our boondoggling throughout the world, for our subsidizing socialism in other lands, for our helping other peoples who are sending basic materials to Russia itself.

This is a critical period in our history. It is a time for decision. We can continue the way we are going and destroy our economy; or we can reverse the trend and restore our economy.

DOROTHY DIX

Bachelor's Problem

Youth Complains Of Pursuit By Marriage-Minded Women

DEAR MISS DIX: In all love affairs the male of the species is supposed to be the villain, and I figure that it is time that he was given a break. Take my own case. I have my life planned and I do not intend to marry for ten years at least, because I want to be free to follow my ambitions, travel, etc., but although I am no ladies' man, I am pursued by girls who make love to me and write me love letters and are so determined to marry me, whether or no, that I am almost afraid to speak to a female under 80. And I am no exception to the rule. Other young men have the same experience. What's a man to do in such a case? S. G.

DOROTHY DIX

ANSWER: About all the modern young man can do is to get accustomed to being courted. Being made love to is not an unpleasant experience when you are used to it. In fact, it has been the chief diversion and excitement of women for ages.

YOU'LL GET USED TO IT

But, of course, you have to get acclimated to a hot spot. It is easy to see that a man might not enjoy being told how handsome he is, nor what lovely eyes he has, nor that he is the ideal some girl has been seeking for years and years and years, and that the moment she saw him she knew that she had met her predestined mate. It would give him the jitters.

It is easy to understand why men, who have always been the hunters in the love chase, should resent having the tables turned upon them and being forced to become the hunted. Nor is it difficult to understand why men who have always had the privilege of popping the question are embarrassed when girls ask for their hearts and hands in marriage. They have not yet learned the technique of saying "no" gracefully, and selling the rejected suitors the idea of being little brothers to them.

But times have changed. The courting that women used to do under cover, they now do openly. They no longer wear themselves out trying to inveigle a man who hangs back, up to the proposing point. They do it themselves. And so it is up to men to meet this frankness with frankness and to refuse to let themselves be shanghaied into marriages for which they have no appetites.

Instead of being dismayed at the tactics of the modern girl, men should be filled with hope and courage, provided, like you, they wish to maintain their bachelor freedom. For never were they so safe as now, because they can see the dangers that beset them, whereas before they were in the dark as to a lady's intentions.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been married almost a year. I have a very affectionate disposition, but my husband is of the cold type. He is very good to me, and doesn't drink or run around with other women, but he never talks to me or says nice things. I am only 19 and feel that I have plenty of time to find a man of my own type. I am thinking of getting a divorce and trying marriage over again. Maybe I'd have better luck. What do you say? Upon your advice depends my decision.

VERY UNHAPPY

ANSWER: Well, if you will take my advice, you will stick to the good, kind husband you have even if he isn't much as a lovemaker.

The two things in human nature that puzzle me most are why women are so crazy to have their husbands make love to them and tell them how wonderful and beautiful they are and how they couldn't live without them, and why husbands are so stingy about handing their wives a little soft talk when they know that a few kind words and a compliment or two will make the poor silly things perfectly happy.

But all the same, my dear, don't throw a good husband into the discard just because he is a dumb lovemaker. These glib lovemakers, who fancy their technique with women, are never satisfied to confine it to their wives. They are always trying it out on other women. Whereas the man to whom courtship was a chore and who choked on his Adam's apple when he tried to get sentimental means what he says when he tells a woman that she is the only one, and when he gets married he is done with philandering forever.

DEAR MISS DIX: Should a mother have her son, who is 22, absolutely under control? By this I mean should his mother have complete authority over him so that he has to ask her permission to go places, and whom to go with, and what friends he can have, and when he can use his car? A. B.

ANSWER: Certainly not. The mother is a tyrant who attempts to exercize such authority over a grown son, and he is a weakling if he submits to it. In this world we have all got to hoe our own row. We've got to depend on ourselves. We've got to learn how to judge people, how to take care of money, and we can't do this if our mothers make all our decisions for us and pick out our friends and our associates and buy us everything we need.

DOROTHY DIX cannot answer personal mail. Leaflet D-7, "Disposition," contains helpful tips on getting along better in marriage and business. To obtain a copy, send 5 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Dix, c/o this newspaper, P. O. Box 98, Times Square Station, New York 18, N. Y.

Charles B. Driscoll: New York Day By Day

New York—New York now has an entirely new set of smoke, or anti-smoke regulations, a whole army of smoke inspectors to enforce them, and just as much smoke and soot as ever. We have had plenty of anti-smoke laws and all kinds of electric gadgets for keeping carbon out of the air, for the last 20 years. No real enforcement, however. Well, inspectors must live, and how does one get votes without inspectors?

The Washington Square Art Exhibit, held outdoors, as usual, was a great success this fall, despite some frosty weather. Most of the exhibiting artists wore mittens and heavy sweaters. Purchasers from out of town were numerous and seemed well satisfied as they carried off their canvases to show the folks back home that they'd really been in Greenwich Village.

Harry used to shock wheat in Kansas, in his youth. Latterly he has been shocking the Plymouth Rock folk by spreading abroad that little-known historical fact that the Pilgrims first landed at Provincetown, not Plymouth Rock.

Mrs. Fred M. Grant, Monroe, La. teacher of English, gives a cheer for my occasional criticism of the English usage of many radio commentators and highly paid emcees.

Let me add to my general criticisms that I do not like the expression "small fry," as applied to children and in general use on the air. Small fry is a fish market expression, used to designate the fish that are taken up along with regular fish, but are too small for any use but to be fried whole.

It seems to me that we could find some more respectful expression with reference to our children than such fishmonger talk. Why not call them children, for instance

RHEE GOVERNMENT WILL COOPERATE

Includes Limited Authority In South, Separate Elections In North

Seoul, Oct. 21 —(AP)— The government of President Syngman Rhee will work with the United Nations and its Field Commander, General MacArthur "in complete harmony' to win the peace in Korea, the highest Korean Republican sources let it be known today.

This includes temporarily limiting Rhee's authority to territory south of the 38th parallel and holding separate elections north of that line under U. N. supervision.

In the long run, however, persons close to the Republican President still feel it is "utterly absurd" to limit Rhee's authority to 21,000,000 southerners and leave 10,000,000 northerners under U.N. control.

Nearly 4,000,000 people in South Korea are refugees from the north.

"Some of these have the capacity for leadership in a democracy," one high source said.

The Rhee government balked when first accounts arrived here that the United Nations Commission on Korea favored confining Rhee's authority to the south, putting civil control of northern territory under General MacArthur as U. N. Field Commander, and calling for general elections throughout the country.

The accounts were ambiguous here. They brought a burst of resentment from the President, his cabinet and members of the Republican Assembly.

However, Rhee has full confidence in General MacArthur and in the Supreme Commander's discretion in selecting governors and lesser leaders for the five provinces in North Korea.

It was felt that it would be only natural for those best acquainted with the region, (meaning Rhee) to be consulted in political appointments.

There is every indication now that this consultation is being—and will be—carried out.

As for elections, it now appears that those assemblymen elected in the south last May 30 who still are alive and loyal to the Republic will continue in office.

Elections in the north under U.N. supervision after the public has been freed from the influence and domination of Communists would meet with no objections from the Rhee government, it was learned.

state president W. L. "Jack" Howard of Monroe, more than 20,000 members of the Jaycees, school officials and students and members of other clubs and civic groups participated actively on committees and other units.

"In every way," said Howard, "this week has meant success to our aims. We hope that it has meant something as big to everyone in the state. If this week has served only to make some people think of the blessing that Americanism is, and the dangers to our way of life from Marxist influences, it has really succeeded."

Howard also issued a special note of gratitude to the Monroe radio stations, the Monroe News-Star and Morning World and to clubs and organizations which helped in the drive. He singled out for special praise Miles A. Newburn and state representative R. C. White, Jr., in charge of the week, and the coordinating councilmen for each of the days.

We feel that we've declared ourselves as Americans and Jaycees on the issues of communism and encroaching socialism" he concluded. "and we only hope that the observance of this special week will knit Americans closer together in a fight to preserve individual initiative and enterprise in the face of a trend to the left."

the withdrawal from Langson, which the French originally occupied in 1885. French authcrities said the movement proceeded efficiently under tir force cover, and clashes with the Vietminh were limited to small skirmishes.

Yielded to the Vietminh is a near impregnable mountainous base area with good trans - frontier connections to supply sources and training centers in Red China.

This means the Soviet-backed Ho Chi Minh regime now has the space and means of preparing a full scale military offensive against the principal French strongholds farther south. The purely guerrilla phase of the four-year old war in Indo-China has ended.

The turning point was marked this month by a seriesof stunning reverses for the French frontier garrisons. In two weeks, the French lost more than 3,000 of their first line troops.

Official French reports declare that more than 20,000 Vietminh troops are being trained near the frontier within Communist China.

Vietminh recruits are said to be returning from China, uniformed, trained and armed. Most of the equipment is described here as American materiel taken by the Chinese Communists from Chiang Kai-Shek's route armies.

MISSISSIPPI

ing $7,648,560 in federal aid funds. Mississippi's divides its seven-cent gas tax as follows: Two and one-half cents goes to the counties; three cents to the state highway commission for retirement of previously issued gasoline revenue bonds, for road protection in three coast counties and for maintenance; and 1½ cents is "frozen" cents of the 7-cent tax frozen for for new construction on the state system.

Actually, Mississippi will get $6,100,000, which represents the 1½ cents of the 7-cent tax frozen for new construction, and the $8,000,000 diverted from the general fund for the new pay-as-you-go program for rural state roads. The $7,648,560 in federal aid funds is added to this figure. However, only the $6,100,000 is specifically dedicated to new construction, plus the federal aid funds and the 10 per cent which the counties will kick back to match state funds.

Mississippi, which adheres to a policy of operating within its budget each year, actually owes only $65,758,000 of the principal of highway revenue bonds, and $18,919,850 in interest. These bonds will be retired Feburary 1, 1971. The present Louisiana highway bonds will be retired in 1965, but the $140,000,000 would add approximately another $200,000,000 to the indebtedness, which would not be paid off until 1975.

During the 1949-1950 fiscal year ending June 30 the regular revenues of the highway department were $53,000,000 and for the current fiscal year would reach $58,000,000.

If road construction and other expenditures are maintained at the figure of the preceding fiscal year — $59,406,520.95—the department would dip into its surplus to the extent of $1,406,000. This "dipping" would not make a very large dent in the current balance of $91,000,000 in the highway fund.

Even if the highway construction program would be pushed up to $40,000,000 a year in the face of material shortages because of the current re-armament program, the balance would be reduced only to $81,000,000 by July 1951. Continuing this $40,000,000 program for another year, there would still be a balance of $71,000,000 in the fund when the legislature convenes in regular session in May, 1952.

If the department does have a balance of approximately $91,000,000 (as its tabulations show), the questions arise in what form is this balance, and how available is it for highway construction.

The report shows that bills payable total $5,659,000. On the other hand, this is offset by bills receivable (money owed to the department) and by inventories, mainly of construction materials which are to be used in the near future. This ties up $6,000,000 of the $91,000,000.

The cost of paying interest on outstanding highway bonds and paying off the bonds that will fall due in the present fiscal year is $8,841,671. This amount is set aside in a special reserve fund, and before the year ends it will be replaced by proceeds from the four-cent gasoline tax, the first revenues of which each year are pledged to highway bond payments.

This bond reserve reduces the money immediately available construction to $74,000,000. There would be a further deduction of close to $4,000,000 for purchase orders issued on supplies and material and not delivered. Most of this is for road construction, but if it is deducted from the total available there is left $70,000,000 for construction purposes.

Of this amount more than $20,000,000 is in the federal treasury waiting for the state to draw it out for federal aid projects. Another $50,000,000 is in the form of cash, in the state treasury or in the bank account of the state department of highways.

The highway department refer to the fund as alloted funds and not surplus or free funds. They allot it for spending through a system of advance planning which takes care of the immediate allotment of every dollar as it becomes available.

There are three divisions of this allotment system. They are:

1. Contracts let, on which work is in progress. Payments are made as the work progresses and is approved. The funds set aside to pay for the work still to be done before these contracts are completed are classed as "committment vouchers—construction."

2. Proposed construction projects on which the preliminary planning and engineering has been completed and rights of way procured, but for which contracts have not been let.

3. Roads programmed for construction in the future, when the project is in shape for letting of the contract.

The June 30 report of the department shows the following constructions funds available, as separated by the report into various categories:

1. Commitment vouchers for construction work in progress—$20,103,026.24.

2. Work authorizations (contracts not let)—$32,610,997.56.

3. Projects programmed — $10,659,309.80:

4. Lakeshore highway (fund No. 2)—$2,543,279.48.

5. Oil royalties for work in certain parishes.

To this total of $68,590,000 can be added some of the $2,338,000 of inventories, consisting mainly of materials, part of which the department's own forces will buse in the construction of highways.

CHARGES DENIED

formed by Judge Harper that he had misunderstood the Mayor, that the case would be tried later. Captain McMurray on many occasions had arrested Monroe Phipps for gambling and bootlegging. The police records will show this.

"Regarding the charges that he offered to suppress bootlegging in order to let R. O. Roy sell whiskey, they are absolutely untrue and unfounded, not has he ever offered to let any other person do this.

"Regarding the charges that he drank whiskey in R. O. Roy's place, Captain McMurray does not know any person by the name of R. O. Roy.

"Regarding the charges that he refused to raid a poker game on the night of September 2, 1950, Captain McMurray admits he got a call to raid a residence at 106 Sixth Street in Monroe, and that he refused to let his officers raid this game, because his superior officer, then Chief H. T. Ward, and Judge Harper, had advised him that he could not go into a private home to raid a poker game or any other game without a warrant, and that he could not get a warrant unless he could prove that there was a gambling game going on which was against the law.

"Captain McMurray states that he has requested on numerous occasions that he be permitted to raid these games, and this request has been refused.

"In regarding charges that he has let gambling and bootlegging go on under his supervision, he specifically denies and shows, in order that the public might know, that during the two months' period from August 1, 1950, to September 30, 1950, the men under his supervision at night have raided and arrested over thirty (30) bootleggers and gamblers, all of whom were convicted, and on one particular night in August, the Captain raided five principal places of business in Monroe at the same time and arrested the owners or the operators of the gambling games, and they were all fined in City Court in the City of Monroe, Louisiana. Police records will bear this out.

"Captain McMurray states that if he was fired for these charges, that the other forty-five officers on the police force should also be fired, because it is impossible for them to suppress bootlegging and gambling entirely, and he certainly is not responsible for the whole police force.

"Officer Hunnicutt states charges that he came upon the three people on Adams street and used abusive language that was unbecoming an officer is absolutely untrue. That he did come upon a car with his fellow officer, M. L. Spangler, parked in the colored section of Monroe at 2 a.m. and because of instructions that he had received from Judge Harper, he told these people to move on, and denies he used abusive language to them, and that he understands that one of the occupants of the car was Rayville Fuller, who had been employed by Mayor Coon as a special investigator, and if Mr. Fuller says that he used abusive and indecent language, he is a liar.

"Regarding the charges of an arrest made by him at Hill's Barbecue, he states that this is absolutely unfounded; that the person arrested at Hill's Barbecue came into the barbecue stand drunk and cursing and carrying on, and his fellow officer, R. B. Berger asked him to stop, and that he refused to stop, and was placed under arrest by Officer R. B. Berger. That he at no time used abusive language towards this party who was later tried in the City Court and fined for being drunk and disorderly and resisting arrest. This will be borne out by the police record and Court Dockets of Judge Harper's Court.

"Officer Hunnicutt states tha regarding his suppression of gambling and bootlegging, he feels sure that even the gamblers and bootleggers will testify that they know that he and Captain McMurray will not permit gambling or bootlegging while they are on duty.

"Hunnicutt and McMurray state that they do not know of anything in the charges filed against them that is true, and that they will proves same at the hearing before the Civil Service Board, and that they especially invite the public of Monroe to attend this hearing so that they can see who should be fired and who should not be fired. The public should know what is going on in the City of Monroe, and at this hearing it will certainly be brought out.

"Guerriero states to the press he was surprised at the flimsy charges filed, and that he specifically requests the City of Monroe to furnish him with the name and location of place of business owned by one R. O. Roy, or R. G. Roy, or R. C. Roy. That as far as he knows, that no such person exists, and that all the charges filed against Capt. McMurray and Officer Hunnicutt are absolutely untrue and unfounded, and cannot be proved."

ESCORT VESSELS DONATED GREECE

Part Of America's Developing Program Of Arms Aid To Anti-Red Nations

Washington, Oct. 21. —(AP) —The U. S. will give Greece a number of destroyer escort vessels as part of America's developing program of arms aid to anti-Communist governments.

This was reported today by a military assistance official. He declined to disclose the number of ships involved.

Commenting on a news dispatch from Athens, quoting a government source as saying Greece will receive six destroyers from this country, the official here said the vessels will not be destroyers.

Instead, he declared, they will be 1,240-ton destroyer escorts of a modern type that played an important part in anti - submarine operations during World War II. Destroyers usually displace 2,000 tons or more. The destroyer escorts would be useful for anti-submarine and coastal patrols in the Mediterranean.

The dispatch from Athens said Greek crews for the ships are already on their way to the U. S.

The gift to Greece will continue a program of naval arms aid under which 18 infantry landing ships and six landing support ships are now on their way to Indo-China. French troops in that southeast Asia country recently have abandoned outposts near the border of Communist China in the face of Communist-led opponents.

The landing ships are about 150 feet long and have a capacity of about 200 troops each; the landing support ships are about the same size and normally are armed with one three-inch and four 40 mm guns. They are expected to give increased mobility to defense forces around Indo - China's long coast.

The destroyer escorts reported earmarked for Greece are similar to four which already have been turned over to France. Two others are to be turned over to the Netherlands navy at the Boston navy yard Monday.

Other vessels delivered to friendly foreign countries include a submarine rescue tender turned over to Turkey about two months ago. Two submarines also are being overhauled and refitted for delivery to Turkey.

Most of the destroyer escorts involved in the program are being taken out of the navy's "mothball" fleet and overhauled before being turned over to foreign crews, several months usually are allowed for the foreign crews to become familiar with their operations.

The destroyer escorts turned over to France were made ready at the Philadelphia navy yard.

Embittered Schoolboy Kills Both Parents

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 21—(AP)—A 14-year-old schoolboy confessed today, state police said, that he shot his father and mother to death because he was punished unfairly.

Raymond Peers, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Peers, was quoted as saying he killed his parents for "punishing me when I didn't have it coming."

His father, a 44-year-old Mattawan High School manual training instructor, was mortally wounded while standing on a ladder outside their farm home.

The boy then called his mother Marian, 38, from her bed and killed her with a shot in the forehead, state police Sgt. Kenneth H. Cook and Detective John Dalman said.

BIG FIVE AGREE

China, The United States and Russia—to meet Sunday or Monday to try to decide on a mutually acceptable candidate. They would report the result in the form of a memorandum to other council members Tuesday.

The big five talks will be the first held in the spirit of a request made by the Assembly's Political Committee today, asking them to get together in an effort to settle outstanding differences.

Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb warned that it was doubtful if the new consultations would result in agreement. He said he had pressed repeatedly for such talks six weeks ago, but that Malik had refused. Malik later used Russia's 46th veto to block Lie's renomination when the question first came up formally in the council last week.

Yugoslavia's Ales Bebler said the council's 9-1 vote for Lie at that time constituted a "moral committment" which should not now be reversed. Malik retorted that this was "a novel interpretation of the charter"—which gives Russia, the United States, Britain, France and China the right of veto—and then made his proposal for a new meeting of those five countries.

Nationalist China's delegate, C. L. Hsia, suggested the Tuesday time limit. Malik made no objection to having his proposal modified by the man whose presence in the Council he has previously denounced as illegal.

The Russian also agreed that the Chinese Nationalists would be one of the big five consuited. The Soviet Union has previously insisted that such meetings could be held only if a delegate from the Communist Peiping regime represented China.

Should the big five talks fail in their purpose—and most observers believe they will — the Council would probably report to the veto-free General Assembly that it had been unable to reach agreement.

The U. N. Chater says the Assembly shall appoint the Secretary General upon the recommendation of the Security Council. The Charter prescribes no termn of service. Thus the Assembly could merely extend Lie's term.

This would have the effect of keeping Lie in his $40,000 a year job until some possible lessening of east-west tension made agreement on a successor possible. Lie's present five-year term ends Feb. 1, 1951.

Two names have been suggested as possible compromise candidates but it is doubtful they can line up majority support.

They are Sir Ramaswami Mudaliar of India and Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico. The chief Indian delegate, Sir Benegal N. Rau, is a dark horse in the speculation.

Rau had proposed earlier that the Council members submit two names each and the big five try to find one among them that would be acceptable. He withdrew this proposal today when it appeared doomed to rejection.

LOBBYING

and still others said they did not engage in lobbying activities.

He stressed that the 173 corporations which made some answers to questionnaires represent only a small proportion of all the corporations in the United States. There are more than 500,000 corporations — big, meedium and little.

"I firmly believe that the business of influencing legislation is a billion dollar industry," Buchanan commented. "The $32,000,000 reported in response to our letter contrasts s..arply with the $750,000 reported by these same corporations under the lobbying act.

"Much of the failure to report under the lobbying act, it is true, has been to undertainity as to its applicability. However, I believe that our committee's recommendations will clarify the question and thus provide the American people with a truer picture of the ways in which money is spent to influence congress."

Four teams will compete and the team scoring the highest at the state fair will receive an all-expense trip to the national 4-H Club congress in Chicago, November 24-December 2.

The Baptist ministers of Ouachita parish seem to have hit upon something that may prove highly helpful to the people of Ouachita and adjacent parishes when they went on record the last week advocating the erection of a Baptist hospital here. There is great need for more facilities of this kind for Monroe has become in the past two decades a great hospital center but even with four hospitals here it is known that the need is by no means met. St. Francis at this time is anxious to aid with a greatly enlarged institution, but another hospital, such as the Baptists might erect, would by no means oversupply the northeast Louisiana area.

In other cities, New Orleans and Alexandria, there are Baptist hospitals that are staffed excellently well and contribute largely to supplying the needs of the ailing public. The Baptists are, we understand, financially prepared to erect a hospital here when assured that the need exists and that public support will be forthcoming.

We seem to have made some progress but more is still needed in order to locate "Miss Ruth,"—a woman in a cafe opposite the parish school on South Grand street who some years ago was specially kind to some of the students that visited her place. In one case at least she trusted the young patron who now recalls that she still owes a sum to this woman and is able and willing to pay off even at this late day if she can find thi s"Miss Ruth."

A story in this column asking if anyone could identify the person sought and give the present address, resulted in a phone call and the information that she was before marriage Miss Ruth Blackwell. The party who called said that she and Miss Ruth were both patients in the Charity Hospital in New Orleans last January. She was at the time in room 508 there. By writing the hospital, the married name and present address of the woman can be obtained, it is understood. We pass on this information.

STIMSON

him as his war secretary on the eve of World War II when Stimson was 73. He retired to private life in 1945.

Messages of sorrow and tribute poured into the Stimson home today.

In Washington, Mr. Truman called Stimson's career in public service "one of the greatest and most inspiring in our history."

Mr. Hoover, too shocked to comment when he first learned of the death of his old friend, said later that Simson's service to his country was unparalleled in American life.

Mr. Hoover said that his "devoted friend" showed his "indomitable courage" by continuing in public office after 1930 although even then afflicted with a heart ailment.

"But despite this and after his three score years and ten, he established the unquestioned integrity and high administrative level to one of the two greatest armies the world ever assembled."

In London, Lewis W. Douglas, U. S. ambassador to Britain, called Stimson "truly one of the greatest Americans of our time."

Stimson's death, said secretary of the navy Matthews, "Takes from these United States an honored statesman and a great public servant with a high sense of duty."

The late President Roosevelt called Stimson to his cabinet in 1940 in a move to mould bi-partisan support for the war emergency. For the same reason, he also called another lifelong Republican, the late Frank Knox as secretary of the navy.

Many praised their acceptance as an example of patriotism, reasons growing out of the then hot third term issue.

Stimson is survived by his widow, the former Miss Mabel Wellington White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. White of New Haven, Conn. The Stimsons had no children.

Of his marriage and Mrs. Stimson, Stimson wrote three years ago in his memoirs:

"That marriage has now lasted over 54 years, during which she has ever been my devoted companion, and the greatest happiness of my life."

U. N. GROUP CALLS

out that the question of Chinese representation was being discussed elsewhere in the assembly, the committee twice defeated the Vishinsky proposal on grounds that it was inadmissible. The first vote was 26 against, 13 in favor, and 16 abstaining. The second was 35 against, 12 in favor and 11 abstaining. This left the Nationalists as still China's representatives in the United Nations.

Nationalist China's T. F. Tsiang compared the Red Chinese regime to the wartime quisling shadow government in Norway.

"It is the fruit of foreign intervention," he declared. "It is a satellite set up to serve the Soviet Union."

Vishinsky strongly objected. He pointed out that none of the wartime allies recognized quisling. The Chinese Communist government, on the other hand, has won the recognition of many U. N. members, he said.

The projected Big Five meeting on the secretary-general immediately raised the question of whether the Russians would talk with the Chinese Nationalists. Malik made no objections today in the council when it agreed on the Big Five talks, however.

Fadhil El-Jamli of Iraq, one of the sponsors of the resolution, stressed today that his proposal invisaged separate consultations.

He even suggested as a starter an immediate Soviet - American parley to try to settle the Chinese representation issue. Neither Dulles nor Vishinsky commented on this proposal.

Vishinsky took the occasion to chide the committee for favoring talks by the five big power security council members. Observing that the committee has been proclaiming that final power rests with the general assembly, he asked why the committee now "tries to wash its hands and shift responsibilities back on the security council."

"What is at stake is the truth and you can't shift it from Pilate to Pontius and from Pontius to Pilate."

Vishinsky was referring to the committee's approval of a United States proposal empowering the general assembly to meet 24-hours notice whenever the veto-blocked security council fails to act on a peace threat.

The committee will begin debating Monday on the Vishinsky peace proposal calling for a five-power peace pact, reduction of armaments, and a ban on atomic bombs.

Red army, reduced to disorganized remnants, was making no firm stand anywhere.

That army, once a ruthless, Soviet-equipped invasion force of 130,000, now is estimated by General MacArthur's headquarters at 68,000 men unsupplied and unable to get set anywhere for a stand against overwhelming United Nations forces.

MacArthur's intelligence officers said a daring air drop of 4,100 U. S. paratroopers at points 30 miles north of the fallen Red capital of Pyongyang Friday trapped nearly half the shattered Red force—28,000 men.

The officers added that some of the trapped Reds undoubtedly would escape into the hills to form harassing guerrilla bands, as they have done before in the south.

Five Korean Republican divisions, under orders of General MacArthur to drive to the Manchurian border as fast as possible, were roughly 80 miles from that line on a diagonal front Saturday.

The Republican sixth division was 85 miles southeast of Manchuria at Sunchon, where it linked up with the U. S. parachutists Friday. The Republican eighth division was reported right behind the sixth, and the seventh was just to the east.

On the northeast coast, forward elements of the Republican capital division were 40 miles northeast of the big captured industrial area of Hamhung-Hungnam and still driving north with close support of the U. S. first marine air wing.

The South Korean third division was last reported still in the area of Wonsan, big port about 50 miles south of Hungnam.

The South Korean forces in the Wonsan-Hamhung area were under the command of Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, MacArthur's chief of staff, who liberated Seoul with his tenth corps.

Almond visited Hamhung Saturday and coordinated plans with forward ground leaders for rapid follow-up of the Red remnants to the north.

The job of chasing the Reds to the Manchurian frontier of Red China apparently is up to South Korean troops alone. Indications were that other United Nations troops would be kept well away from that explosive line, to avoid possibility of border incidents.

A Korean Communist broadcast from Sinuiju, a Korean city at the Manchurian border, announced the establishment of a refugee Red capital there.

Sinuiju is one of "Twin Cities" astride the Yaju river boundary, on the Manchurian side is the city of Antung.

The broadcast said a "standing committee" of the North Korean Red regime had decided to make Sinuiju the new capital and that the Sinuiju radio hereafter would be the "official" Red voice.

SAWYER PREDICTS FURTHER CURBS

Next War May Not Be Foreign, He Warns; War At Home Must Be Considered

New York, Oct. 21—(AP)—Secretary Charles Sawyer said tonight that further controls on strategic materials probably will be imposed. He called for national sacrifices to prepare for a war which might be fought on the home territory of the United States.

In a speech before the New York post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Cabinet Officer said that up to now all our wars have been "foreign wars."

"It is well to remind ourselves that this will not necessarily be true in the future," he said. "A picture of war in all its repulsive aspects being waged upon our soil is one from which most Americans shrink. In fact, many of our people have thought of was in the last 40 years only as some horrid contests which takes place outside the United States and which we always win.

"We should think about war as a possibility here at home, and—unless we are well prepared—as a war which we might lose."

Production is the great problem on the home front, Sawyer said.

"Managers must employ every device and make every sacrifice necessary to increase production, even though it does not increase profits, or even though it reduces profits.

"The soldier is getting no increased profit or enlarged income. Workers must do the same. They must do all that they can to increase production, even though this involves longer hours. The soldier has no eight-hour day."

Sawyer said some people have the mistaken idea that controls are designed to limit production. He emphasized that the purpose of controls is to give the military establishment the materials it needs for defense.

The nation he said, faces serious problems of inflation and shortages. Inflation can only be cured by greater supply or lesser demand, Sawyer added.

"Expansion, however, is the real solution to our problem of balancing supply against demand," he said. "The sooner we increase production and the means of moving and distributing the goods we make, the sooner we will have a normal economy with minimum of controls."

German people as to this proposal."

The communique closed with the statement that the nations represented — Russia, Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Hungary, Poland and East Germany — will do "everything in their power to facilitate the accomplishment of those undelayable tasks."

(The communique in several cases parallels proposals made by Russia alone in the past. Unification of Germany is the avowed aim of both the east and west. But Russia has rejected all western suggestions to that end. Each side accuses the other of violating the Potsdam pact.

The communique was given to some 40 reporters at a news conference in the massive Czernin Palace, home of the Czechoslovak foreign ministry, on a hill overlooking Prague. The conference was called by the ministry's press department. The reporters had been waiting an hour and 35 minutes when the communique was finally handed out.

The Soviet government warned the United States, Britain and France in formal notes earlier this week that it would not tolerate remilitarization of the western-occupied zones of Germany.

The assembly approved the text of a communique concerning the problem of the resolution of the New York conference (Sept. 19) of the three powers — the United States, Great Britain and France — on the remilitarization of Western Germany," the Czech foreign ministry said.

The ministers met this morning under the chairmanship of Vasile Natanjli, Albanian minister to Moscow, discussed German remilitarization and then set up a commission to "edit their proposals." The night session followed.

Bulgarian Foreign Minister Mincho Neychev was chairman of the final meeting.

Includes Limited Authority In South, Separate Elections In North

Seoul, Oct. 21 —(AP)— The government of President Syngman Rhee will work with the United Nations and its Field Commander, General MacArthur "in complete harmony" to win the peace in Korea, the highest Korean Republican sources let it be known today.

This includes temporarily limiting Rhee's authority to territory south of the 38th parallel and holding separate elections north of that line under U. N. supervision.

In the long run, however, persons close to the Republican President still feel it is "utterly absurd" to limit Rhee's authority to 21,000,000 southerners and leave 10,000,000 northerners under U.N. control.

Nearly 4,000,000 people in South Korea are refugees from the north.

"Some of these have the capacity for leadership in a democracy," one high source said.

The Rhee government balked when first accounts arrived here that the United Nations Commission on Korea favored confining Rhee's authority to the south, putting civil control of northern territory under General MacArthur as U. N. Field Commander, and calling for general elections throughout the country.

The accounts were ambiguous here. They brought a burst of resentment from the President, his cabinet and members of the Republican Assembly.

However, Rhee has full confidence in General MacArthur and in the Supreme Commander's discretion in selecting governors and lesser leaders for the five provinces in North Korea.

It was felt that it would be only natural for those best acquainted with the region, (meaning Rhee) to be consulted in political appointments.

There is every indication now that this consultation is being—and will be—carried out.

As for elections, it now appears that those assemblymen elected in the south last May 30 who still are alive and loyal to the Republic will continue in office.

Elections in the north under U.N. supervision after the public has been freed from the influence and domination of Communists would meet with no objections from the Rhee government, it was learned.

state president W. L. "Jack" Howard of Monroe, more than 20,000 members of the Jaycees, school officials and students and members of other clubs and civic groups participated actively on committees and other units.

"In every way," said Howard, "this week has meant success to our aims. We hope that it has meant something as big to everyone in the state. If this week has served only to make some people think of the blessing that Americanism is, and the dangers to our way of life from Marxist influences, it has really succeeded."

Howard also issued a special note of gratitude to the Monroe radio stations, the Monroe News-Star and Morning World and to clubs and organizations which helped in the drive. He singled out for special praise Miles A. Newburn and state representative R. C. White, Jr., in charge of the week, and the coordinating councilmen for each of the days.

We feel that we've declared ourselves as Americans and Jaycees on the issues of communism and encroaching socialism" he concluded, "and we only hope that the observance of this special week will knit Americans closer together in a fight to preserve individual initiative and enterprise in the face of a trend to the left."

the withdrawal from Langson, which the French originally occupied in 1885. French authorities said the movement proceeded efficiently under tir force cover, and clashes with the Vietminh were limited to small skirmishes.

Yielded to the Vietminh is a near impregnable mountainous base area with good trans - frontier connections to supply sources and training centers in Red China.

This means the Soviet-backed Ho Chi Minh regime now has the space and means of preparing a full scale military offensive against the principal French strongholds farther south. The purely guerrilla phase of the four-year old war in Indo-China has ended.

The turning point was marked this month by a seriesof stunning reverses for the French frontier garrisons. In two weeks, the French lost more than 3,000 of their first line troops.

Official French reports declare that more than 20,000 Vietminh troops are being trained near the frontier within Communist China.

Vietminh recruits are said to be returning from China, uniformed, trained and armed. Most of the equipment is described here as American materiel taken by the Chinese Communists from Chiang Kai-Shek's route armies.

ing $7,648,560 in federal aid funds. Mississippi's divides its seven-cent gas tax as follows: Two and one-half cents goes to the counties; three cents to the state highway commission for retirement of previously issued gasoline revenue bonds, for road protection in three ccast counties and for maintenance; and 1½ cents is "frozen" cents of the 7-cent tax frozen for for new construction on the state system.

Actually, Mississippi will get $6,-100,000, which represents the 1½ cents of the 7-cent tax frozen for new construction, and the $8,000,-000 diverted from the general fund for the new pay-as-you-go program for rural state roads. The $7,648,-560 in federal aid funds is added to this figure. However, only the $6,100,000 is specifically dedicated to new construction, plus the federal aid funds and the 10 per cent which the counties will kick back to match state funds.

Mississippi, which adheres to a policy of operating within its budget each year, actually owes only $65,758,000 of the principal of highway revenue bonds, and $18,919,-850 in interest. These bonds will be retired Feburary 1, 1971. The present Louisiana highway bonds will be retired in 1965, but the $140,000,000 would add approximately another $200,000,000 to the indebtedness, which would not be paid off until 1975.

During the 1949-1950 fiscal year ending June 30 the regular revenues of the highway department were $53,000,000 and for the current fiscal year would reach $58,-000,000.

If road construction and other expenditures are maintained at the figure of the preceding fiscal year — $59,406,520.95—the department would dip into its surplus to the extent of $1,406,000. This "dipping" would not make a very large dent in the current balance of $91,000,000 in the highway fund.

Even if the highway construction program would be pushed up to $40,000,000 a year in the face of material shortages because of the current re-armament program, the balance would be reduced only to $81,000,000 by July 1951. Continuing this $40,000,000 program for another year, there would still be a balance of $71,000,000 in the fund when the legislature convenes in regular session in May, 1952.

If the department does have a balance of approximately $91,000,-000 (as its tabulations show), the questions arise in what form is this balance, and how available is it for highway construction.

The report shows that bills payable total $5,659,000. On the other hand, this is offset by bills receivable (money owed to the department) and by inventories, mainly of construction materials which are to be used in the near future. This ties up $6,000,000 of the $91,-000,000.

The cost of paying interest on outstanding highway bonds and paying off the bonds that will fall due in the present fiscal year is $8,841,671. This amount is set aside in a special reserve fund, and before the year ends it will be replaced by proceeds from the four-cent gasoline tax, the first revenues of which each year are pledged to highway bond payments.

This bond reserve reduces the money immediately available construction to $74,000,000. There would be a further deduction of close to $4,000,000 for purchase orders issued on supplies and material and not delivered. Most of this is for road construction, but if it is deducted from the total available there is left $70,000,000 for construction purposes.

Of this amount more than $20,-000,000 is in the federal treasury waiting for the state to draw it out for federal aid projects. Another $50,000,000 is in the form of cash, in the state treasury or in the bank account of the state department of highways.

The highway department refer to the fund as alloted funds and not surplus or free funds. They allot it for spending through a system of advance planning which takes care of the immediate allotment of every dollar as it becomes available.

There are three divisions of this allotment system. They are:

1. Contracts let, on which work is in progress. Payments are made as the work progresses and is approved. The funds set aside to pay for the work still to be done before these contracts are completed are classed as "committment vouchers—construction."

2. Proposed construction projects on which the preliminary planning and engineering has been completed and rights of way procured, but for which contracts have not been let.

3. Roads programmed for construction in the future, when the project is in shape for letting of the contract.

The June 30 report of the department shows the following constructions funds available, as separated by the report into various categories:

1. Commitment vouchers for construction work in progress—$20,-103,026.24.

2. Work authorizations (contracts not let)—$32,610,997.56.

3. Projects programmed — $10,-659,309.80.

4. Lakeshore highway (fund No. 2)—$2,543,279.48.

5. Oil royalties for work in certain parishes.

To this total of $68,590,000 can be added some of the $2,338,000 of inventories, consisting mainly of materials, part of which the department's own forces will buse in the construction of highways.

(A second article in this series will appear in the News-Star tomorrow.)

formed by Judge Harper that he had misunderstood the Mayor, that the case would be tried later. Captain McMurray on many occasions had arrested Monroe Phipps for gambling and bootlegging. The police records will show this.

"Regarding the charges that he offered to suppress bootlegging in order to let R. O. Roy sell whiskey, they are absolutely untrue and unfounded, not has he ever offered to let any other person do this.

"Regarding the charges that he drank whiskey in R. O. Roy's place, Captain McMurray does not know any person by the name of R. O. Roy.

"Regarding the charges that he refused to raid a poker game on the night of September 2, 1950, Captain McMurray admits he got a call to raid a residence at 106 Sixth Street in Monroe, and that he refused to let his officers raid this game, because his superior officer, then Chief H. T. Ward, and Judge Harper, had advised him that he could not go into a private home to raid a poker game or any other game without a warrant, and that he could not get a warrant unless he could prove that there was a gambling game going on which was against the law.

"Captain McMurray states that he has requested on numerous occasions that he be permitted to raid these games, and this request has been refused.

"In regarding charges that he has let gambling and bootlegging go on under his supervision, he specifically denies and shows, in order that the public might know, that during the two months' period from August 1, 1950, to September 30, 1950, the men under his supervision at night have raided and arrested over thirty (30) bootleggers and gamblers, all of whom were convicted, and on one particular night in August, the Captain raided five principal places of business in Monroe at the same time and arrested the owners or the operators of the gambling games, and they were all fined in City Court in the City of Monroe, Louisiana. Police records will bear this out.

"Captain McMurray states that if he was fired for these charges, that the other forty-five officers on the police force should also be fired, because it is impossible for them to suppress bootlegging and gambling entirely, and he certainly is not responsible for the whole police force.

"Officer Hunnicutt states charges that he came upon the three people on Adams street and used abusive language that was unbecoming an officer is absolutely untrue. That he did come upon a car with his fellow officer, M. L. Spangler, parked in the colored section of Monroe at 2 a.m. and because of instructions that he had received from Judge Harper, he told these people to move on, and denies he used abusive language to them, and that he understands that one of the occupants of the car was Rayville Fuller, who had been employed by Mayor Coon as a special investigator, and if Mr. Fuller says that he used abusive and indecent language, he is a liar.

"Regarding the charges of an arrest made by him at Hill's Barbecue, he states that this is absolutely unfounded; that the person arrested at Hill's Barbecue came into the barbecue stand drunk and cursing and carrying on, and his fellow officer, R. B. Berger asked him to stop, and that he refused to stop, and was placed under arrest by Officer R. B. Berger. That he at no time used abusive language towards this party who was later tried in the City Court and fined for being drunk and disorderly and resisting arrest. This will be borne out by the police record and Court Dockets of Judge Harper's Court.

"Officer Hunnicutt states tha regarding his suppression of gambling and bootlegging, he feels sure that even the gamblers and bootleggers will testify that they know that he and Captain McMurray will not permit gambling or bootlegging while they are on duty.

"Hunnicutt and McMurray state that they do not know of anything in the charges filed against them that is true, and that they will proves same at the hearing before the Civil Service Board, and that they especially invite the public of Monroe to attend this hearing so that they can see who should be fired and who should not be fired. The public should know what is going on in the City of Monroe, and at this hearing it will certainly be brought out.

"Guerriero states to the press he was surprised at the flimsy charges filed, and that he specifically requests the City of Monroe to furnish him with the name and location of place of business owned by one R. O. Roy, or R. G. Roy, or R. C. Roy. That as far as he knows, that no such person exists, and that all the charges filed against Capt. McMurray and Officer Hunnicutt are absolutely untrue and unfounded, and cannot be proved."

ESCORT VESSELS DONATED GREECE

Part Of America's Developing Program Of Arms Aid To Anti-Red Nations

Washington, Oct. 21. —(AP) —The U. S. will give Greece a number of destroyer escort vessels as part of America's developing program of arms aid to anti-Communist governments.

This was reported today by a military assistance official. He declined to disclose the number of ships involved.

Commenting on a news dispatch from Athens, quoting a government source as saying Greece will receive six destroyers from this country, the official here said the vessels will not be destroyers.

Instead, he declared, they will be 1,240-ton destroyer escorts of a modern type that played an important part in anti - submarine operations during World War II. Destroyers usually displace 2,000 tons or more. The destroyer escorts would be useful for anti-submarine and coastal patrols in the Mediterranean.

The dispatch from Athens said Greek crews for the ships are already on their way to the U. S.

The gift to Greece will continue a program of naval arms aid under which 18 infantry landing ships and six landing support ships are now on their way to Indo-China. French troops in that southeast Asia country recently have abandoned outposts near the border of Communist China in the face of Communist-led opponents.

The landing ships are about 150 feet long and have a capacity of about 200 troops each; the landing support ships are about the same size and normally are armed with one three-inch and four 40 mm guns. They are expected to give increased mobility to defense forces around Indo - China's long coast.

The destroyer escorts reported earmarked for Greece are similar to four which already have been turned over to France. Two others are to be turned over to the Netherlands navy at the Boston navy yard Monday.

Other vessels delivered to friendly foreign countries include a submarine rescue tender turned over to Turkey about two months ago. Two submarines also are being overhauled and refitted for delivery to Turkey.

Most of the destroyer escorts involved in the program are being taken out of the navy's "mothball" fleet and overhauled before being turned over to foreign crews, several months usually are allowed for the foreign crews to become familiar with their operations.

The destroyer escorts turned over to France were made ready at the Philadelphia navy yard.

Embittered Schoolboy Kills Both Parents

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 21—(AP)—A 14-year-old schoolboy confessed today, state police said, that he shot his father and mother to death because he was punished unfairly.

Raymond Peers, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Peers, was quoted as saying he killed his parents for "punishing me when I didn't have it coming."

His father, a 44-year-old Mattawan High School manual training instructor, was mortally wounded while standing on a ladder outside their farm home.

The boy then called his mother Marian, 38, from her bed and killed her with a shot in the forehead, state police Sgt. Kenneth H. Cook and Detective John Dalman said.

China, The United States and Russia—to meet Sunday or Monday to try to decide on a mutually acceptable candidate. They would report the result in the form of a memorandum to other council members Tuesday.

The big five talks will be the first held in the spirit of a request made by the Assembly's Political Committee today, asking them to get together in an effort to settle outstanding differences.

Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb warned that it was doubtful if the new consultations would result in agreement. He said he had pressed repeatedly for such talks six weeks ago, but that Malik had refused. Malik later used Russia's 46th veto to block Lie's renomination when the question first came up formally in the council last week.

Yugoslavia's Ales Bebler said the council's 9-1 vote for Lie at that time constituted a "moral committment" which should not now be reversed. Malik retorted that this was "a novel interpretation of the charter"—which gives Russia, the United States, Britain, France and China the right of veto—and then made his proposal for a new meeting of those five countries.

Nationalist China's delegate, C. L. Hsia, suggested the Tuesday time limit. Malik made no objection to having his proposal modified by the man whose presence in the Council he has previously denounced as illegal.

The Russian also agreed that the Chinese Nationalists would be one of the big five consulted. The Soviet Union has previously insisted that such meetings could be held only if a delegate from the Communist Peiping regime represented China.

Should the big five talks fail in their purpose—and most observers believe they will — the Council would probably report to the veto-free General Assembly that it had been unable to reach agreement.

The U. N. Chater says the Assembly shall appoint the Secretary General upon the recommendation of the Security Council. The Charter prescribes no termn of service. Thus the Assembly could merely extend Lie's term.

This would have the effect of keeping Lie in his $40,000 a year job until some possible lessening of east-west tension made agreement on a successor possible. Lie's present five-year term ends Feb. 1, 1951.

Two names have been suggested as possible compromise candidates but it is doubtful they can line up majority support.

They are Sir Ramaswami Mudaliar of India and Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico. The chief Indian delegate, Sir Benegal N. Rau, is a dark horse in the speculation.

Rau had proposed earlier that the Council members submit two names each and the big five try to find one among them that would be acceptable. He withdrew this proposal today when it appeared doomed to rejection.

LOBBYING

and still others said they did not engage in lobbying activities.

He stressed that the 173 corporations which made some answers to questionnaires represent only a small proportion of all the corporations in the United States. There are more than 500,000 corporations — big, meedium and little.

"I firmly believe that the business of influencing legislation is a billion dollar industry," Buchanan commented. "The $32,000,000 reported in response to our letter contrasts s..arply with the $750,000 reported by these same corporations under the lobbying act.

"Much of the failure to report under the lobbying act, it is true, has been to undertainity as to its applicability. However, I believe that our committee's recommendations will clarify the question and thus provide the American people with a truer picture of the ways in which money is spent to influence congress."

Four teams will compete and the team scoring the highest at the state fair will receive an all-expense trip to the national 4-H Club congress in Chicago, November 24-December 2.

The Baptist ministers of Ouachita parish seem to have hit upon something that may prove highly helpful to the people of Ouachita and adjacent parishes when they went on record the last week advocating the erection of a Baptist hospital here. There is great need for more facilities of this kind for Monroe has become in the past two decades a great hospital center but even with four hospitals here it is known that the need is by no means met. St. Francis at this time is anxious to aid with a greatly enlarged institution, but another hospital, such as the Baptists might erect, would by no means oversupply the northeast Louisiana area.

In other cities, New Orleans and Alexandria, there are Baptist hospitals that are staffed excellently well and contribute largely to supplying the needs of the ailing public. The Baptists are, we understand, financially prepared to erect a hospital here when assured that the need exists and that public support will be forthcoming.

We seem to have made some progress but more is still needed in order to locate "Miss Ruth,"—a woman in a cafe opposite the parish school on South Grand street who some years ago was specially kind to some of the students that visited her place. In one case at least she trusted the young patron who now recalls that she still owes a sum to this woman and is able and willing to pay off even at this late day if she can find thi s"Miss Ruth."

A story in this column asking if anyone could identify the person sought and give the present address, resulted in a phone call and the information that she was before marriage Miss Ruth Blackwell. The party who called said that she and Miss Ruth were both patients in the Charity Hospital in New Orleans last January. She was at the time in room 508 there. By writing the hospital, the married name and present address of the woman can be obtained, it is understood. We pass on this information.

him as his war secretary on the eve of World War II when Stimson was 73. He retired to private life in 1945.

Messages of sorrow and tribute poured into the Stimson home today.

In Washington, Mr. Truman called Stimson's career in public service "one of the greatest and most inspiring in our history."

Mr. Hoover, too shocked to comment when he first learned of the death of his old friend, said later that Simson's service to his country was unparalleled in American life.

Mr. Hoover said that his "devoted friend" showed his "indomitable courage" by continuing in public office after 1930 although even then afflicted with a heart ailment.

"But despite this and after his three score years and ten, he established the unquestioned integrity and high administrative level to one of the two greatest armies the world ever assembled."

In London, Lewis W. Douglas, U. S. ambassador to Britain, called Stimson "truly one of the greatest Americans of our time."

Stimson's death, said secretary of the navy Matthews, "Takes from these United States an honored statesman and a great public servant with a high sense of duty."

The late President Roosevelt called Stimson to his cabinet in 1940 in a move to mould bi-partisan support for the war emergency. For the same reason, he also called another lifelong Republican, the late Frank Knox as secretary of the navy.

Many praised their acceptance as an example of patriotism, reasons growing out of the then hot third term issue.

Stimson is survived by his widow, the former Miss Mabel Wellington White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. White of New Haven, Conn. The Stimsons had no children.

Of his marriage and Mrs. Stimson, Stimson wrote three years ago in his memoirs:

"That marriage has now lasted over 54 years, during which she has ever been my devoted companion, and the greatest happiness of my life."

out that the question of Chinese representation was being discussed elsewhere in the assembly, the committee twice defeated the Vishinsky proposal on grounds that it was inadmissible. The first vote was 26 against, 13 in favor, and 16 abstaining. The second was 35 against, 12 in favor and 11 abstaining. This left the Nationalists as still China's representatives in the United Nations.

Nationalist China's T. F. Tsiang compared the Red Chinese regime to the wartime quisling shadow government in Norway.

"It is the fruit of foreign intervention," he declared. "It is a satellite set up to serve the Soviet Union."

Vishinsky strongly objected. He pointed out that none of the wartime allies recognized quisling. The Chinese Communist government, on the other hand, has won the recognition of many U. N. members, he said.

The projected Big Five meeting on the secretary-general immediately raised the question of whether the Russians would talk with the Chinese Nationalists. Malik made no objections today in the council when it agreed on the Big Five talks, however.

Fadhil El-Jamli of Iraq, one of the sponsors of the resolution, stressed today that his proposal invisaged separate consultations.

He even suggested as a starter an immediate Soviet - American parley to try to settle the Chinese representation issue. Neither Dulles nor Vishinsky commented on this proposal.

Vishinsky took the occasion to chide the committee for favoring talks by the five big power security council members. Observing that the committee has been proclaiming that final power rests with the general assembly, he asked why the committee now "tries to wash its hands and shift responsibilities back on the security council."

"What is at stake is the truth and you can't shift it from Pilate to Pontius and from Pontius to Pilate."

Vishinsky was referring to the committee's approval of a United States proposal empowering the general assembly to meet 24-hours notice whenever the veto-blocked security council fails to act on a peace threat.

The committee will begin debating Monday on the Vishinsky peace proposal calling for a five-power peace pact, reduction of armaments, and a ban on atomic bombs.

Red army, reduced to disorganized remnants, was making no firm stand anywhere.

That army, once a ruthless, Soviet-equipped invasion force of 150,000, now is estimated by General MacArthur's headquarters at 68,000 men unsupplied and unable to get set anywhere for a stand against overwhelming United Nations forces.

MacArthur's intelligence officers said a daring air drop of 4,100 U. S. paratroopers at points 30 miles north of the fallen Red capital of Pyongyang Friday trapped nearly half the shattered Red force—28,000 men.

The officers added that some of the trapped Reds undoubtedly would escape into the hills to form harassing guerrilla bands, as they have done before in the south.

Five Korean Republican divisions, under orders of General MacArthur to drive to the Manchurian border as fast as possible, were roughly 80 miles from that line on a diagonal front Saturday.

The Republican sixth division was 85 miles southeast of Manchuria at Sunchon, where it linked up with the U. S. parachutists Friday. The Republican eighth division was reported right behind the sixth, and the seventh was just to the east.

On the northeast coast, forward elements of the Republican capital division were 40 miles northeast of the big captured industrial area of Hamhung-Hungnam and still driving north with close support of the U. S. first marine air wing.

The South Korean third division was last reported still in the area of Wonsan, big port about 50 miles south of Hungnam.

The South Korean forces in the Wonsan-Hamhung area were under the command of Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, MacArthur's chief of staff, who liberated Seoul with his tenth corps.

Almond visited Hamhung Saturday and coordinated plans with forward ground leaders for rapid follow-up of the Red remnants to the north.

The job of chasing the Reds to the Manchurian frontier of Red China apparently is up to South Korean troops alone. Indications were that other United Nations troops would be kept well away from that explosive line, to avoid possibility of border incidents.

A Korean Communist broadcast from Sinuiju, a Korean city at the Manchurian border, announced the establishment of a refugee Red capital there.

Sinuiju is one of "Twin Cities" astride the Yaju river boundary, on the Manchurian side is the city of Antung.

The broadcast said a "standing committee" of the North Korean Red regime had decided to make Sinuiju the new capital and that the Sinuiju radio hereafter would be the "official" Red voice.

SAWYER PREDICTS FURTHER CURBS

Next War May Not Be Foreign, He Warns; War At Home Must Be Considered

New York, Oct. 21—(AP)—Secretary Charles Sawyer said tonight that further controls on strategic materials probably will be imposed. He called for national sacrifices to prepare for a war which might be fought on the home territory of the United States.

In a speech before the New York post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Cabinet Officer said that up to now all our wars have been "foreign wars."

"It is well to remind ourselves that this will not necessarily be true in the future," he said. "A picture of war in all its repulsive aspects being waged upon our soil is one from which most Americans shrink. In fact, many of our people have thought of was in the last 40 years only as some horrid contests which takes place outside the United States and which we always win.

"We should think about war as a possibility here at home, and—unless we are well prepared—as a war which we might lose."

Production is the great problem on the home front, Sawyer said.

"Managers must employ every device and make every sacrifice necessary to increase production, even though it does not increase profits, or even though it reduces profits.

"The soldier is getting no increased profit or enlarged income. Workers must do the same. They must do all that they can to increase production, even though this involves longer hours. The soldier has no eight-hour day."

Sawyer said some people have the mistaken idea that controls are designed to limit production. He emphasized that the purpose of controls is to give the military establishment the materials it needs for defense.

The nation he said, faces serious problems of inflation and shortages. Inflation can only be cured by greater supply or lesser demand, Sawyer added.

"Expansion, however, is the real solution to our problem of balancing supply against demand," he said. "The sooner we increase production and the means of moving and distributing the goods we make, the sooner we will have a normal economy with minimum of controls."

German people as to this proposal."

The communique closed with the statement that the nations represented — Russia, Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Hungary, Poland and East Germany — will do "everything in their power to facilitate the accomplishment of those undelayable tasks."

(The communique in several cases parallels proposals made by Russia alone in the past. Unification of Germany is the avowed aim of both the east and west. But Russia has rejected all western suggestions to that end. Each side accuses the other of violating the Potsdam pact.

The communique was given to some 40 reporters at a news conference in the massive Czernin Palace, home of the Czechoslovak foreign ministry, on a hill overlooking Prague. The conference was called by the ministry's press department. The reporters had been waiting an hour and 35 minutes when the communique was finally handed out.

The Soviet government warned the United States, Britain and France in formal notes earlier this week that it would not tolerate remilitarization of the western-occupied zones of Germany.

The assembly approved the text of a communique concerning the problem of the resolution of the New York conference (Sept. 19) of the three powers — the United States, Great Britain and France — on the remilitarization of Western Germany," the Czech foreign ministry said.

The ministers met this morning under the chairmanship of Vasile Natanjli, Albanian minister to Moscow, discussed German remilitarization and then set up a commission to "edit their proposals." The night session followed.

Bulgarian Foreign Minister Mincho Neychev was chairman of the final meeting.

Atlantic Alliance Powers To Discuss Strategy For Defense Area

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)— Military leaders of the North Atlantic treaty powers get together here their common defense against Communist aggression.

From sessions of the subordinate military committee of the North Atlantic treaty organization will come recommendations to the defense ministers of the 12 nations.

Then, on Oct. 28, ministers themselves will begin a four-day parley at which they hope to agree on how many infantry divisions, ships and planes each nation will provide for the combined force—and how they will be used if any one of the treaty nations is attacked.

When Defense Secretary George C. Marshall initials the final agreements it will mark the end of a policy as old as the United States.

It will be a far step from George Washington's proclamation that "it is our true policy to steer clear of permanent alliances with any portion of the foreign world."

Many questions await answers at the Washington meetings.

Near the top, there is the matter of partially rearming western Germany under allied control. The United States advocates it. Britain has gone along — but with reservations. France, thrice invaded by German armies, has been holding out.

France has another problem which can affect her part in the Atlantic defense machine. She is engaged in hard war with Communist forces in Indo-China. It is a question how much military force she can provide elsewhere.

Then there is the question of naming a supreme commander for the western European defense force. The popular idea has been to appoint an American — perhaps Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower or Gen. Omar Bradley. The idea is about as old as the north Atlantic treaty organization itself.

MASS CHECKER PLAY PLANNED

Exhibition In Simultaneous Play Scheduled At Recreation Center

Now that some of the leading checker talent is out of town on vacation, W. G. Jasper, West Monroe enthusiast, says he is ready to take on the remaining checker players in the Twin Cities en masse. He is offering to play, simultaneously, Thursday night at 7 o'clock at the Monroe recreation center, 113 Catalpa street, all checker players who want to meet him at that time. If 15 or 20 checker players appear, Jasper says he will play that many boards at one time.

In checker contests each player is allowed five minutes in which to make each move. Jasper says he expects to make his moves in an average of less than 30 seconds each, thus moving at least 10 times as fast as the time required in match play. In this way the other players will have plenty of time to make their moves but will not have to wait extremely long.

This exhibition will be held for the purpose of promoting interest in a north Louisiana championship tournament to be held here within the near future. It is expected that the date for the tournament will be set Thursday night.

In previous tournaments here Choudrant and Dubach players frequently have won top places. Plsyers from these towns, as well as from a dozen other towns in north Louisiana are expected to take part in the tournament.

The lazy-man way to keep the doorsteps and walk clear of snow is bu use of an electrically heated mat. Made of rubber, the mat absorbs no water. There are water run-off channels on its upper surface.

KONZ ENABLES L.S.U. TO DEADLOCK GEORGIA

Ironman Play Of Triple-Threat Ace Keeps Tigers In Battle

By Warren Rogers, Jr. . . ..

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Kenny Konz, a triple - threat, sparked a bonfirfe to give his oft-beaten Louisiana State Tigers a 13-13 Southeastern Conference football tie with the undefeated Georgia tonight.

Some 25,000 fans roared a lusty ovation for Konz' oldtime iron man demonstration. They yelled when he helped set up Louisiana State's first touchdown by snaring a pass from Quarterback Norman Stevens. They screamed when he threw passes, punted out of danger and zipped for hefty gains. And they went wild when he personally tied the score with short runs for a touchdown and the extra point.

Konz, a fleet 185-pounder from Weimar, Tex., staged such a brilliant performance it even outshone the hard charging of the L.S.U. line. He was twice assisted from the field, only to return again.

He ran, passed and kicked on offense and played safety on defense. He carried on the last play of the game and fell only a few feet from the Georgia goal line in the final few seconds. But for Konz' apparent exhaustion, it would certainly have been the winning score.

Fullback Dick Raber and Quarterback Mal Cook of Georgia tallied the Bulldogs' two touchdowns. Raber pushed for two yards and a tally, and Cook did likewise after a 50-yard pass. Ray Prosperi to Zippy Morocco. End Bob Walston placekicked the extra point.

It was Georgia's third tie of the year in five games, the Bulldogs have won two. For Louisiana State the game was a brilliantly played moral upset, easily the Tigers' finest performance. After a shabby beginning which gave them only one victory in four starts.

Georgia scored early in the first period on Raber's plunge. The tally was set up by Quarterback Mal Cook's sparkling 57 yard dash from pass formation. The second Georgia score came on the first play of the final period with Cook going over.

Louisiana State went 65 yards to a third period touchdown. McLeod leaped between the clutching arms of two Georgia defenders to complete a pass from Stevens and the drive. L.S.U. came right back in the final quarter and, helped by 37 yards in penalties against Georgia, drove 68 yards, with Konz dashing over.

Louisiana State pulled a surprise early in the game, by shifting into a tight single wing. But Georgia mastered it after a few plays and the Bayou Bengals went back to their T-quarterbacking.

From ths slot, L. S. U. T-Quarberbacks Norm Stevens and Jim Barton clicked with 11 of 17 passes for a total of 135 yards gained passing. Georgia on the other hand, with Prosperi and Cook tossing, completed six of ten for 62 yards.

L. S. U. linemen Jim Shoaf, Hal Voss and Jim Lyle consistently outcharged the Georgia forward wall, giving the Bulldog runners and passers a bad case of hurry-up-itis. Georgia Guard Rocco Principal was strdy as Gibraltar in the Georgia middle.

INDIANS TAKE GOBBLERS

La. Tech Knocks Northwestern From Unbeaten Ranks

Gene Knecht Scores Twice For Techsters In State Fair Scrap

Shreveport, La., Oct. 21. —(AP)—The Louisiana Tech Bulldogs dropped the Northwestern State College Demons from the ranks of the unbeaten today with a convincing 15-7 conquest in their annual State Fair game. It was Tech's fifth consecutive win in the series and it knocked the Demons out of a tie for the Gulf States Conference lead.

The turning point of the fray came in the second quarter when Halfback Joe Lancaster fumbled a pass from center in the end-zone to give Tech a safety and an 8-7 lead.

Both teams scored in the first period, Northwestern on a 42-yard pass from Quarterback Johnny Emmons to End George Pheris and Tech on a three-yard plunge by Fullback Gene Knecht.

Louisiana Tech, defending G. S. C. champion, clinched the verdict in the final period when Knecht capped an 80-yard march by bulling two yards to score. Bobby Davis converted for the Demons and Ed Michaels booted a P. A. T. for the Techmen.

YELLOW JACKETS TAME PLAINSMEN

Georgia Tech Whips Auburn In Rain And Mud To Tune Of 20-0

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Georgia Tech pounded and punched Auburn with a powerful and safe running game for three quarters and then turned to spectacular and risky passing to win, 20—0, in the rain today.

The victory keeps Tech at the top of the Southeastern conference with an unbeaten league record after three games. The Yellow Jackets have lost twice outside the conference.

A crowd of 22,000 sat in the rain which lasted nearly all the mud splattered game. At the start runners for both teams slipped and skidded about but in the second quarter they found footing. From then on they were surefooted despite the mire.

Tech scored once in the first half after a pass interception on Auburn's 29-yard line. Bob McCoy stole the Plainsmen pass for the touchdown. Then for nearly two quarters the pass minded Yellow Jackets were practically grounded by the wet dangerous ball.

In the final quarter Tech could resist no longer and turned to the in the windup period and made the air. The Jackets scored 14 points game look like a runaway.

Tech sloshed up and down the field in the first half out-gaining and outplaying Auburn. But Tech's first half score came after what was more of an Auburn error than Tech's ground gaining ability.

Auburn Quarterback Allen Parks standing on his 23, tried to find a receiver, was partially tackled but dangerously got off his pass anyway. The ball sailed straight to Tech Halfback McCoy on Auburn's 29. McCoy easily ran down the sideline to a touchdown.

In the final quarter Tech decided to use its famous razzle dazzle passing game. After a series of runs mixed with passes, Tech scored on Darrell Crawford's quarterback sneak from the one foot line.

Five minutes later Crawford passed to End John Weigle who lateraled to tackle Lum Snuder who ran to Auburn's 13. The play covered 40 yards. With one minute to go in the game Crawford passed to Weigle in the end zone for Tech's third touchdown.

Score by quarters:

Ga. Tech scoring: touchdowns—McCoy, Crawford, Weigh. Conversions-Patton (2).

Recreation Center To Sponsor Cage Leagues

The Monroe Recreation Center will sponsor all of the local basketball leagues in operation last year, with an additional loop for grammar school boys, manager Jack Hesketh said lastnight.

"We want all the teams which played last year to enter, and all teams that want to play should let the Recreation Department know as soon as possible," the director added.

Last year 31 teams were sponsored by the Department. Plans fo. the League this winter set most of the games to be played at the Selman Field gymnasium. Season - opening matches begin about November 1, depending upon late entries and calcellations.

The Selman gymnasium opens for practice November 1, and reservations fo. use should be made in advance.

Leagues this year include: Midget, 14 or under, Junior, 18 or under, City, for men; a girl's league and the grammar school league for boys in the sixth grade or lower.

New teams wishing to enter, as well as the old league members, should notify the department, and mention which league they want to enter.

Gophers Take Fourth Drubbing From Bucks

Minneapolis, Oct. 21.—(AP)— Ohio State's Buckeyes used everything in their book to overwhelm Minnesota's hapless and badly outclassed Gophers, 48 to 0, in a Western Conference football game today.

The defeat, the fourth in a row for Minnesota, was one of the worst drubbings every absorbed by a Gopher squad. It was the third victory in four starts for Ohio State.

Passes and a pass interception were used by Ohio State to set up and score their first four touchdowns. Then, just to prove they had the power on the ground as well, they sent ball carriers over for the last three scores in the fourth period.

Striking swiftly the first time they took the ball, last year's Rose Bowl victors and conference co-champions, scored just three minutes and 19 seconds after the game started. From then on it was just a question of how high they wanted to run the score.

Ohio State	7	14	7	20—	48

MICHIGAN MIGHT TRIPS WISCONSIN

Badgers Suffer First Defeat Of Season As Wolverines Win, 26-13

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Chuck Ortmann's brilliant passing and off tackle smashes led Michigan to a 26 to 13 rout of previously-unbeaten Wisconsin today. A homecoming crowd of 91,202 saw Michigan get its first Big Ten win.

The big Milwaukee blond sparked the Wolverines to a 20-0 lead late in the third period and then left the game to watch his mates add the balance.

The Wolverines were in complete command most of the way. They scored on Ortmann's 16-yard off tackle smash in the first period. Ortmann added a beautiful 29-yard touchdown pass to quarterback Bill Putich late in the second period.

The rugged Michigan tailback then teamed with Line-smashing Don Dufek to run the ball 52 yards, all on the ground, for a third touchdown early in the third period. Dufek went the last year. Dufek quickly added another touchdown when Wisconsin Quarterback Bob Petruska's pass was intercepted deep in his own territory.

Wisconsin's only scoring came late in the final period after Coach Bennie Oosterbaan sent in the Michigan reserves.

Johnny Coatta was responsible for all the Wisconsin points. He passed 20 yards to Bob Mansfield for the first touchdown and ran five yards after a Michigan fumble to score the second one.

Score by quarters:

KONZ ENABLES L.S.U. TO DEADLOCK GEORGIA

By Warren Rogers, Jr. . . . .

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Kenny Konz, a triple - threat, sparked a bonfirfe to give his oft-beaten Louisiana State Tigers a 13-13 Southeastern Conference football tie with the undefeated Georgia tonight.

Some 25,000 fans roared a lusty ovation for Konz' oldtime iron man demonstration. They yelled when he helped set up Louisiana State's first touchdown by snaring a pass from Quarterback Norman Stevens. They screamed when he threw passes, punted out of danger and zipped for hefty gains. And they went wild when he personally tied the score with short runs for a touchdown and the extra point.

Konz, a fleet 185-pounder from Weimar, Tex., staged such a brilliant performance it even outshone the hard charging of the L.S.U. line. He was twice assisted from the field, only to return again.

He ran, passed and kicked on offense and played safety on defense. He carried on the last play of the game and fell only a few feet from the Georgia goal line in the final few seconds. But for Konz' apparent exhaustion, it would certainly have been the winning score.

Fullback Dick Raber and Quarterback Mal Cook of Georgia tallied the Bulldogs' two touchdowns. Raber pushed for two yards and a tally, and Cook did likewise after a 50-yard pass. Ray Prosperi to Zippy Morocco. End Bob Walston placekicked the extra point.

It was Georgia's third tie of the year in five games, the Bulldogs have won two. For Louisiana State the game was a brilliantly played moral upset, easily the Tigers' finest performance. After a shabby beginning which gave them only one victory in four starts.

Georgia scored early in the first period on Raber's plunge. The tally was set up by Quarterback Mal Cook's sparkling 57 yard dash from pass formation. The second Georgia score came on the first play of the final period with Cook going over.

Louisiana State went 65 yards to a third period touchdown. McLeod leaped between the clutching arms of two Georgia defenders to complete a pass from Stevens and the drive. L.S.U. came right back in the final quarter and, helped by 37 yards in penalties against Georgia, drove 68 yards, with Konz dashing over.

Louisiana State pulled a surprise early in the game, by shifting into a tight single wing. But Georgia mastered it after a few plays and the Bayou Bengals went back to their T-quarterbacking.

From ths slot, L. S. U. T-Quarterbacks Norm Stevens and Jim Barton clicked with 11 of 17 passes for a total of 135 yards gained passing. Georgia on the other hand, with Prosperi and Cook tossing, completed six of ten for 62 yards.

L. S. U. linemen Jim Shoaf, Hal Voss and Jim Lyle consistently outcharged the Georgia forward wall, giving the Bulldog runners and passers a bad case of hurry-up-itis. Georgia Guard Rocco Principal was strdy as Gibraltar in the Georgia middle.

INDIANS TAKE GOBBLERS

La. Tech Knocks Northwestern From Unbeaten Ranks

Gene Knecht Scores Twice For Techsters In State Fair Scrap

Shreveport, La., Oct. 21. —(AP)—The Louisiana Tech Bulldogs dropped the Northwestern State College Demons from the ranks of the unbeaten today with a convincing 15-7 conquest in their annual State Fair game. It was Tech's fifth consecutive win in the series and it knocked the Demons out of a tie for the Gulf States Conference lead.

The turning point of the fray came in the second quarter when Halfback Joe Lancaster fumbled a pass from center in the endzone to give Tech a safety and an 8-7 lead.

Both teams scored in the first period, Northwestern on a 42-yard pass from Quarterback Johnny Emmons to End George Pheris and Tech on a three-yard plunge by Fullback Gene Knecht.

Louisiana Tech, defending G. S. C. champion, clinched the verdict in the final period when Knecht capped an 80-yard march by bulling two yards to score. Bobby Davis converted for the Demons and Ed Michaels booted a P. A. T. for the Techmen.

YELLOW JACKETS TAME PLAINSMEN

Georgia Tech Whips Auburn In Rain And Mud To Tune Of 20-0

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Georgia Tech pounded and punched Auburn with a powerful and safe running game for three quarters and then turned to spectacular and risky passing to win, 20—0, in the rain today.

The victory keeps Tech at the top of the Southeastern conference with an unbeaten league record after three games. The Yellow Jackets have lost twice outside the conference.

A crowd of 22,000 sat in the rain which lasted nearly all the mud splattered game. At the start runners for both teams slipped and skidded about but in the second quarter they found footing. From then on they were surefooted despite the mire.

Tech scored once in the first half after a pass interception on Auburn's 29-yard line. Bob McCoy stole the Plainsmen pass for the touchdown. Then for nearly two quarters the pass minded Yellow Jackets were practically grounded by the wet dangerous ball.

In the final quarter Tech could resist no longer and turned to the in the windup period and made the air. The Jackets scored 14 points game look like a runaway.

Tech sloshed up and down the field in the first half out-gaining and outplaying Auburn. But Tech's first half score came after what was more of an Auburn error than Tech's ground gaining ability.

Auburn Quarterback Allen Parks standing on his 23, tried to find a receiver, was partially tackled but dangerously got off his pass anyway. The ball sailed straight to Tech Halfback McCoy on Auburn's 29. McCoy easily ran down the sideline to a touchdown.

In the final quarter Tech decided to use its famous razzle dazzle passing game. After a series of runs mixed with passes, Tech scored on Darrell Crawford's quarterback sneak from the one foot line.

Five minutes later Crawford passed to End John Weigle who lateraled to tackle Lum Snuder who ran to Auburn's 13. The play covered 40 yards. With one minute to go in the game Crawford passed to Weigle in the end zone for Tech's third touchdown.

Score by quarters:

Ga. Tech scoring: touchdowns—McCoy, Crawford, Weigh. Conversions-Patton (2).

Recreation Center To Sponsor Cage Leagues

The Monroe Recreation Center will sponsor all of the local basketball leagues in operation last year, with an additional loop for grammar school boys, manager Jack Hesketh said lastnight.

"We want all the teams which played last year to enter, and all teams that want to play should let the Recreation Department know as soon as possible," the director added.

Last year 31 teams were sponsored by the Department. Plans fo. the League this winter set most of the games to be played at the Selman Field gymnasium. Season - opening matches begin about November 1, depending upon late entries and calcellations.

The Selman gymnasium opens for practice November 1, and reservations fo. use should be made in advance.

Leagues this year include: Midget, 14 or under, Junior, 18 or under, City, for men; a girl's league and the grammar school league for boys in the sixth grade or lower.

New teams wishing to enter, as well as the old league members, should notify the department, and mention which league they want to enter.

Gophers Take Fourth Drubbing From Bucks

Minneapolis, Oct. 21.—(AP)— Ohio State's Buckeyes used everything in their book to overwhelm Minnesota's hapless and badly outclassed Gophers, 48 to 0, in a Western Conference football game today.

The defeat, the fourth in a row for Minnesota, was one of the worst drubbings every absorbed by a Gopher squad. It was the third victory in four starts for Ohio State.

Passes and a pass interception were used by Ohio State to set up and score their first four touchdowns. Then, just to prove they had the power on the ground as well, they sent ball carriers over for the last three scores in the fourth period.

Striking swiftly the first time they took the ball, last year's Rose Bowl victors and conference co-champions, scored just three minutes and 19 seconds after the game started. From then on it was just a question of how high they wanted to run the score.

Former Bigtime Coach, Edwin Sweetland, Dead

Dryden, N. Y., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Edwin R. Sweetland, 75, former head football coach at Colgate, Syracuse and Ohio State universities, died today.

MICHIGAN MIGHT TRIPS WISCONSIN

Badgers Suffer First Defeat Of Season As Wolverines Win, 26-13

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Chuck Ortmann's brilliant passing and off tackle smashes led Michigan to a 26 to 13 rout of previously-unbeaten Wisconsin today. A homecoming crowd of 91,202 saw Michigan get its first Big Ten win.

The big Milwaukee blond sparked the Wolverines to a 20-0 lead late in the third period and then left the game to watch his mates add the balance.

The Wolverines were in complete command most of the way. They scored on Ortmann's 16-yard off tackle smash in the first period. Ortmann added a beautiful 29-yard touchdown pass to quarterback Bill Putich late in the second period.

The rugged Michigan tailback then teamed with Line-smashing Don Dufek to run the ball 52 yards, all on the ground, for a third touchdown early in the third period. Dufek went the last year. Dufek quickly added another touchdown when Wisconsin Quarterback Bob Petruska's pass was intercepted deep in his own territory.

Wisconsin's only scoring came late in the final period after Coach Bennie Oosterbaan sent in the Michigan reserves.

Johnny Coatta was responsible for all the Wisconsin points. He passed 20 yards to Bob Mansfield for the first touchdown and ran five yards after a Michigan fumble to score the second one.

Score by quarters:

Michigan	7	7	12	0	—26

Wisconsin scoring: touchdowns—Coatta 2. Conversions — Coatta.

NORTHEAST INDIANS AWAIT TYLER INVASION

Local Fans To See Nation's Front-Running Junior College Eleven

The Tyler Junior College Apaches, currently the nation's No. 1 junior college football machine, comes to Monroe Thursday night for a meeting with the Northeast Louisiana State College Indians at Brown Field in the first game to be played between the two schools.

The Apaches, runner-up for the national championship last year and winner of the 1949 Texas Rose Bowl, will come here highly favored to roll through Coach James L. Malone's rugged Redskins who will be entering the Big Six Conference contest with a four-game losing streak.

While the Indians were dropping a 20-0 decision to Panola last Thursday night, the Apaches were plastering the Cameron Aggies of Oklahoma, 53 to 7, in a stampede that might well be continued at the expense of Northeast. Cameron had earlier beaten Kilgore, 21-14.

Undefeated Tyler has rolled up 223 points so far this year against 46 for the opposition.

"Tyler has the biggest football team I've ever seen in junior college football," Coach Malone declared yesterday. "They're bigger than many four-year schools with a line averaging 211 from end to end and a backfield averaging a fraction over 197.

"There are few if any individual stars with Tyler. They just have 40 ball players, one just about as good as the other and team play pays off."

Probably at no time in the history of the school will Northeast enter a game so much in the underdog role as Thursday night, but Coach Malone and his Tribesmen are dreaming of an upset.

"I don't see any chance if Tyler's manpower holds up, but we'll be back on our home field after a month's absence, and I feel that if it hadn't been for some tough breaks we could have won some of those games. If we can get the breaks this time we might spring the biggest upset of the season in junior college circles Thursday.", Malone declared.

While announcing the Indians will be working in secret drill sessions this week, Coach Malone also revealed the Panola game had taken its toll of players.

Guard Doyle Craighead came out of the contest with a knee injury. End Ted Jones, expecting a call to military servcie at any time, injured a leg, and "Dub" Rush, flashy regular fullback, went out early in the game with a twisted ankle.

Malone said his Indians will do very little scrimmaging this week, spending most of their time on fundamentals and conditioning drills.

Hard Hitting Middies Coast To Win Over Southern California

Baltimore, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A crew of hard-hitting Navy backs ran rings around a hulking Southern California football team today to score the Middies' first triumph of the seson, 27-14.

Navy pulled away to a 20-0 third period lead before an estimated 24,300 sun-warmed fans. The west coast invaders came to life with wto last quarter touchdowns, but the Middies rebounded for another one of their onw to clinch the triumph.

Quarterback Bob Zastrow, showing the form that earned him third team All-America last year, skippered the Middies in the third defeat in four games for Southern Cal.

The 200-pounder ran over for two himself after getting Navy into position with comparatively sparse, but effective, use of his passes with a strong running attack.

Zastrow principally called on Sophomore Fred Franco, Frankie Hauff and Bill Powers to rip part the ponderous Trojan line. Twice when they failed in scoring territory, he called on Roger Drew to kick field goals from the 21 and 17 yard lines in the third quarter.

Navy zoomed away to a 14-0 halftime lead after killing off two southern Cal. threats at the start of the game.

Ouachita, Neville Rest Through Open Dates This Week

BYRD GIVES LIONS NEXT TILT; TIGERS AWAIT BULLDOGS

Title Chances Spiked, But Locals Still Meeting Top Opponents

Their title aspirations shattered in contests Friday night, Monroe's two high school grid powers, Ouachita and Neville, will use an open date this week to get in shape for a whirlwind finish of their current campaigns against more rugged competition.

Byrd of Shreveport, Baton Rouge High, and Istrouma of Baton Rouge, still lurk in the path of Coach Jim Hodgins' Ouachita Lions, while Baton Rouge High, Fair Park of Shreveport, and the traditional Bastrop game serve to wind up the season for Coach Bill Ruple's Neville Tigers.

The badly crippled Lions looked better than expected in a scoring duel with Fair Park Friday night when the favored Indians topped the locals, 34 to 22, but the defeat was the second in Class AA conference play for the Lions and eliminated them from title contention.

Neville, winner of the northeast and north district Class A titles last year, is not entirely out of the race yet, but the Tigers' 20-7 upset by Ruston's Bearcats here Friday just about finished the Bengals as far as the championship goes this year. It remains up to Ruston to determine whether or not Coach Ruple's boys are to get a look-in.

Ruston can clinch the crown by beating Jonesboro-Hodge and Bastrop. A ruston loss could throw the race into a tie, giving Neville a district playoff chance, provided of course the Tigers can get past Bastrop, their lone remaining conference opponent.

Ouachita and Neville next appear on the gridiron the weekend of November 3 in home games. Ouachita will be meeting an invasion of the strong Byrd Yellow Jackets, and Neville will be taking on a double-A rival, Baton Rouge High.

The Lions wind up their campaign by going to Baton Rouge on November 10, and coming home for a final appearance against Istrouma on November 17.

After Baton Rouge, Fair Park comes here for a Neville date on November 10, and the Tigers, unless they do get into some sort of playoff, will finish at Bastrop on November 17.

NORTHEAST INDIANS AWAIT TYLER INVASION

Local Fans To See Nation's Front-Running Junior College Eleven

The Tyler Junior College Apaches, currently the nation's No. 1 junior college football machine, comes to Monroe Thursday night for a meeting with the Northeast Louisiana State College Indians at Brown Field in the first game to be played between the two schools.

The Apaches, runner-up for the national championship last year and winner of the 1949 Texas Rose Bowl, will come here highly favored to roll through Coach James L. Malone's rugged Redskins who will be entering the Big Six Conference contest with a four-game losing streak.

While the Indians were dropping a 20-0 decision to Panola last Thursday night, the Apaches were plastering the Cameron Aggies of Oklahoma, 53 to 7, in a stampede that might well be continued at the expense of Northeast. Cameron had earlier beaten Kilgore, 21-14.

Undefeated Tyler has rolled up 223 points so far this year against 46 for the opposition.

"Tyler has the biggest football team I've ever seen in junior college football," Coach Malone declared yesterday. "They're bigger than many four-year schools with a line averaging 211 from end to end and a backfield averaging a fraction over 197.

"There are few if any individual stars with Tyler. They just have 40 ball players, one just about as good as the other and team play pays off."

Probably at no time in the history of the school will Northeast enter a game so much in the underdog role as Thursday night, but Coach Malone and his Tribesmen are dreaming of an upset.

"I don't see any chance if Tyler's manpower holds up, but we'll be back on our home field after a month's absence, and I feel that if it hadn't been for some tough breaks we could have won some of those games. If we can get the breaks this time we might spring the biggest upset of the season in junior college circles Thursday.", Malone declared.

While announcing the Indians will be working in secret drill sessions this week, Coach Malone also revealed the Panola game had taken its toll of players.

Guard Doyle Craighead came out of the contest with a knee injury. End Ted Jones, expecting a call to military servcie at any time, injured a leg, and "Dub" Rush, flashy regular fullback, went out early in the game with a twisted ankle.

Malone said his Indians will do very little scrimmaging this week, spending most of their time on fundamentals and conditioning drills.

Hard Hitting Middies Coast To Win Over Southern California

Baltimore, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A crew of hard-hitting Navy backs ran rings around a hulking Southern California football team today to score the Middies' first triumph of the sesons, 27-14.

Navy pulled away to a 20-0 third period lead before an estimated 24,300 sun-warmed fans. The west coast invaders came to life with wto last quarter touchdowns, but the Middies rebounded for another one of their onw to clinch the triumph.

Quarterback Bob Zastrow, showing the form that earned him third team All-America last year, skippered the Middies in the third defeat in four games for Southern Cal.

The 200-pounder ran over for two himself after getting Navy into position with comparatively sparse, but effective, use of his passes with a strong running attack.

Zastrow principally called on Sophomore Fred Franco, Frankie Hauff and Bill Powers to rip part the ponderous Trojan line. Twice when they failed in scoring territory, he called on Roger Drew to kick field goals from the 21 and 17 yard lines in the third quarter.

Navy zoomed away to a 14-0 halftime lead after killing off two southern Cal. threats at the start of the game.

Ouachita, Neville Rest Through Open Dates This Week

BYRD GIVES LIONS NEXT TILT; TIGERS AWAIT BULLDOGS

Title Chances Spiked, But Locals Still Meeting Top Opponents

Their title aspirations shattered in contests Friday night, Monroe's two high school grid powers, Ouachita and Neville, will use an open date this week to get in shape for a whirlwind finish of their current campaigns against more rugged competition.

Byrd of Shreveport, Baton Rouge High, and Istrouma of Baton Rouge, still lurk in the path of Coach Jim Hodgins' Ouachita Lions, while Baton Rouge High, Fair Park of Shreveport, and the traditional Bastrop game serve to wind up the season for Coach Bill Ruple's Neville Tigers.

The badly crippled Lions looked better than expected in a scoring duel with Fair Park Friday night when the favored Indians topped the locals, 34 to 22, but the defeat was the second in Class AA conference play for the Lions and eliminated them from title contention.

Neville, winner of the northeast and north district Class A titles last year, is not entirely out of the race yet, but the Tigers' 20-7 upset by Ruston's Bearcats here Friday just about finished the Bengals as far as the championship goes this year. It remains up to Ruston to determine whether or not Coach Ruple's boys are to get a look-in.

Ruston can clinch the crown by beating Jonesboro-Hodge and Bastrop. A ruston loss could throw the race into a tie, giving Neville a district playoff chance, provided of course the Tigers can get past Bastrop, their lone remaining conference opponent.

Ouachita and Neville next appear on the gridiron the weekend of November 3 in home games. Ouachita will be meeting an invasion of the strong Byrd Yellow Jackets, and Neville will be taking on a double-A rival, Baton Rouge High.

The Lions wind up their campaign by going to Baton Rouge on November 10, and coming home for a final appearance against Istrouma on November 17.

After Baton Rouge, Fair Park comes here for a Neville date on November 10, and the Tigers, unless they do get into some sort of playoff, will finish at Bastrop on November 17.

WAVE STOPS DOTTLEY TO SHADE OLE MISS

TULANE GREENIES NOSE OUT REBELS TO TUNE OF 27-20

Two Passes, Two Running Plays Give New Orleans School Edge

By Roy Steinfort

New Orleans, Oct. 21.—(AP)— A massive mauling Tulane line held Mississippi's great John Dottley in check today as the Green Wave rolled to a 27-20 Southeastern Conference victory.

Dottley, a hard-hitting 198-pound fullback, entered the game as the leading ground gainer among the nation's major collegee football teams.

He had a 7.4 average per try going into this game but in 17 attempts against the Wave Dottley gathered only 61 yards for a 3.6 average per try.

A driving, ever-slashing Green Wave line kept Dottley bottled up as 35,000 fans watched Tulane win its first Southeastern Conference victory of the season.

It was Mississippi's third straight conference loss.

Tulane had played only one other S. E. C. game, losing to Alabama 25-14.

During the first period, it looked like the big lines would stalemate the offense but Tulane broke through the Rebel defense for two touchdowns in the second period and one each in the two final periods.

Mississippi scored in the third period and added two more in the final minutes of play when Tulane Coach Henry Frnka had sent in many reserves. Tulane piled up 239 yards rushing compared with 104 for the Rebels. The Wave gathered 109 yards passing to 67 for Ole Miss.

Dottley set up Tulane's first touchdown when he fumbled on his own 43. Wave End Mike McLean recovered. A 24-yard pass from Joe Ernst to George Kinek in the end zone was good for the score. Tommy Comeaux' conversion was wide.

24,000 Stunned Fans Watch 'Gators Hand Commodores First Defeat

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Underdog Florida outrushed and outpassed previously unbeaten and untied Vanderbilt to win a 31-27 Southeastern Conference football victory here today.

A stunned homecoming crowd of 24.000 partisan fans watched Florida score early in the opening period and match Vanderbilt score for score thereafter. It was Florida's first victory over Vanderbilt. Rain marred the early periods and left the field slippery in the latter stages.

Four of Florida's touchdowns were scored on the ground, but Sophomore Haywood Sullivan's passes clicked for one touchdown and helped set up the others.

The famed Vanderbilt passing combination of Bill Wade to Bucky Curtis accounted for two touchdowns. Two other Vanderbilt markers were scored rushing.

Fullback Dean Davidson and Sophomore Halfback Dick Foster accounted for Vanderbilt's chief gains on the ground.

The Florida passing defense was the deciding issue in this tough game. The alert Floridians almost bottled up Wade and his receivers. Wade completed only four of 14 passes attempted and two were intercepted. Up until today, his four-game record was game accounted for 118 yards and two touchdowns. Curtis snagged four passes for 103 yards and his two markers.

Sullivan outshone Wade, completing nine out of 14 passes for 110 yards and one touchdown.

Townsend's Fourth Quarter Touchdown Saves Game For Longhorns

By Bo Byers

Austin, Tex., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Fullback Byron Townsend, a rip-snorting runner, scored a fourth-quarter touchdown against Arkansas to save Texas today, 19 to 14.

The 6-foot, 180-pound ramrod blasted over from the 6-inch line early in the final period to give Texas victory in its initial southwest conference game. It was largely Townsend's efforts that put the ball in scoring position.

The defeat for Arkansas, witnessed by nearly 40,000 nervous Texas Fans, virtually chilled the Razorbacks' hopes in this year's pennant campaign. It was Arkansas' second league loss against on triumph.

Texas got off to a 13-point lead with touchdowns by left half Bobby Dillon and Townsend in the first and second quarters, respectively. It looked like Texas, the No. 7 team of the nation, would have an easy afternoon.

Then, bam! Safety John Cole of Arkansas took a long Texas punt on his 25, sneaked his way out of an encircling group of Longhorn tacklers and sashayed 75 yards. He had a host of blockers ahead of him but didn't even need them as he slanted away to his right and open country all the way. George Thomason kicked his first of two extra points to leave it 13-7 in favor of Texas at the half.

The ball swapped hands four times on fumbles and interceptions in the third quarter, and Arkansas came out ahead on the exchange.

Back Bob Cross intercepted Texas Dan Page's pass on the Arkansas 36 and the Giants from the Ozarks ripped to a touchdown in nine plays. A 17-yard pass from Jim Rhinehart to end Bill Jurney put Arkansas on the Texas 3, and Quarterback Don Logue sneaked through the middle three plays later from the 1. The handful of Arkansas rooters went wild when Thomason sent his team ahead, 14-13.

SOONERS BLAST KANSAS STATE

Oklahoma Demonstrates Touted Might In Crushing 58 To 0 Win

Norman, Okla., Oct. 21.—(AP)—After two weeks of last minute victories, Oklahoma enjoyed an afternoon of relaxation today in whipping Kansas State, 58-0, to open defense of its Big Seven football title.

The victory before 40,000 homecoming fans was Oklahoma's 25th straight and 14th consecutive triumph over Kansas State.

The ease by which Oklahoma scored — through the air and on the ground — was in contrast to the hard-earned victories over Texas Aggies and Texas which made the Sooners the No. 2 team in the nation.

Oklahoma coach Bud Wilkinson tried to hold down the score by using 49 players but it was no use. The scores came as easily as the one by Dale Crawford a sophomore, who went 66 yards for a touchdown the first time he ever ran with the ball in a college game.

Score by quarters:

Oklahoma	6	20	12	20	—58

OAK GROVE TRIPS CADETS, 43 TO 7

Chamberlain-Hunt No Match For Tigers And Ace Back, Bill Lee

Oak Grove, La., Oct. 21.-(Special —Oak Grove High School's Tigers ripped through a virtually helpless and badly out-classed Chamberlain-Hunt Military Academy eleven, from Port Gibson, Miss., here last night, 43-7, climaxing homecoming festivities.

The Tigers scored twice in the first quarter, twice in the second, twice in the third and once in the fourth. They made only one extra point. The Cadets' lone touchdown came in the waning minutes of the game against a combination of sec ond and third string Tigers.

Stellar Fullback Bill Lee scored his first of four touchdowns when he returned the Cadets opening kickoff 80 yards behind excellent blocking to score in the first minute of play. Left Half Moreau quickly followed up with a 15-yard end run for the second Oak Grove tally.

It was Lee again for the third marker on a 30-yard run through center on fourth down. Left End Earl Bradley made a sensational catch of Quarterback Jess Smith's 25-yard pass to the end zone, scoring the fourth Tiger TD. Tackle B. W. Walters' kick for the point was good.

Chamberlain-Hunt scored after recovering an Oak Grove fumble on the Tiger 21-yard line. On the following play, Tiger Halfback Nix intercepted a pass from G. Oden of the Cadets and successive line plays took the ball to the Oak Grove three. Right Half Bardwell scored around left end and G. Oden converted on a line plunge.

The Tigers netted 373 yards from scrimmage and 50 yards on four pass completions out of eight attempts. Chamberlain-Hunt netted only 43 yards rushing and 29 yards passing on two completions out of 13 attempts. Oak Grove amassed 13 first downs to the Cadets five.

FLORIDA UPSETS VANDY, 31 TO 27

24,000 Stunned Fans Watch 'Gators Hand Commodores First Defeat

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Underdog Florida outrushed and outpassed previously unbeaten and untied Vanderbilt to win a 31-27 Southeastern Conference football victory here today.

A stunned homecoming crowd of 24,000 partisan fans watched Florida score early in the opening period and match Vanderbilt score for score thereafter. It was Florida's first victory over Vanderbilt. Rain marred the early periods and left the field slippery in the latter stages.

Four of Florida's touchdowns were scored on the ground, but Sophomore Haywood Sullivan's passes clicked for one touchdown and helped set up the others.

The famed Vanderbilt passing combination of Bill Wade to Bucky Curtis accounted for two touchdowns. Two other Vanderbilt markers were scored rushing.

Jack Nichols broke away for a 55 yard touchdown run for Florida and teammate Loren Broadus almost matched it with a 51-yard payoff jaunt.

Vanderbilt's most spectacular play came in the dying minutes of the fourth period on a 76-yard play sequence. Wade passed from his 24 to Curtis, who lateraled to Mac Robinson as he appeared trapped. Curtis broke free and took a lateral from Robinson on the 22 and raced over for the final touchdown of the game.

Broadus, halfback Billy Reddell and Fullback Floyd Huggins blasted through and around the wavering Vanderbilt line for repeating gains. Sullivan's passes kept Vanderbilt from setting up a stiff ground defense.

Fullback Dean Davidson and Sophomore Halfback Dick Foster accounted for Vanderbilt's chief gains on the ground.

The Florida passing defense was the deciding issue in this tough game. The alert Floridians almost bottled up Wade and his receivers. Wade completed only four of 14 passes attempted and two were intercepted. Up until today, his four-game record was game accounted for 118 yards and two touchdowns. Curtis snagged four passes for 103 yards and his two markers.

Sullivan outshone Wade, completing nine out of 14 passes for 110 yards and one touchdown.

Florida went 70 yards in seven plays for the first touchdown, Broadus grabbing a pass for 14 yards. Carroll McDonald kicked the only Florida conversion of the day.

Score by periods:

Florida	7	12	6	6	—31
Vanderbilt	0	7	7	13	—27

Florida scoring - touchdowns, Broadus 2, Reddell, Nichols, Huggins; Conversions, McDonald 1.

Vanderbilt scoring: Touchdowns, Curtis 2, Davidson, Foster; Conversions, McCarter 3.

Townsend's Fourth Quarter Touchdown Saves Game For Longhorns

By Bo Byers

Austin, Tex., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Fullback Byron Townsend, a rip-snorting runner, scored a fourth-quarter touchdown against Arkansas to save Texas today, 19 to 14.

The 6-foot, 180-pound ramrod blasted over from the 6-inch line early in the final period to give Texas victory in its initial southwest conference game. It was largely Townsend's efforts that put the ball in scoring position.

The defeat for Arkansas, witnessed by nearly 40,000 nervous Texas Fans, virtually chilled the Razorbacks' hopes in this year's pennant campaign. It was Arkansas' second league loss against on triumph.

Texas got off to a 13-point lead with touchdowns by left half Bobby Dillon and Townsend in the first and second quarters, respectively. It looked like Texas, the No. 7 team of the nation, would have an easy afternoon.

Then, bam! Safety John Cole of Arkansas took a long Texas punt on his 25, sneaked his way out of an encircling group of Longhorn tacklers and sashayed 75 yards. He had a host of blockers ahead of him but didn't even need them as he slanted away to his right and open country all the way. George Thomason kicked his first of two extra points to leave it 13-7 in favor of Texas at the half.

The ball swapped hands four times on fumbles and interceptions in the third quarter, and Arkansas came out ahead on the exchange.

Back Bob Cross intercepted Texas Dan Page's pass on the Arkansas 36 and the Giants from the Ozarks ripped to a touchdown in nine plays. A 17-yard pass from Jim Rhinehart to end Bill Jurney put Arkansas on the Texas 3, and Quarterback Don Logue sneaked through the middle three plays later from the 1. The handful of Arkansas rooters went wild when Thomason sent his team ahead, 14-13.

Michigan State Tunes For Irish With 34-6 Triumph

East Lansing, Mich., Oct. 21.—(AP)— Michigan State's Spartans tuned up for Notre Dame by scoring a sparkling 34-6 victory over Marquette today.

The Spartans, who hope to give more woe to the Irish next week, lashed out by ground and by air. They scored in all but the last period, when Coach Biggie Munn poured in reserves. A crowd of 29,029 attended.

Standouts in the Michigan State attack were the reliable Everett Grandelius, who reeled off several long runs, including a 35-yard touchdown sprint, End Dorne Dibble and a sophomore fullback find named Dick Panin.

SOONERS BLAST KANSAS STATE

Oklahoma Demonstrates Touted Might In Crushing 58 To 0 Win

Norman, Okla., Oct. 21.—(AP)—After two weeks of last minute victories, Oklahoma enjoyed an afternoon of relaxation today in whipping Kansas State, 58-0, to open defense of its Big Seven football title.

The victory before 40,000 homecoming fans was Oklahoma's 25th straight and 14th consecutive triumph over Kansas State.

The ease by which Oklahoma scored — through the air and on the ground — was in contrast to the hard-earned victories over Texas Aggies and Texas which made the Sooners the No. 2 team in the nation.

Oklahoma coach Bud Wilkinson tried to hold down the score by using 49 players but it was no use. The scores came as easily as the one by Dale Crawford a sophomore, who went 66 yards for a touchdown the first time he ever ran with the ball in a college game.

Score by quarters:

INDIANA ROARS THROUGH NOTRE DAME, 20-7

HOOSIERS HAND IRISH THEIR 2ND LOSS OF SEASON

Underdog Eleven Scores First Win Over South Benders Since 1906

By Dale Burgess

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 11.—(AP)—A stoked-up Indiana University team burned big holes through Notre Dame's line today for a 20 to 7 victory that guaranteed the losers their worst season since 1945.

Bobby Robertson, stocky Indiana halfback, scored two of the touchdowns with the help of some of the crispest blocks ever thrown by an I. U. football team.

Notre Dame, looking sluggish in comparison with Indiana's prancing Hoosiers, was three touchdowns behind before it showed any of the resilience generally expected of scored-on Irish teams.

It was the first time Indiana had beaten Notre Dame since 1906 and the sellout crowd frolicked on the gridiron long after the final gun. It was the first time Notre Dame had lost two games in one season since 1945.

Its previous loss this year was to Purdue, another Hoosier state rival, 28 to 14.

A bit of irony was noted in Notre Dame's inability to stop the high knee drives of Robertson, whose home is only a few miles from the Notre Dame campus. He ripped off 185 yards in 18 carries and scored Indiana's third touchdown with an 83-yard run down the sidelines.

He turned acomplete somersault scoring the second from the four-yard mark.

Parilli Spearheads Kentucky Triumph

Philadelphia, Oct. 21 —(AP)— Vito Babe Parilli, a sharpshooting passer, let Kentucky's unbeaten football forces to a 34 to 7 victory over Villanova today.

Parilli's passes, some of them completed after he seemed hopelessly trapped, were directly responsible for four of the five Kentucky touchdowns although only one actually was scored on an aerial play. The fifth was made by Bill Wannamaker, a standout defensive guard, who galloped 35 yard safter intercepting a pass.

After rolling up a 20-0 lead in the first eleven minutes, Kentucky let a great defense take care of things until the final quarter, when 14 more points were added. A slender crowd of about 17,000 saw Villanova score the second touchdown made against Kentucky in six games just before the lopsided contest ended.

Late in the final quarter Harry Jones fumbled a Villanova punt and Guard Ted Oroski recovered on the Kentucky 24-yard line. The home club punched its way down, aided by an offside penalty, to the one. Big Pete D'Alonzo, Villanova's most effective ball carrier, pounded through for the touchdown and Bob Haner converted.

Score by quarters:

Villanova	0	0	0	7	— 7

Kentucky scoring: touchdowns-Jamerson 3, Parilli, Wannamaker. Conversions—Gain 4.

Jack Curtis To Battle 'Phantom' In Mat Main Event

Wrestler Rex Mobley Signed To Referee Tuesday Card At Kallio's

Jack Curtis, world's light heavyweight wrestling champion, faces "Black Phantom," the hooded villian in a main event challenge match at Gus Kallio's Arena here Tuesday night. Promoter Kallio last night said no mention of the title had been made in arranging the match and he supposed it will be a non-title affair.

The Phantom, tearmed with Charlie Laye in the losing end of a tag team scramble with Jack and George Curtis last Tuesday night, didn't like the decision in losing to the Curtis boys and challenged big Jack to a man-to-man match.

"The Phantom was so mad after losing to the Curtis boys that all he could think about was another chance to get his hands on Jack," Promoter Kallio said last night. "Apparently he didn't stop to think about title chances in his anxiousness to get a match with Jack. Curtis agreed to the meeting without stipulating whether or not his crown would be at stake.

"For all I know, they may decide to make it a championship match, but it doesn't stack up as one right now."

The main event scrap will have a time limit of 90 minutes with two falls to win.

Laye, the sly customer from Knoxville, Tenn., who once held the belt now worn by Curtis, will appear in the semi-final against Billy Sandow, classy tussler of Miami, Fla.

The Laye-Sandow scrap will be over an hour time limit distance, also two falls to win.

Promoter Kallio also announced last night that Rex Mobley, the Texas City, Tex., tussler who also formerly held the world's light-heavy crown, has agreed to serve as referee Tuesday.

Junior Irish Eleven Whips St. Aloysius

Vicksburg, Miss., Oct. 21.—(Special)—The Fighting Irish junior team from St. Matthew's Parochial School of Monroe, La. defeated the St. Aloysius junior eleven 14 to 6 here today.

The Vicksburg eleven tallied early in the first quarter and remained in the lead until late in the second, when the Irish began a prolonged 80-yard push toward the goal line. The extra point was good and set the Irish one point in the lead.

Another Irish drive late in the second quarter was defeated by an intercepted pass in the Vicksburg endzone, with 30 seconds left to play.

Tennessee Comes From Behind, Downs Alabama's Crimson Tide In Thriller

Volunteers Score In Last Two Minutes Of Play For 14-9 Victory

By Escar Thompson

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 21 —(AP)—Tennessee came from behind in the last two minutes today to dump Alabama, 14 to 9. A hysterical capacity crowd of 50,000 saw the thriller.

The win projected the once-beaten Volunteers into the Southeastern Conference championship race. At the same time, as this battle has so many times in the past, it put the Vols into contention for a possible post-season bowl bid.

The loss was a heart-breaker for Alabama. Tennessee completely bottled up Alabama's vaunted passing attack, but the Crimson Tide turned loose a horde of hard-running backs who churned up 314 yards against Tennessee's line.

Kozar was Tennessee's leading ground gainer with 68 yards on 13 bull-like rushes.

Alabama scored first, taking the opening kickoff on its 37 and slashing to Tennessee's 10 on 13 plays. Here quarterback Butch Avinger took to the air for the first time and it backfired.

End Doug Atkins intercepted for Tennessee on the Vols' 10, but he fumbled on the ball when tackled on the 13 and Sandy Helms recovered for Alabama. The Crimsons picked up four yards on three plays. Then Red Lutz, a wingman, came rushing off the bench to kick a field goal from Tennessee's nine.

The 15-yard roughness penalty, the only foul of the bitterly-fought contest, was the springboard for Tennessee's first score.

A Tide lineman roughed Hank Laurcella, Vol kicker and the penalty gave Tennessee a first down on Alabama's 37.

Kozar reeled off two quick 14-yard off-tackle smashes and then plunged over the two-yard stripe on the second play of the second stanza.

The fired-up Red Elephants, a seven-point underdog, came back strong after the intermission and stormed 73 yards for their lone touchdown.

One of the hardest running backs ever seen on battle-scarred Shields — Watkins Field, Marlow piled up a massive 132 yards on 15 runs, most of them off tackle. Not once was he thrown for a loss.

Trailing 7-9 going into the final stanza, Tennessee staged a sensational 76-yard march only to see it bog four yards short of a touchdown.

Avinger kicked out to Alabama's 39 and with less than five minutes to play, the Vols once more proved their resourcefulness by driving to the one. Kozar dived over.

Two of Mauricella's passes fell incomplete and then Hal Payne raced off the bench to replace the little New Orleans Italian. He tore off right tackle with a mighty burst of speed and was downed from behind by Jack Brown on Alabama's five. Two line smashes set the stage for Kozar's scoring plunge.

It was a typical Alabama-Tennessee game—meaning the line play was rugged, the blocking and tackling fierce.

Score by quarters:

Alabama	3	0	6	0	—9
Tennessee	0	7	0	7	—14

Alabama scoring: touchdown—Marlow. Field goal—Lutz.

Tennessee scoring: touchdowns-Kozar 2. Conversions—Shires.

N. C. State Springs Upset On Maryland

College Park, Md., Oct. 18.—(AP)—An inspired North Carolina State team that capitalized on every change upset heavily favored Maryland today 16-13.

Joe Mooney scored the two State touchdowns — one on a 13-yard off-tackle gallop in the first period and the other on a three yard plunge in the third.

North Carolina State scored its first two points in the seventh play of the game. Johnny Scarbath, Maryland's sophomore quarterback, threw a lateral over Ed Modezelewski's head and the ball bounded toward the Maryland goal 23 yards away. John Tencick, Wolfpack back, touched it as it skittered over the goal and through the end zone, earning a two-point safety for his club.

Maryland punched across two touchdowns in the final period and was well on its way to a third in the closing minutes.

However, Alex Webster intercepted a long Maryland pass in the end zone to end the last Maryland chance of pulling the game from the fire for the homecoming day crowd of 24,502.

Score by quarters:

N. C. State	2	0	7	0	—16
Maryland	0	0	0	13	—13

N. C. State scoring: touchdowns —Mooney 2. Conversions, Barkovski 2. Safety, Tencick.

FERRIDAY BEATS WISNER, 32 TO 7

Bulldogs Move Through Air And On Ground For Impressive Win

Ferriday, La., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Ferriday High's Bulldogs romped high, wide and handsome at Melz Field here Friday night as they unleashed a devastating ground and air attack to win over a hapless Wisner Wildcat eleven, 32 to 7.

Ferriday racked up two touchdowns in the first quarter, one in the second and two more in the third while holding the invading Cats to one lone marker in the second period.

Shifty Halfback David Cuthbertson sparked a Ferriday 49-yard touchdown march early in the opening quarter when he darted the final 33 yards to pay dirt. Albert Massey booted the extra point and Ferriday led 7-0.

It took only four plays for the Bulldogs to tally their second six-pointer. Alvin Everhart led the drive from his own 37 with dashes of 24, 14 and 3 yards, scoring on the latter.

Wisner definitely threatened a few minutes later when they blocked a Ferriday punt on the latter's 26-yard stripe and proceeded to chalk up two first downs that carried them to Ferriday's 2-yard line. At that point the Ferriday forward wall, which hasn't given up a single touchdown this fall (all of Ferriday's opponents have scored by the air) stiffened and held for four consecutive downs.

Ferriday immediately started to rolling as Cuthbertson streaked 50 yards on a handoff. Hubert Horton got ten and Massey shot a 40-yard pass to Freddie Martello that carried to Wisner's one-foot line. Massey sneaked over for the TD and Ferriday led 19-0.

Wisner put together five completed passes for their lone marker immediately after Ferriday's third score. Hall, the heaver, connected with Furr for the touchdown from 10 yards out. Perrion kicked the extra point.

The Bulldogs fourth tally was scored fast and furious as they rolled from their own 20 to paydirt. The outstanding play of the drive was reeled off when Massey faked a handoff to the strong side, but instead ran the weak side without interference for 26 yards.

Fritz Lancaster ran 19 and Massey completed two passes to Charles Murray Green and Martello, the latter completion coming when they needed it most — for a TD. Try for the point was blocked.

Martello intercepted a Hall heave and waltzed 40 yards for Ferriday's final score. Charles Fugler threw the block that insured the success of the run. Massey kicked the extra point, and with the score 32 to 7, Coach Charles Loomis finished out the game with the reserves.

Hardly had the starting whistle sounded when John Hopkins, Panther scatback, zigged and zagged for 80 yards and the first score.

Not to be outdone, his twin brother, George Hopkins, intercepted a Block pass a few minutes later and got away on a 55-yard touchdown jaunt.

On the first play of the second quarter Panther Quarterback Fred Phillips added a third touchdown on a 38-yard sweep. Then Phillips passed to Clements for the final touchdown early in the thirdquarter. Bradley's kicking toe was in good shape, and he booted every extra point.

INDIANA ROARS THROUGH NOTRE DAME, 20-7

By Dale Burgess

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 11.—(AP)—A stoked-up Indiana University team burned big holes through Notre Dame's line today for a 20 to 7 victory that guaranteed the losers their worst season since 1945.

Bobby Robertson, stocky Indiana halfback, scored two of the touchdowns with the help of some of the crispest blocks ever thrown by an I. U. football team.

Notre Dame, looking sluggish in comparison with Indiana's prancing Hoosiers, was three touchdowns behind before it showed any of the resilience generally expected of scored-on Irish teams.

It was the first time Indiana had beaten Notre Dame since 1906 and the sellout crowd frolicked on the gridiron long after the final gun. It was the first time Notre Dame had lost two games in one season since 1945.

Its previous loss this year was to Purdue, another Hoosier state rival, 28 to 14.

A bit of irony was noted in Notre Dame's inability to stop the high knee drives of Robertson, whose home is only a few miles from the Notre Dame campus. He ripped off 185 yards in 18 carries and scored Indiana's third touchdown with an 83-yard run down the sidelines.

He turned acomplete somersault scoring the second from the four-yard mark.

Notre Dame

Philadelphia, Oct. 21 —(AP)— Vito Babe Parilli, a sharpshooting passer, led Kentucky's unbeaten football forces to a 34 to 7 victory over Villanova today.

Parilli's passes, some of them completed after he seemed hopelessly trapped, were directly responsible for four of the five Kentucky touchdowns although only one actually was scored on an aerial play. The fifth was made by Bill Wannamaker, a standout defensive guard, who galloped 35 yard safter intercepting a pass.

After rolling up a 20-0 lead in the first eleven minutes, Kentucky let a great defense take care of things until the final quarter, when 14 more points were added. A slender crowd of about 17,000 saw Villanova score the second touchdown made against Kentucky in six games just before the lopsided contest ended.

Late in the final quarter Harry Jones fumbled a Villanova punt and Guard Ted Oroski recovered on the Kentucky 24-yard line. The home club punched its way down, aided by an offside penalty, to the one. Big Pete D'Alonzo, Villanova's most effective ball carrier, bounded through for the touchdown and Bob Haner converted.

Score by quarters:

Villanova	0	0	0	7	—7

Kentucky scoring: touchdowns-Jamerson 3, Parilli, Wannamaker. Conversions—Gain 4.

Villanova scoring: touchdowns—D'Alonzo. Conversion—Haner.

Wrestler Rex Mobley Signed To Referee Tuesday Card At Kallio's

Jack Curtis, world's light heavyweight wrestling champion, faces "Black Phantom," the hooded villian in a main event challenge match at Gus Kallio's Arena here Tuesday night. Promoter Kallio last night said no mention of the title had been made in arranging the match and he supposed it will be a non-title affair.

The Phantom, tearmed with Charlie Laye in the losing end of a tag team scramble with Jack and George Curtis last Tuesday night, didn't like the decision in losing to the Curtis boys and challenged big Jack to a man-to-man match.

"The Phantom was so mad after losing to the Curtis boys that all he could think about was another chance to get his hands on Jack," Promoter Kallio said last night. "Apparently he didn't stop to think about title chances in his anxiousness to get a match with Jack. Curtis agreed to the meeting without stipulating whether or not his crown would be at stake.

"For all I know, they may decide to make it a championship match, but it doesn't stack up as one right now."

The main event scrap will have a time limit of 90 minutes with two falls to win.

Laye, the sly customer from Knoxville, Tenn., who once held the belt now worn by Curtis, will appear in the semi-final against Billy Sandow, classy tussler of Miami, Fla.

The Laye-Sandow scrap will be over an hour time limit distance, also two falls to win.

Promoter Kaliio also announced last night that Rex Mobley, the Texas City, Tex., tussler who also formerly held the world's light-heavy crown, has agreed to serve as referee Tuesday.

Junior Irish Eleven Whips St. Aloysius

Vicksburg, Miss., Oct. 21.—(Special)—The Fighting Irish junior team from St. Matthew's Parochial School of Monroe, La. defeated the St. Aloysius junior eleven 14 to 6 here today.

The Vicksburg eleven tallied early in the first quarter and remained in the lead until late in the second, when the Irish began a prolonged 80-yard push toward the goal line. The extra point was good and set the Irish one point in the lead.

Another Irish drive late in the second quarter was defeated by an intercepted pass in the Vicksburg endzone, with 30 seconds left to play.

Swaggert plunged through the Vicksburg line and raced 70 yards for the second touchdown, and Peterson crashed the wall again to make the extra point.

Pointing to his standout players, Coach George F. Factor named man and "the whole team" for their defensive and offensive work.

Volunteers Score In Last Two Minutes Of Play For 14-9 Victory

By Escar Thompson

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 21 —(AP)— Tennessee came from behind in the last two minutes today to dump Alabama, 14 to 9. A hysterical capacity crowd of 50,000 saw the thriller.

The win projected the once-beaten Volunteers into the Southeastern Conference championship race. At the same time, as this battle has so many times in the past, it put the Vols into contention for a possible post-season bowl bid.

The loss was a heart-breaker for Alabama. Tennessee completely bottled up Alabama's vaunted passing attack, but the Crimson Tide turned loose a horde of hard-running backs who churned up 314 yards against Tennessee's line.

Kozar was Tennessee's leading ground gainer with 68 yards on 13 bull-like rushes.

Alabama scored first, taking the opening kickoff on its 37 and slashing to Tennessee's 10 on 13 plays. Here quarterback Butch Avinger took to the air for the first time and it backfired.

End Doug Atkins intercepted for Tennessee on the Vols' 10, but he fumbled on the ball when tackled on the 13 and Sandy Helms recovered for Alabama. The Crimsons picked up four yards on three plays. Then Red Lutz, a wingman, came rushing off the bench to kick a field goal from Tennessee's nine.

The 15-yard roughness penalty, the only foul of the bitterly-fought contest, was the springboard for Tennessee's first score.

A Tide lineman roughed Hank Laurcella, Vol kicker and the penalty gave Tennessee a first down on Alabama's 37.

Kozar reeled off two quick 14-yard off-tackle smashes and then plunged over the two-yard stripe on the second play of the second stanza.

The fired-up Red Elephants, a seven-point underdog, came back strong after the intermission and stormed 73 yards for their lone touchdown.

One of the hardest running backs ever seen on battle-scarred Shields — Watkins Field, Marlow piled up a massive 132 yards on 15 runs, most of them off tackle. Not once was he thrown for a loss.

Trailing 7-9 going into the final stanza, Tennessee staged a sensational 76-yard march only to see it bog four yards short of a touchdown.

Avinger kicked out to Alabama's 39 and with less than five minutes to play, the Vols once more proved their resourcefulness by driving to the one. Kozar dived over.

Two of Mauricella's passes fell incomplete and then Hal Payne raced off the bench to replace the little New Orleans Italian. He tore off right tackle with a mighty burst of speed and was downed from behind by Jack Brown on Alabama's five. Two line smashes set the stage for Kozar's scoring plunge.

It was a typical Alabama-Tennessee game—meaning the line play was rugged, the blocking and tackling fierce.

Score by quarters:

Alabama	3	0	6	0	—9
Tennessee	0	7	0	7	—14

Alabama scoring: touchdown—Marlow. Field goal—Lutz.

Tennessee scoring: touchdowns-Kozar 2. Conversions—Shires.

N. C. State Springs Upset On Maryland

College Park, Md., Oct. 18.—(AP)—An inspired North Carolina State team that capitalized on every change upset heavily favored Maryland today 16-13.

Joe Mooney scored the two State touchdowns — one on a 13-yard off-tackle gallop in the first period and the other on a three yard plunge in the third.

North Carolina State scored its first two points in the seventh play of the game. Johnny Scarbath, Maryland's sophomore quarterback, threw a lateral over Ed Modezelewski's head and the ball bounded toward the Maryland goal 23 yards away. John Tencick, Wolfpack back, touched it as it skittered over the goal and through the end zone, earning a two-point safety for his club.

Maryland punched across two touchdowns in the final period and was well on its way to a third in the closing minutes.

However, Alex Webster intercepted a long Maryland pass in the end zone to end the last Maryland chance of pulling the game from the fire for the homecoming day crowd of 24,502.

Score by quarters:

N. C. State	9	0	7	0	—16
Maryland	0	0	0	13	—13

N. C. State scoring: touchdowns—Mooney 2. Conversions, Barkovski 2. Safety, Tencick.

Maryland scoring: Touchdowns—Shemonski, Augsburger. Conversion, Dean.

Bulldogs Move Through Air And On Ground For Impressive Win

Ferriday, La., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Ferriday High's Bulldogs romped high, wide and handsome at Melz Field here Friday night as they unleashed a devastating ground and air attack to win over a hapless Wisner Wildcat eleven, 32 to 7.

Ferriday racked up two touchdowns in the first quarter, one in the second and two more in the third while holding the invading Cats to one lone marker in the second period.

Shifty Halfback David Cuthbertson sparked a Ferriday 49-yard touchdown march early in the opening quarter when he darted the final 33 yards to pay dirt. Albert Massey booted the extra point and Ferriday led 7-0.

It took only four plays for the Bulldogs to tally their second six-pointer. Alvin Everhart led the drive from his own 37 with dashes of 24, 14 and 3 yards, scoring on the latter.

Wisner definitely threatened a few minutes later when they blocked a Ferriday punt on the latter's 26-yard stripe and proceeded to chalk up two first downs that carried them to Ferriday's 2-yard line. At that point the Ferriday forward wall, which hasn't given up a single touchdown this fall (all of Ferriday's opponents have scored by the air) stiffened and held for four consecutive downs.

Ferriday immediately started to rolling as Cuthbertson streaked 50 yards on a handoff. Hubert Horton got ten and Massey shot a 40-yard pass to Freddie Martello that carried to Wisner's one-foot line. Massey sneaked over for the TD and Ferriday led 19-0.

Wisner put together five completed passes for their lone marker immediately after Ferriday's third score. Hall, the heaver, connected with Furr for the touchdown from 10 yards out. Perrion kicked the extra point.

The Bulldogs fourth tally was scored fast and furious as they rolled from their own 20 to paydirt. The outstanding play of the drive was reeled off when Massey faked a handoff to the strong side, but instead ran the weak side without interference for 26 yards.

Fritz Lancaster ran 19 and Massey completed two passes to Charles Murray Green and Martello, the latter completion coming when they needed it most — for a TD. Try for the point was blocked.

Martello intercepted a Hall heave and waltzed 40 yards for Ferriday's final score. Charles Fugler threw the block that insured the success of the run. Massey kicked the extra point, and with the score 32 to 7, Coach Charles Loomis finished out the game with the reserves.

Lake Providence, La. Oct. 21.—(Special)—Scoring three touchdowns in the early stages of play and adding another in the third period, the Lake Providence Panthers easily overcame a light Block High School eleven from Jonesville, 28 to 0, here last night at Hamley Field in the Lake Providence homecoming special.

Hardly had the starting whistle sounded when John Hopkins, Panther scatback, zigged and zagged for 80 yards and the first score.

Not to be outdone, his twin brother, George Hopkins, intercepted a Block pass a few minutes later and got away on a 55-yard touchdown jaunt.

On the first play of the second quarter Panther Quarterback Fred Phillips added a third touchdown on a 38-yard sweep. Then Phillips passed to Clements for the final touchdown early in the thirdquarter. Bradley's kicking toe was in good shape, and he booted every extra point.

T. F. Simpson, Jr. Gets Promotion

Crow-Burlingam Company has announced the promotion of Talmadge F. Simpson, Jr., to the position of manager of its wholesale auto parts and supplies store in West Monroe. Company officials pointed out that it is the firm policy to promote individuals from within the company, rather than outsiders.

Mr. Simpson was born at Downsville, and is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School. He entered the Air Force in 1942, became a flight officer, and was later commissioned a first lieutenant. He served in England, North Africa, Sicily, and Italy. Shortly before the end of the war, his plane was shot down over the Po River valley in Italy and he was taken prisoner. When the war ended, he was released, returned to the United States and was separated from the service in January, 1946.

Mr. Simpson was employed by the A-C Auto Parts Company; and when this firm was purchased by Crow-Burlingame, he stayed as counter salesman, later becoming outside salesman. He assumed his present position as store manager on September 1.

'BOY MEETS GIRL' OPENS TUESDAY

Cast Comprises 15 Men And Four Women, Is Broadway Comedy

The Little Theatre of Monroe, Inc., officially opens its 21st season with the production of "Boy Meets Girl" Tuesday night at the Selman Field playhouse.

In the two decades since its inception by a group of drama enthusiasts of the Twin Cities, the local group has presented Broadway favorites, classics and original dramas in Monroe. Last year, for the first time, the organization opened its own playhouse.

The production of "Boy Meets Girl" will mark the first time the show has been done in Monroe, and will open a season filled with tried successes from the Broadway stage.

The cast of the comedy is the largest to be assembled in recent years. Comprising 15 men and four women, it represents, according to the director, "the most ambitious undertaking in recent Little Theater work in this area."

Another new addition to the theater in 1949 was the selection of Tulane graduate C. Stocker Fontelieu as executive director. This marks the first time the local group has retained a professional, full time director.

Under the presidency of C. C. Boardman, who took over the head spot after last year's successful term in office of W. Gilbert Faulk, the membership of the group has risen to a point considerably above last year's. Although final returns on the recently completed membership drive have not been released, Miss Emy-Lou Biedenharn, chairman of the membership drive, estimated that a final tally on the organization strength would number more than 500.

Although the drive for new members has officially closed, Miss Biedenharn announced that a limited number of memberships would be available during the run of the show at the playhouse box office.

Evidence On Mailing Red Propaganda Probed

Chelsea, Mass., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Veterans organizations said today they were gathering evidence to give the FBI on the mailing of Red propaganda to the next of kin of servicemen wounded in Korea.

Mrs. Walter Lovett, whose son is hospitalized in Japan, said she received in the mail a pamphlet referring to American activity in Korea as "operation Ku Klux Klan."

The woman's name was in a government casualty list as next of kin of the wounded soldier.

The pamphlet was in a plain envelope mailed in Boston, Oct. 18. There was no indication who sent it.

Marginal notes written with a pen pointed out "the peaceful progress" in Russia in contrast to the "United States' imperialist war."

Commander John Hanlon of Chelsea Post American Legion said he heard of other parents—whose names were on casualty lists — that received similar Red propaganda.

Police Sergeant Robert Renfrew informed the FBI in Boston of the matter and said the agency was going to get in touch with Mrs. Lovett.

Hanlon and Anthony Maresco, chairman of the Chelsea Veterans' going to collect all evidence possible to give to the FBI.

British Scientist Flees, May Be Hiding In Russia

By George Palmer

Rome, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The whereabouts of an Italian-born British atom scientist, reported by Rome newspapers to have left Italy for Moscow seven weeks ago, developed into an international mystery tonight.

The scientist is Bruno Pontecorvo, who arrived in Helsinki, Finland, Sept. 2. That is the last official word of his whereabouts. At that time, he was with his wife, Helena Marianne, and his three children, Gils, 12, Tito Nils, 6, and Antonia, 5.

All Rome's newspapers except those following the Communist line carried under their blackest headlines a report that Pontecorvo skipped with his wife and children to Poland en route to Moscow. Some said he got out just ahead of Italian police and British intelligence agents.

But the British foreign office and Scotland Yard indicated they had no interest in Pontecorvo's movements. His father, Massimo, in Milan, Italy, said he had no reason to believe the physicist would not return to Britain at the end of a vacation he began in July. Finnish police said that, although they did not know the present whereabouts of the scientist, Pontecorvo and his family had not passed through any Finnish border control post to neighboring Russia or in any other direction since they arrived in Helsinki via plane from Stockholm.

The mother of the Swedish-born Mrs. Pontecorvo said she had not seen her daughter when she passed through Stockholm — didn't even know she had passed through. But Swedish police said they had no reason so far to deal with the case.

A spokesman for the ministry of supply in London also said there was no reason to believe the scientist would not return to England in time to take up an appointment as atomic physicist professor at Liverpool University Jan. 1. The ministry is in charge of atomic research in Britain the university has done much research work for the government.

The London Star said military intelligence agents have begun inquiries, but the report could not be confirmed officially.

The U. S. embassy in London was said to be following the reports "with interest."

Pontecorvo's brother, Guido, a lecturer in genetics at Glasgow University, said the news of the scientist's reported disappearance came as a complete surprise to him.

Finnish Foreign Minister Johannes Virolainen said he traveled with the Pontecorvo family from Stockholm to Helsinki on Sept. 2, and he remembers them well. But they did not leave the airfield in the airline company bus.

"The Pontecorvo case," as some Rome newspapers referred to it, broke first when morning journals came out with the story that the Pisa-born scientist left Rome two weeks ago aboard a Czechoslovak airlines plane for Poland. He was said to have had a Polish visa on his British passport. The newspapers gave no source for their information, but they gave the impression that it was official.

A further check disclosed that Pontecorvo, who became a British citizen after fleeing from fascist Italy in 1940, had left Rome Sept. 1, with his wife and three children aboard a Scandinavian Airlines plane with tickets for Stockholm. A Stockholm source confirmed that he landed there, stayed for a day and then left for Helsinki.

Rome's Communist-line evening newspaper Paese Sera said Pontecorvo had gone to Stockholm and declared that reports of "the romantic flight to the Soviet Union thus would be destitute of any foundation."

Pontecorvo, who reputedly was one of the top scientists at Britain's Harwell atomic energy plant July 25 for a vacation in France and Italy.

A colleague in Britain was quoted today as saying the scientist "would have important information" on atomic developments and that he was listed as a senior principal scientific officer at the Harwell laboratories. Another top Harwell officer, German - born Dr. Klaus Fuchs, was sentenced to a 14-year jail term earlier this year on charges of giving atom secrets to Russia.

About 40 years old, Pontecorvo was once a pupil of Italy's leading physicists, Dr. Enrico Fermi. One Rome newspaper said Pontecorvo joined Fermi in America when he left Italy in 1940 and later worked at Canada's Chalk River Atom Plant.

He is a cousin of Italian Communist Senator Emilio Sereni. Sereni said today he had not seen Pontecorvo since 1937. Sereni is now a member of the executive committee of the Italian Communist party.

American Translator's Error Starts Romance

Florence, Italy, Oct. 21.—(AP)—An American translator's error had something to do with one of the highest speed romances ancient Florence ever saw.

It started when pretty, 22-year-old Liliana Biagi sent her photo and a little ad to the Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution saying she wanted to exchange letters with an American to perfect her English.

Somehow that got translated so that it appeared she wanted an American husband.

Gover W. Miller, 38, of Jeffersonville, Ga., took one look at the picture and started writing letters. But the letters were romantic, and Liliana hadn't expected that. She quit writing.

Miller wasn't discouraged that easily. He came straightaway to Italy a few days ago, found her, and — they were married today so quickly that a sympathetic priest set aside the normal waiting time on the publishing of wedding bans.

Miss Clay Aided War On Communism

In co-operation with the statewide project of the Louisiana Chamber of Commerce, Miss Mary Clay, college librarian at the Northeast Louisiana State College, had special exhibits on the theme "Democracy vs. communism and socialism" during the week of October 16-21. Prominently displayed among the many books, pamphlets and magazine articles were large tastefully framed copies of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. These copies of our cherished American documents of democracy were presented to the college library by the Fort Miro chapter of D. A. R. in 1942, at the suggestion of Miss Mary Harrison Clay, college librarian and member of the Fort Miro chapter.

The framed documents usually hang one on each side of the main entrance door to the reading room. Miss Clay tells D. A. R. officers that they are frequently examined by the college students and has expressed appreciation to the Fort Miro chapter for making the fine copies readily accessible for the young citizens of the college community.

Fourteen-Year-Old Boy Kills Mother and Father

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 21.—(AP)—A brooding schoolboy shot his father and mother to death today, state police said, because he felt he was mistreated.

The youth, 14-year-old Raymond Peers, was held at the Paw Paw, Mich., state police post while juvenile authorities pondered what action to take.

Sgt. Kenneth H. Cook and Detective John Dalman said Raymond confessed killing his father, George Peers, because "he kept punishing me when I didn't have it coming."

Then he called to his mother, the officers said, and shot her through the head as she approached, because "she was stingy."

The father, a 44-year-old manual training teacher in nearby Mattawan High School, died two hours after the shooting. The mother, Marian, 38, died instantly.

The slayings took place at the Peers farm home 13 miles west of here.

The officers quoted Raymond as saying he took a revolver out of his father's dresser at 8 a.m .and carried it to the back of the house in a paper sack.

The elder Peers was propping a ladder against the house, preparatory to painting the dwelling.

"He walked up to within 15 feet of his father and shot him in the back of the head," State Police Capt. Clarence Miller said.

Then, the state police officer continued, he called to his mother, who was in the bedroom.

"Come here, dad's hurt."

Mrs. Peers ran into the living room and was shot in the head as she approached Raymond.

At first police dubbed it an apparent murder and suicide. They theorized Mrs. Peers had wounded her husband and then killed herself.

The boy himself ran to home of a neighbor and reported he had found his mother and father dead. The neighbors found the mother lying in the living room and the father, unconscious but alive, at the foot of the ladder.

Capt. Miller said Raymond's first story was that he was feeding the chickens behind the barn at the time, but that he heard no shots.

"Then he finally told us the story," Miller said.

The officer quoted the boy as saying he "had been having a few disagreements" with his father and that the elder Peers sometimes whipped him.

"But he doesn't seem to have any real reason for the killing, or to feel particularly bad about it," Sgt. Cook related. "The house shows that the kid had pretty nearly everything he wanted."

One source of friction reportedly was the fact that Raymond went to the school where his father taught. Cook said the boy wanted to change schools some time ago, but his father "laughed him out of it."

News-Star-World Will Institute Weekly Review Of Industry

Busines and industry in north Louisiana will soon be featured in a special section of the News-Star—World, The Weekly Business Review. This review, to be published in the Monroe Morning World each Saturday morning and the Monroe News-Star each Monday evening, will consist of news stories and features, as well as pictures, of the leading businesses and industries in and around the Twin Cities.

With the rapid growth of Monroe as a regional industrial center, the News-Star—World has made arrangements with Jack Ansell, Jr., to contact various establishments for the page, as well as write, service, and edit the weekly edition. Mr. Ansell, whose home is in Monroe, received his Bachelor of Journalism degree from the University of Missouri in 1948 and his Master of Arts degree in Journalism in 1950. He has been in New York since February with various journalistic enterprises, and has worked closely with such new public media as television and facsimile. He also taught laboratories in newswriting at the University of Missouri School of Journalism.

As a service to the Monroe sector, Mr. Ansell will feature in the Weekly Business Review a column devoted to up-to-the-minute trends in busines sand industry, both nationally and locally, in addition to the regular coverage of local participants.

As many new industries and businesses in Monroe may not have been contacted, as yet and are desirous of active participation in this new feature, they can reach Mr. Ansell at the News-Star—World offices by calling 4800 between 9 and 5 p.m. daily.

T. F. Simpson, Jr. Gets Promotion

Crow-Burlingam Company has announced the promotion of Talmadge F. Simpson, Jr., to the position of manager of its wholesale auto parts and supplies store in West Monroe. Company officials pointed out that it is the firm policy to promote individuals from within the company, rather than outsiders.

Mr. Simpson was born at Downsville, and is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School. He entered the Air Force in 1942, became a flight officer, and was later commissioned a first lieutenant. He served in England, North Africa, Sicily, and Italy. Shortly before the end of the war, his plane was shot down over the Po River valley in Italy and he was taken prisoner. When the war ended, he was released, returned to the United States and was separated from the service in January, 1946.

Mr. Simpson was employed by the A-C Auto Parts Company; and when this firm was purchased by Crow-Burlingame, he stayed as counter salesman, later becoming outside salesman. He assumed his present position as store manager on September 1.

'BOY MEETS GIRL' OPENS TUESDAY

The Little Theatre of Monroe, Inc., officially opens its 21st season with the production of "Boy Meets Girl" Tuesday night at the Selman Field playhouse.

In the two decades since its inception by a group of drama enthusiasts of the Twin Cities, the local group has presented Broadway favorites, classics and original dramas in Monroe. Last year, for the first time, the organization opened its own playhouse.

The production of "Boy Meets Girl" will mark the first time the show has been done in Monroe, and will open a season filled with tried successes from the Broadway stage.

The cast of the comedy is the largest to be assembled in recent years. Comprising 15 men and four women, it represents, according to the director, "the most ambitious undertaking in recent Little Theater work in this area."

Another new addition to the theater in 1949 was the selection of Tulane graduate C. Stocker Fontelieu as executive director. This marks the first time the local group has retained a professional, full time director.

Under the presidency of C. C. Boardman, who took over the head spot after last year's successful term in office of W. Gilbert Faulk, the membership of the group has risen to a point considerably above last year's. Although final returns on the recently completed membership drive have not been released, Miss Emy-Lou Biedenharn, chairman of the membership drive, estimated that a final tally on the organization strength would number more than 500.

Although the drive for new members has officially closed, Miss Biedenharn announced that a limited number of memberships would be available during the run of the show at the playhouse box office.

Evidence On Mailing Red Propaganda Probed

Chelsea, Mass., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Veterans organizations said today they were gathering evidence to give the FBI on the mailing of Red propaganda to the next of kin of servicemen wounded in Korea.

Mrs. Walter Lovett, whose son is hospitalized in Japan, said she received in the mail a pamphlet referring to American activity in Korea as "operation Ku Klux Klan."

The woman's name was in a government casualty list as next of kin of the wounded soldier.

The pamphlet was in a plain envelope mailed in Boston, Oct. 18. There was no indication who sent it.

Marginal notes written with a pen pointed out "the peaceful progress" in Russia in contrast to the "United States' imperialist war."

Commander John Hanlon of Chelsea Post American Legion said he heard of other parents—whose names were on casualty lists — that received similar Red propaganda.

Police Sergeant Robert Renfrew informed the FBI in Boston of the matter and said the agency was going to get in touch with Mrs. Lovett.

British Scientist Flees, May Be Hiding In Russia

By George Palmer

Rome, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The whereabouts of an Italian-born British atom scientist, reported by Rome newspapers to have left Italy for Moscow seven weeks ago, developed into an international mystery tonight.

The scientist is Bruno Pontecorvo, who arrived in Helsinki, Finland, Sept. 2. That is the last official word of his whereabouts. At that time, he was with his wife, Helena Marianne, and his three children, Gils, 12, Tito Nils, 6, and Antonia, 5.

All Rome's newspapers except those following the Communist line carried under their blackest headlines a report that Pontecorvo skipped with his wife and children to Poland en route to Moscow. Some said he got out just ahead of Italian police and British intelligence agents.

But the British foreign office and Scotland Yard indicated they had no interest in Pontecorvo's movements. His father, Massimo, in Milan, Italy, said he had no reason to believe the physicist would not return to Britain at the end of a vacation he began in July. Finnish police said that, although they did not know the present whereabouts of the scientist, Pontecorvo and his family had not passed through any Finnish border control post to neighboring Russia or in any other direction since they arrived in Helsinki via plane from Stockholm.

The mother of the Swedish-born Mrs. Pontecorvo said she had not seen her daughter when she passed through Stockholm — didn't even know she had passed through. But Swedish police said they had no reason so far to deal with the case.

A spokesman for the ministry of supply in London also said there was no reason to believe the scientist would not return to England in time to take up an appointment as atomic physicist professor at Liverpool University Jan. 1. The ministry is in charge of atomic research in Britain the university has done much research work for the government.

The London Star said military intelligence agents have begun inquiries, but the report could not be confirmed officially.

The U. S. embassy in London was said to be following the reports "with interest."

Pontecorvo's brother, Guido, a lecturer in genetics at Glasgow University, said the news of the scientist's reported disappearance came as a complete surprise to him.

Finnish Foreign Minister Johannes Virolainen said he traveled with the Pontecorvo family from Stockholm to Helsinki on Sept. 2, and he remembers them well. But they did not leave the airfield in the airline company bus.

"The Pontecorvo case," as some Rome newspapers referred to it, broke first when morning journals came out with the story that the Pisa-born scientist left Rome two weeks ago aboard a Czechoslovak airlines plane for Poland. He was said to have had a Polish visa on his British passport. The newspapers gave no source for their information, but they gave the impression that it was official.

A further check disclosed that Pontecorvo, who became a British citizen after fleeing from fascist Italy in 1940, had left Rome Sept. 1, with his wife and three children aboard a Scandinavian Airlines plane with tickets for Stockholm. A Stockholm source confirmed that he landed there, stayed for a day and then left for Helsinki.

Rome's Communist-line evening newspaper Paese Sera said Pontecorvo had gone to Stockholm and declared that reports of "the romantic flight to the Soviet Union thus would be destitute of any foundation."

Pontecorvo, who reputedly was one of the top scientists at Britain's Harwell atomic energy plant July 25 for a vacation in France and Italy.

A colleague in Britain was quoted today as saying the scientist "would have important information" on atomic developments and that he was listed as a senior principal scientific officer at the Harwell laboratories. Another top Harwell officer, German - born Dr. Klaus Fuchs, was sentenced to a 14-year jail term earlier this year on charges of giving atom secrets to Russia.

About 40 years old, Pontecorvo was once a pupil of Italy's leading physicists, Dr. Enrico Fermi. One Rome newspaper said Pontecorvo joined Fermi in America when he left Italy in 1940 and later worked at Canada's Chalk River Atom Plant.

He is a cousin of Italian Communist Senator Emilio Sereni. Sereni said today he had not seen Pontecorvo since 1937. Sereni is now a member of the executive committee of the Italian Communist party.

American Translator's Error Starts Romance

Florence, Italy, Oct. 21.—(AP)—An American translator's error had something to do with one of the highest speed romances ancient Florence ever saw.

It started when pretty, 22-year-old Liliana Biagi sent her photo and a little ad to the Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution saying she wanted to exchange letters with an American to perfect her English.

Somehow that got translated so that it appeared she wanted an American husband.

Gover W. Miller, 38, of Jeffersonville Ga., took one look at the picture and started writing letters. But the letters were romantic, and Liliana hadn't expected that. She quit writing.

Miller wasn't discouraged that easily. He came straightaway to Italy a few days ago, found her, and — they were married today so quickly that a sympathetic priest set aside the normal waiting time on the publishing of wedding bans.

Miss Clay Aided War On Communism

In co-operation with the statewide project of the Louisiana Chamber of Commerce, Miss Mary Clay, college librarian at the Northeast Louisiana State College, had special exhibits on the theme "Democracy vs. communism and socialism" during the week of October 16-21. Prominently displayed among the many books, pamphlets and magazine articles were large tastefully framed copies of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. These copies of our cherished American documents of democracy were presented to the college library by the Fort Miro chapter of D. A. R. in 1942, at the suggestion of Miss Mary Harrison Clay, college librarian and member of the Fort Miro chapter.

The framed documents usually hang one on each side of the main entrance door to the reading room. Miss Clay tells D. A. R. officers that they are frequently examined by the college students and has expressed appreciation to the Fort Miro chapter for making the fine copies readily accessible for the young citizens of the college community.

Fourteen-Year-Old Boy Kills Mother and Father

Kalamazoo, Mich., Oct. 21.—(AP)—A brooding schoolboy shot his father and mother to death today, state police said, because he felt he was mistreated.

The youth, 14-year-old Raymond Peers, was held at the Paw Paw, Mich., state police post while juvenile authorities pondered what action to take.

Sgt. Kenneth H. Cook and Detective John Dalman said Raymond confessed killing his father, George Peers, because "he kept punishing me when I didn't have it coming."

Then he called to his mother, the officers said, and shot her through the head as she approached, because "she was stingy."

The father, a 44-year-old manual training teacher in nearby Mattawan High School, died two hours after the shooting. The mother, Marian, 38, died instantly.

The slayings took place at the Peers farm home 13 miles west of here.

The officers quoted Raymond as saying he took a revolver out of his father's dresser at 8 a.m .and carried it to the back of the house in a paper sack.

The elder Peers was propping a ladder against the house, preparatory to painting the dwelling.

"He walked up to within 15 feet of his father and shot him in the back of the head," State Police Capt. Clarence Miller said.

Then, the state police officer continued, he called to his mother, who was in the bedroom.

"Come here, dad's hurt."

Mrs. Peers ran into the living room and was shot in the head as she approached Raymond.

At first police dubbed it an apparent murder and suicide. They theorized Mrs. Peers had wounded her husband and then killed herself.

The boy himself ran to home of a neighbor and reported he had found his mother and father dead. The neighbors found the mother lying in the living room and the father, unconscious but alive, at the foot of the ladder.

Capt. Miller said Raymond's first story was that he was feeding the chickens behind the barn at the time, but that he heard no shots.

"Then he finally told us the story," Miller said.

The officer quoted the boy as saying he "had been having a few disagreements" with his father and that the elder Peers sometimes whipped him.

"But he doesn't seem to have any real reason for the killing, or to feel particularly bad about it," Sgt. Cook related. "The house shows that the kid had pretty nearly everything he wanted."

One source of friction reportedly was the fact that Raymond went to the school where his father taught. Cook said the boy wanted to change schools some time ago, but his father "laughed him out of it."

WORLD MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Airline stocks did better than average in a generally firm market today.

Gains for the air stocks were limited to around 50 cents a share or less in active dealings. Changes elsewhere were equally small with gains and losses thoroughly scrambled.

Business dropped to the usual slow Saturday rate after an opening flurry. Turnover for the two hour sesion approached 700,000 shares.

Climax molybdenum took off on a solo flight with a rise of around $2 a share at $24.75 at one time. The stock was unusually active for a brief spell.

Also higher were American Airlines, United Air Lines, Eastern Air Lines, Trans World, Bethlehem Steel, Distillers Corp., Publicker, Admiral, Kennecott Copper, Du Pont, American Cyanamid, International Paper, Johns-Manville and U. S. Gypsum.

Republicans Send Queries On Fair Deal

Republicans bombarded the voters yesterday (Saturday) with postcard denunciations of Truman policy in the Far East and elsewhere.

Into the mails went a flood of double-size postcards bearing 14 questions, most of them on Korean policy, which Rep Judd (R.-Minn.) recently read to the house after saying he couldn't get the administration to answer them.

Some of the questions:

"Why did (Secretary of State) Acheson invite the Communists to take over Korea, Formosa and China? Why did President Truman insist that Chiang Kai-Shek take Communists into the Chinese government? What went with the $95,000,000,000 spent on national defense since World War Two?"

Democratic Senator Anderson of New Mexico, executive vice-chairman of his party's national committee, said he understood at least 8,000,000 of the postcards were being mailed postage-free under the franking privilege of Republican congressmen.

Anderson accused the republicans of spending public funds to send out "phoney and fraudulent campaign material." He added in a statement:

"These questions are based upon misinformation, misunderstentation. Each of them has standing and downright misrepreanswered time after time and the false assumptions on which they are based have been thoroughly exposed."

Anderson said the Truman administration has taken firm measures to check Communist aggression while "at almost every step these measures have been opposed by isolationist Republican leaders."

The Republican national committee planned a reply to Anderson's statement later in the day. A spokesman said he believed the number of cards mailed ou twas much smaller than 8,000,000.

Communism and related issues continued to dominate the campaign as both parties stepped up the volume of their effort to sway voters Nov. 7.

In Kansas City, Mrs. India Edwards, vice - chairman of the Democratic national committee, said Democratic administratives for the past 17 years have "pulled the rug from under Communist propaganda by restoring American prosperity and by answering the needs of the people."

"For all of the great Republican talk about communism," she said, "the Democrats have beaten communism at home by sound American methors ..and have no sacrificed American traditions of freedom and liberty in the process."

Mrs. Edwards' speech was prepared for a candidates' dinner in the hotel Muehlebach.

Republicans continued to charge there was political significance in President Truman's mid - Pacific conference with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Their latest campaign paper, "on the political front," featured this one-sentence editorial:

"Did President Truman meet General MacArthur to get his advice—or to silence him?"

PILGRIMS DANCE — Sicilian Holy Year pilgrims Franca Riela and Elvira Ferrara improvise a costumed folk dance for their associates before visiting St. Peter's in Vatican City.

Republicans Send Queries On Fair Deal

Republicans bombarded the voters yesterday (Saturday) with postcard denunciations of Truman policy in the Far East and elsewhere.

Into the mails went a flood of double-size postcards bearing 14 questions, most of them on Korean policy, which Rep Judd (R.-Minn.) recently read to the house after saying he couldn't get the administration to answer them.

Some of the questions:

"Why did (Secretary of State) Acheson invite the Communists to take over Korea, Formosa and China? Why did President Truman insist that Chiang Kai-Shek take Communists into the Chinese government? What went with the $95,000,000,000 spent on national defense since World War Two?"

Democratic Senator Anderson of New Mexico, executive vice-chairman of his party's national committee, said he understood at least 8,000,000 of the postcards were being mailed postage-free under the franking privilege of Republican congressmen.

Anderson accused the republicans of spending public funds to send out "phoney and fraudulent campaign material." He added in a statement:

"These questions are based upon misinformation, misunderstentation. Each of them has standing and downright misrepre- answered time after time and the false assumptions on which they are based have been thoroughly exposed."

Anderson said the Truman administration has taken firm measures to check Communist aggression while "at almost every step these measures have been opposed by isolationist Republican leaders."

The Republican national committee planned a reply to Anderson's statement later in the day. A spokesman said he believed the number of cards mailed ou twas much smaller than 8,000,000.

Communism and related issues continued to dominate the campaign as both parties stepped up the volume of their effort to sway voters Nov. 7.

In Kansas City, Mrs. India Edwards, vice - chairman of the Democratic national committee, said Democratic administratives for the past 17 years have "pulled the rug from under Communist propaganda by restoring American prosperity and by answering the needs of the people."

"For all of the great Republican talk about communism," she said, "the Democrats have beaten communism at home by sound American methors and have no sacrificed American traditions of freedom and liberty in the process."

Mrs. Edwards' speech was prepared for a candidates' dinner in the hotel Muehlebach.

Republicans continued to charge there was political significance in President Truman's mid - Pacific conference with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Their latest campaign paper, "on the political front," featured this one-sentence editorial:

The October meeting of the Madison Parish Garden Club was held at Dalkeith, plantation home of Mrs. George W. Webb, with Mrs. T. P. Kell and Mrs. Flora Bowers as co-hostesses. The home was beautifully decorated with lovely roses, the tea table featuring an artistic arrangement of yellow roses.

Among the attractive flower arrangements on display was the unique arrangement of native wild flowers in a "cypress knee." Mrs. A. E. Sparling presided over the business session and introduced Mrs. Chris Keller, who read a most interesting and informative paper on gardenias in which she gave a sketch of the history of the plant and listed the numerous varieties.

During the social period delicious sherbet and cake were served with coffee in the dining room from the refreshment table presided over by Mrs. Watson McDonald. Guests and members in attendance included Mrs. C. W. Kennedy, Mrs. S. M. Drew, Mrs. Drake of Springfield, Ill., Mrs. W. B. R. Mitchell of Lake Providence, Mrs. Richard Almand, Mrs. S. B. Bettis, Mrs. A. J. Boswell, Mrs. Robert Clark, Mrs. J. H. Devine, Mrs. Lalla Eggleston, Mrs. R. S. Gayle, Mrs. W. R. Gilfoil, Mrs. Gussie Hebert, Mrs. Chris Keller, Mrs. A. B. Kelly, Mrs. J. W. WESTWOOD HEIGHTS
(Near McGuire Golf Course, W. M.)

Any young mother will appreciate this step - saving kitchen with a sun porch adjoining. where little Johnny and Mary can play in the morning sun.

Just outside the kitchen door is a large storage space, and room for the washer.

And when the practical-minded husband sees the flawless workmanship, the high grade material used, the asbestos siding that never needs painting, (which leaves more time for golfing) and the large lot, our guess is there will be more than one prospective buyer for this new two bedroom home, especially since the FHA loan is not subject to the new restrictions.

The price is only $7650, including floor furnace, $900 cash plus closing costs, and the monthly payments will be much lower than most rent prices.

Only one to offer - better not think too long before you call.

WESTWOOD HEIGHTS
(Near McGuire Golf Course, W. M.)

Any young mother will appreciate this step - saving kitchen with a sun porch adjoining where little Johnny and Mary can play in the morning sun.

Just outside the kitchen door is a large storage space, and room for the washer.

And when the practical-minded husband sees the flawless workmanship, the high grade material used, the asbestos siding that never needs painting, (which leaves more time for golfing) and the large lot, our guess is there will be more than one prospective buyer for this new two bedroom home, especially since the FHA loan is not subject to the new restrictions.

The price is only $7650, including floor furnace, $900 cash plus closing costs, and the monthly payments will be much lower than most rent prices.

Only one to offer - better not think too long before you call.

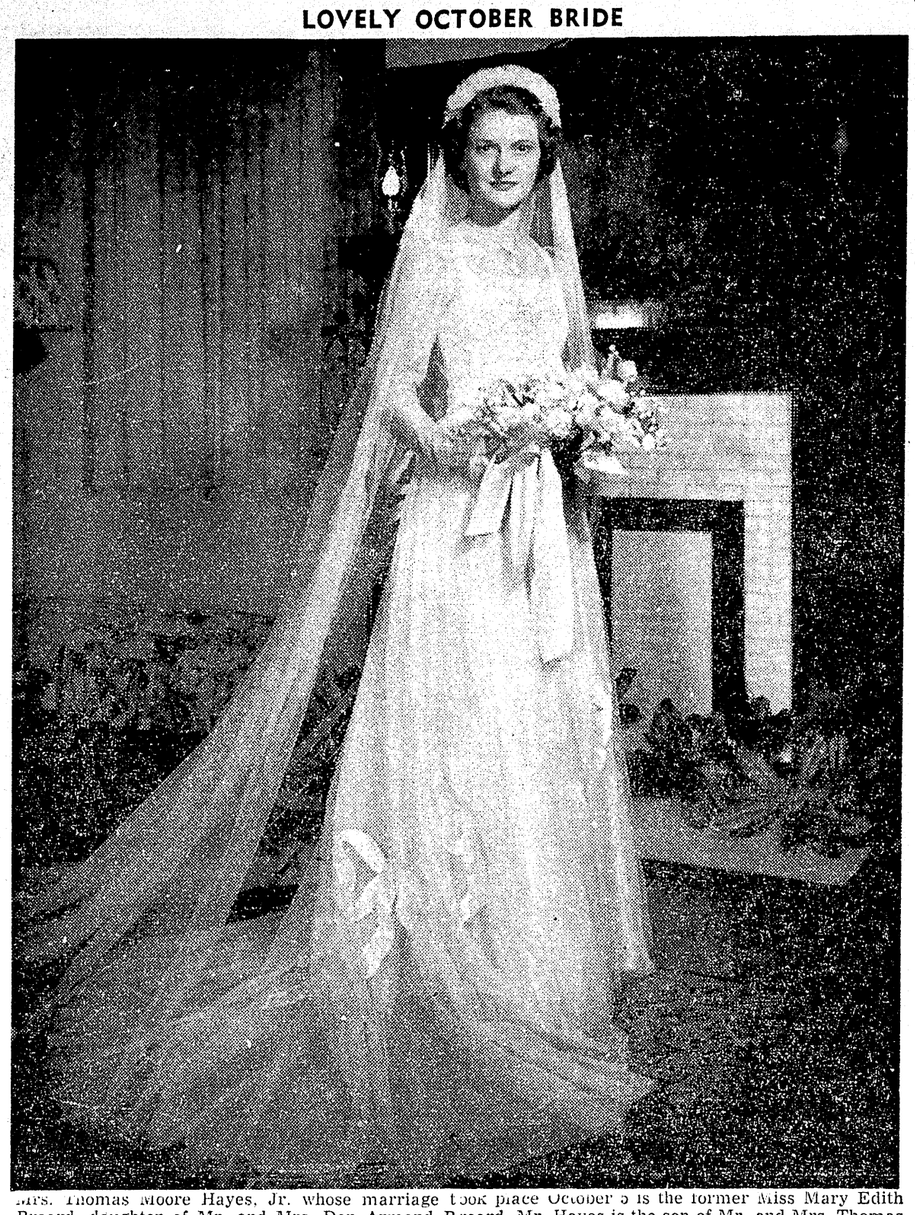
LOVELY OCTOBER BRIDE



Mrs. Thomas Moore Hayes, Jr. whose marriage took place October 5 is the former Miss Mary Edith Breard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Armand Breard. Mr. Hayes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moore Hayes, Sr.

Miss Mary Edith Breard Bride Of Thomas Moore Hayes, Jr.

Marriage Of Popular Young Couple Takes Place At St. Matthew's Catholic Church

A lovely bride of October was Miss Mary Edith Breard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Armand Breard, whose marriage to Thomas Moore Hayes, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomts Moore Hayes, Sr., was solemnized October 5, at St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Bordelon who offered a low nuptial mass, at which Monsignor J. C. Marsh, pastor of St. Matthew's, rendered in English translation the beautiful liturgical prayers.

The bridal couple exchanged the vows of the impressive double-ring service before the altar, which was beautifully decorated with vases of white stock and white chrysanthemums. Branched candelabra held a myriad of slender white cathedral tapers.

Mrs. Darwin Nichols, organist, played several selections and accompanied Mrs. Thomas Bryan Pugh III, of Baton Rouge, sister of the bride as she sang "Ave Marie," "Panis Angelicus" and the hymn "O Lord, I Am Not Worthy." The traditional wedding marches marked the beginning and end of the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was beautiful in her wedding gown of ivory net over satin, fashioned with a tight fitting bodice with square neckline. The long net sleeves, coming to points over her hands, were fastened with covered buttons. The full skirt of bouffant net was appliqued with satin bows.

The bride wore an heirloom pendant of clustered pearls, a gift of the groom's mother. She also carried an ivory lace handkerchief, carried by her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Bres Breard, at the occasions of her wedding, and both her silver and golden jubilees; her handkerchief was given to her by her aunt, Mrs. Laura Breard Rinehart.

Her chapel length veil of ivory net illusion fell from a ruffled band of net caught at the sides with ivory orange blossoms. Her veil was the same motif as that of her wedding gown, appliqued satin bows of graduated size, and she carried a bouquet of white roses with lace satin streamers.

Mrs. Bayard Chambers was matron of honor and was wearing a moss green dress of marquisette over green satin, with lace insets over a hoop skirt. She was wearing a matching green lace headdress fashioned as a halo. She carried a sheaf of red American Beauty roses with lace satin ribbon.

Rene'e Ellen Breard and Elizabeth Breard Pugh served as flower girls. They wore identical dresses of matching pink and blue net over taffeta slips with bouffant hooped skirts, fashioned with sweetheart necklines and puffed sleeves. Their net mittens and net headdresses resembled the bride's. The little girls carried wicker flower baskets from which they sprinkled rose petals down the carpet aisle of the church.

Mr. Thomas Moore Hayes, Sr., served his son as best man. Ushers were Mr. Armand V. Breard, Mr. Reneau Breard, Mr. Bert Sperry, Mr. Morris Haas, Jr., and Dr. Cyril Yancey. Armand E. Breard and Vincent Marsala, Jr., served as altar boys.

Mrs. Breard, mother of the bride wore a dark green crepe dress and green velour hat with brown accessories, and a corsage of yellow mums. Mrs. Hayes wore a teal blue crepe dress and black hat with black accessories and a corsage of matching flowers of dress material.

Mrs. William Polk of Alexandria and grandmother of the groom was wearing a black crepe dress with matching hat and veil and an orchid corsage. She was also a member of the receiving line.

Reception

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Armand V. Breard, and were received by the bride and bridegroom, parents of the bride and groom, and members of the wedding party.

Refreshments were served in the adjoining dining room where the bride's table was laid with a three-tiered wedding cake carrying the white rose design. Silver candelabra with white tapers were placed at the four corners of the table. From two smaller side tables champagne punch and iced cakes were served to the guests by Mrs. Clarence Oakley, Sr. and Mrs. Beverly Handy.

Tea girls were Mrs. Reneau Breard, Mrs. Louis Milner, Jr., Mrs. T. B. Pugh, III, Mrs. Lamar Greer, and Mrs. W. E. Smith, Jr. Mrs. E. R. Breard assisted with the bride's book in the living room where gifts were displayed.

The bride and bridegroom toasted one another in champagne from the silver wedding cup. Following the cutting of the wedding cake and the tossing of the bride's bouquet, the bride changed to her traveling dress of cocoa brown velvet and crepe with pleated skirt and matching velvet bolero jacket, with accessories of cocoa brown. Her corsage was of bronze baby mums tied with gold ribbon the couple left for a wedding trip which took them to Fort Walton, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes are now at home at 1508 Riverside.

The bride is a graduate of St. Matthew's School and Northeast Junior College, received B. A. degree from Our Lady of the Lake College in San Antonio, Tex.; did graduate work in the Schools of Social Service at both Tulane University and St. Louis University. She was a member of the children's case work staff of Ouachita department of public welfare. The groom graduated from Neville High School, received his B. A. and Law degree from Tulane University; was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity and served five years in the U. S. navy, presently holding the rank of lieutenant commander in the reserves.

Out-of-Town Guests

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. T. B. Pugh III and daughter, Beth of Baton Rouge; Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Frellsen, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Griffing, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rountree, Mrs. Patsy Kleinpeter of Franklin parish; Mrs. H. PRIZE AWARDED TO MISS HUNTER

Her Essay On Democracy Took First Place In School Contest

In connection with the Jaycees campaign "Democracy vs. Communism" conducted here last week, high school students competed for prizes for the best essays suited to the subject. The first prize went to Margaret Hunter, of the Ouachita Parish High School who discussed: "What Does Democracy Mean to Me?"

Her essay was as follows:

"This subject has been defined many times by many people better qualified than I. However, this is a democracy in which we live, and I, too, may say what I think.

"Under a democracy we have many rights and privileges. We hear much about the constitution, the bill of rights, and the well known "four freedoms." But democracy means more to me than just written laws and rights.

"Men, from the very beginning of the world, have had the irresistible and indefinable desire to be free—not to have just the freedom that laws and government can give, but a freedom of the mind and soul. This is what a real democracy gives to me—a feeling of being a free living individual who must live with his fellow man in peace.

Perhaps, but more than all of these it is the people—the simple, sincere, real American people who know that God gave them the right to govern themselves and to take advantage of the talents which they possessed; the people who yell their lungs out at a ball game; the people who eat hot dogs in the park; the people who shoot firecrackers on the Fourth of July and the people who worship their God in the church of their choice.

"Yes, this is what democracy means to me; the knowledge that under democracy I can live with people like that."

LOVELY OCTOBER BRIDE

Mrs. Thomas Moore Hayes, Jr. whose marriage took place October 5 is the former Miss Mary Edith Breard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Armand Breard. Mr. Hayes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moore Hayes, Sr.

Miss Mary Edith Breard Bride Of Thomas Moore Hayes, Jr.

A lovely bride of October was Miss Mary Edith Breard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Armand Breard, whose marriage to Thomas Moore Hayes, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomts Moore Hayes, Sr., was solemnized October 5, at St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Bordelon who offered a low nuptial mass, at which Monsignor J. C. Marsh, pastor of St. Matthew's, rendered in English translation the beautiful liturgical prayers.

The bridal couple exchanged the vows of the impressive double-ring service before the altar, which was beautifully decorated with vases of white stock and white chrysanthemums. Branched candelabra held a myriad of slender white cathedral tapers.

Mrs. Darwin Nichols, organist, played several selections and accompanied Mrs. Thomas Bryan Pugh III, of Baton Rouge, sister of the bride as she sang "Ave Marie," "Panis Angelicus" and the hymn "O Lord, I Am Not Worthy." The traditional wedding marches marked the beginning and end of the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was beautiful in her wedding gown of ivory net over satin, fashioned with a tight fitting bodice with square neckline. The long net sleeves, coming to points over her hands, were fastened with covered buttons. The full skirt of bouffant net was appliqued with satin bows.

The bride wore an heirloom pendant of clustered pearls, a gift of the groom's mother. She also carried an ivory lace handkerchief, carried by her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Bres Breard, at the occasions of her wedding, and both her silver and golden jubilees; her handkerchief was given to her by her aunt, Mrs. Laura Breard Rinehart.

Her chapel length veil of ivory net illusion fell from a ruffled band of net caught at the sides with ivory orange blossoms. Her veil was the same motif as that of her wedding gown, appliqued satin bows of graduated size, and she carried a bouquet of white roses with lace satin streamers.

Mrs. Bayard Chambers was matron of honor and was wearing a moss green dress of marquisette over green satin, with lace insets over a hoop skirt. She was wearing a matching green lace headdress fashioned as a halo. She carried a sheaf of red American Beauty roses with lace satin ribbon.

Rene'e Ellen Breard and Elizabeth Breard Pugh served as flower girls. They wore identical dresses of matching pink and blue net over taffeta slips with bouffant hooped skirts, fashioned with sweetheart necklines and puffed sleeves. Their net mittens and net headdresses resembled the bride's. The little girls carried wicker flower baskets from which they sprinkled rose petals down the carpet aisle of the church.

Mr. Thomas Moore Hayes, Sr., served his son as best man. Ushers were Mr. Armand V. Breard, Mr. Reneau Breard, Mr. Bert Sperry, Mr. Morris Haas, Jr., and Dr. Cyril Yancey. Armand E. Breard and Vincent Marsala, Jr., served as altar boys.

Mrs. Breard, mother of the bride wore a dark green crepe dress and green velour hat with brown accessories, and a corsage of yellow mums. Mrs. Hayes wore a teal blue crepe dress and black hat with black accessories and a corsage of matching flowers of dress material.

Mrs. William Polk of Alexandria and grandmother of the groom was wearing a black crepe dress with matching hat and veil and an orchid corsage. She was also a member of the receiving line.

Reception

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Armand V. Breard, and were received by the bride and bridegroom, parents of the bride and groom, and members of the wedding party.

Refreshments were served in the adjoining dining room where the bride's table was laid with a three-tiered wedding cake carrying the white rose design. Silver candelabra with white tapers were placed at the four corners of the table. From two smaller side tables champagne punch and iced cakes were served to the guests by Mrs. Clarence Oakley, Sr. and Mrs. Beverly Handy.

Tea girls were Mrs. Reneau Breard, Mrs. Louis Milner, Jr., Mrs. T. B. Pugh, III, Mrs. Lamar Greer, and Mrs. W. E. Smith, Jr. Mrs. E. R. Breard assisted with the bride's book in the living room where gifts were displayed.

The bride and bridegroom toasted one another in champagne from the silver wedding cup. Following the cutting of the wedding cake and the tossing of the bride's bouquet, the bride changed to her traveling dress of cocoa brown velvet and crepe with pleated skirt and matching velvet bolero jacket, with accessories of cocoa brown. Her corsage was of bronze baby mums tied with gold ribbon the couple left for a wedding trip which took them to Fort Walton, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes are now at home at 1508 Riverside.

The bride is a graduate of St. Matthew's School and Northeast Junior College, received B. A. degree from Our Lady of the Lake College in San Antonio, Tex.; did graduate work in the Schools of Social Service at both Tulane University and St. Louis University. She was a member of the children's case work staff of Ouachita department of public welfare. The groom graduated from Neville High School, received his B. A. and Law degree from Tulane University; was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity and served five years in the U. S. navy, presently holding the rank of lieutenant commander in the reserves.

PRIZE AWARDED TO MISS HUNTER

Her Essay On Democracy Took First Place In School Contest

In connection with the Jaycees campaign "Democracy vs. Communism" conducted here last week, high school students competed for prizes for the best essays suited to the subject. The first prize went to Margaret Hunter, of the Ouachita Parish High School who discussed: "What Does Democracy Mean to Me?"

Her essay was as follows:

"This subject has been defined many times by many people better qualified than I. However, this is a democracy in which we live, and I, too, may say what I think.

"Under a democracy we have many rights and privileges. We hear much about the constitution, the bill of rights, and the well known "four freedoms." But democracy means more to me than just written laws and rights.

"Men, from the very beginning of the world, have had the irresistible and indefinable desire to be free—not to have just the freedom that laws and government can give, but a freedom of the mind and soul. This is what a real democracy gives to me—a feeling of being a free living individual who must live with his fellow man in peace.

"When we study science, we learn that all matter is made up of atoms, which in turn are made up of electrons, protons, and neutrons and without these tiny particles, matter could not exist. So it is with a democracy. Each person, from the youngest to the oldest has a part. Thus I have the feeling that I am a part of this and that only by working closely together can we "make democracy live".

"But what is there in a democracy to make it live and why has it survived? Totalitarian forms of government have risen to great heights many times in the past but somehow after a period of struggle the people obtained their rights. Was it because of the fire in men's hearts and the will to be free? Was if faith in themselves and their God that kept men from being as driven cattle under a powerful leader? The answer is an emphatic yes.

"We understand that democracies survive but what makes great and strong? The United States of America is the greatest nation in the world today and why is it so great? Is it because of her vast supply of natural resources? Is it because of the wonderful feats in engineering often called the "American Know How"?

"Is it because of the leaders in every field? Is it because of her great schools and universities? Perhaps, but more than all of these it is the people—the simple, sincere, real American people who know that God gave them the right to govern themselves and to take advantage of the talents which they possessed; the people who yell their lungs out at a ball game; the people who eat hot dogs in the park; the people who shoot firecrackers on the Fourth of July and the people who worship their God in the church of their choice.

Welcome Garden Club And Home Garden Club Meet

Dr. Robert S. Reich Speaks Before Members And Guests Of Clubs On 'Landscaping'

The Welcome Garden Club had as its co-hostess for the afternoon the Home Garden Club when they brought Dr. Robert S. Reich before members and guests to speak on the subject of "Landscaping". Dr. Reich, a member of the Louisiana State University faculty since 1941, is a recognized authority in this field and an author of a very popular book on this subject. During the war years he taught both in England and France.

Dr. Reich's desire is to create the desire in people to beautify their grounds and to become landscaping conscious. He recommended the book "Landscape for Living", which gives basic reasons of "why landscape". His definition of landscaping is "The art of producing human enjoyment through arrangement of spaces and land in a useful and beautiful manner."

Dr. Reich made several recommendations, among which were the following:

1. Land design should be started before building design if at all possible.

2. Make good use of existing plant material, shade trees, shrubs, and such. Native brush and trees, properly trimmed and treated, and already having a good start, should at least be considered before eliminating and starting out with entirely new material.

3. Be sure to make landscape development fit the individual who is to live with it.

4. Exposure is very important. Gardens facing south are best because of advantages of summer breezes, and protection from winter weather.

5. The land should be divided into three areas no matter what size the property is. The smallest division should perhaps be the "public" area, that part which is to the front of the building; another part should be given over to "service", laundry area, tool sheds, composte pile, etc.; and the "private" area, which is best placed in the rear to give the much desired privacy a family enjoys.

6. Fragrance and color are very important which denote cheerfulness.

7. The importance of "tying together" the trees, lawn, earth and sky to make a perfectly balanced garden.

8. Characteristic of contemporary design of gardens are the following: importance of design; strong contrasts; use of materials; dimensions; design must fit people, house and property; available materials may determine design; simplicity; absence of decorations.

Dr. Reich concluded his lecture with the showing of slides, bringing out the good or bad points concerning each garden pictured.

Mrs. C. C. Lucky, program chairman, presented six club members, whose names had been drawn the month previous, and each spoke briefly on her chosen subject. Mrs. McQuiller spoke on insecticides and stressed the advantages of the use of benzene hexachloride. Mrs. R. B. Henry told of the seasons of the year, bringing out that October was the richest month. Mrs. O. M. White, Sr. displayed one of her beautiful African violets and gave many pointers on their care. Mrs. J. P. Royce told of her experience in raising butterfly lilies. Mrs. H. G. Thompson gave instructions concerning fall spraying to rid plants and shrubs of scale, white fly, and other enemies. Mrs. W. R. Gates, a recognized authority on iris, said that the first week in November would be the last chance for replanting successfully this fall. She stressed the use of phosphate and bone meal used half and half to feed the plants.

Mrs. Jewell McQuiller announced the date of the Welcome Club Garden Show to be held at the Methodist Youth Center in West Monroe on Nov. 9. All members of committees concerning the show were asked to meet with Mrs. V. S. Garnett, general chairman, at her home on Monday afternoon, Oct. 23, at 3:00 p.m.

MRS. A. D. TISDALE GUEST SPEAKER AT BONHOMIE CLUB MEET

The Bonhomis Club met Thursday October 12th, in the lovely home of Mrs. O. Willis with Mrs. Jack Rushing serving as co-hostess.

The president, Mrs. R. B. Pilant, opened the meeting with the reading of the club collect in unison; this was followed by the business session.

Mrs. Hal Laymon, who was the club's representative at the Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting on Democracy vs. Communism and Socialism, gave a very interesting account of the work planned by the group for the week. The club has offered to participate in cooperation with this project.

The president then turned the meeting over to the program chairman, Mrs. Warren Breard, who introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale. She is the past president of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs and is presently serving on the board of General Federation of Women's clubs.

In her gracious manner, Mrs. Tisdale gave a very inspiring and informative talk on federation. She began by sayng, "If we are interested in bettering our community, it certainly takes sacrifices. For instance, it takes thousands of places together like Monroe to make a place in this world that we would like to live. Therefore, the work of tremendous number of women is needed." She told of the possibilities of clubwomen doing more to help Monroe as building a much needed community clubhouse.

Mrs. Tisdale then went into length and discussed the magazine "General Federation Clubwoman" which is published by the General Federation of Women's Clubs. One timely article she particularly stressed was "Building Citadels of Freedom in This Changing World," by Mrs. Hiram Cale Haughton, president General Federation of Womer's Clubs.

She presented and discussed an outline of the G. F. W. C. program for 1950-1952:

The sunrise and not the sunset of peace can be determined: I. By our help in revitalizing Europe, through E. C. A. and the North Atlantic Pact. II. By building a strong America—militarily, economically and spirtually. III. By strengthening the United Nations to kep the peace.

Clubwomen can help to unite the strength of America now by supporting all measures, military and economic, necessary to achieve victory in Korea and to curb aggression wherever it occurs; by working to strengthen the United Nations: by building moral at home and interpreting America truthfully broad; by making the American home a citadel for spiritual living; by believing in victory and working for it.

Mrs. Tisdale also discussed each of the departments in the F.F.W.C. program.

In conclusion Mrs. Tisdale said the General Federation needs new blood and ideas and encouraged each to do more clubwork.

A social hour followed and the hostesses served delicious refreshments to the following guests and members: Mrs. Paul Bauer, Mrs. Warren Breard, Mrs. George Forman, Mrs. Melvin Harrison, Mrs. E. L. Hoskins, Mrs. Robert Irby, Mrs. O. C. Lanier, Mrs Hal Layman, Mrs. L. H. Leverett, Mrs. A. J. McCready, Mrs. R. B. Pilant, Mrs. H. M. Rhodes, Mrs. Roland Waldroup, Mrs. W. D. Womack, Jr., Mrs. Eugene Scott, Mrs. Pearl Reynolds and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale.

cial)—The Jonesville town council this week authorized the Pan American Engineers to advertise for bids on the proposed paving project, by which some 20 blocks of the downtown section of Jonesville will be hard-surfaced.

Dee Brown, mayor, said that no property owners appeared to protest the project at a meeting which was set for the purpose of hearing anyone who might be opposed.

The Welcome Garden Club had as its co-hostess for the afternoon the Home Garden Club when they brought Dr. Robert S. Reich before members and guests to speak on the subject of "Landscaping". Dr. Reich, a member of the Louisiana State University faculty since 1941, is a recognized authority in this field and an author of a very popular book on this subject. During the war years he taught both in England and France.

Dr. Reich's desire is to create the desire in people to beautify their grounds and to become landscaping conscious. He recommended the book "Landscape for Living", which gives basic reasons of "why landscape". His definition of landscaping is "The art of producing human enjoyment through arrangement of spaces and land in a useful and beautiful manner."

Dr. Reich made several recommendations, among which were the following:

1. Land design should be started before building design if at all possible.
2. Make good use of existing plant material, shade trees, shrubs, and such. Native brush and trees, properly trimmed and treated, and already having a good start, should at least be considered before eliminating and starting out with entirely new material.
3. Be sure to make landscape development fit the individual who is to live with it.
4. Exposure is very important. Gardens facing south are best because of advantages of summer breezes, and protection from winter weather.
5. The land should be divided into three areas no matter what size the property is. The smallest division should perhaps be the "public" area, that part which is to the front of the building; another part should be given over to "service", laundry area, tool sheds, composte pile, etc.; and the "private" area, which is best placed in the rear to give the much desired privacy a family enjoys.
6. Fragrance and color are very important which denote cheerfulness.
7. The importance of "tying together" the trees, lawn, earth and sky to make a perfectly balanced garden.
8. Characteristic of contemporary design of gardens are the following: importance of design; strong contrasts; use of materials; dimensions; design must fit people, house and property; available materials may determine design; simplicity; absence of decorations.

Dr. Reich concluded his lecture with the showing of slides, bringing out the good or bad points concerning each garden pictured.

Mrs. C. C. Lucky, program chairman, presented six club members, whose names had been drawn the month previous, and each spoke briefly on her chosen subject. Mrs. McQuiller spoke on insecticides and stressed the advantages of the use of benzene hexachloride. Mrs. R. B. Henry told of the seasons of the year, bringing out that October was the richest month. Mrs. O. M. White, Sr. displayed one of her beautiful African violets and gave many pointers on their care. Mrs. J. P. Royce told of her experience in raising butterfly lilies. Mrs. H. G. Thompson gave instructions concerning fall spraying to rid plants and shrubs of scale, white fly, and other enemies. Mrs. W. R. Gates, a recognized authority on iris, said that the first week in November would be the last chance for replanting successfully this fall. She stressed the use of phosphate and bone meal used half and half to feed the plants.

Mrs. Jewell McQuiller announced the date of the Welcome Club Garden Show to be held at the Methodist Youth Center in West Monroe on Nov. 9. All members of committees concerning the show were asked to meet with Mrs. V. S. Garnett, general chairman, at her home on Monday afternoon, Oct. 23, at 3:00 p.m.

MRS. A. D. TISDALE GUEST SPEAKER AT BONHOMIE CLUB MEET

The Bonhomis Club met Thursday October 12th, in the lovely home of Mrs. O. Willis with Mrs. Jack Rushing serving as co-hostess.

The president, Mrs. R. B. Pilant, opened the meeting with the reading of the club collect in unison; this was followed by the business session.

Mrs. Hal Laymon, who was the club's representative at the Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting on Democracy vs. Communism and Socialism, gave a very interesting account of the work planned by the group for the week. The club has offered to participate in cooperation with this project.

The president then turned the meeting over to the program chairman, Mrs. Warren Breard, who introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale. She is the past president of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs and is presently serving on the board of General Federation of Women's clubs.

In her gracious manner, Mrs. Tisdale gave a very inspiring and informative talk on federation. She began by sayng, "If we are interested in bettering our community, it certainly takes sacrifices. For instance, it takes thousands of places together like Monroe to make a place in this world that we would like to live. Therefore, the work of tremendous number of women is needed." She told of the possibilities of clubwomen doing more to help Monroe as building a much needed community clubhouse.

Mrs. Tisdale then went into length and discussed the magazine "General Federation Clubwoman" which is published by the General Federation of Women's Clubs. One timely article she particularly stressed was "Building Citadels of Freedom in This Changing World," by Mrs. Hiram Cale Haughton, president General Federation of Women's Clubs.

She presented and discussed an outline of the G. F. W. C. program for 1950-1952:

The sunrise and not the sunset of peace can be determined: I. By our help in revitalizing Europe, through E. C. A. and the North Atlantic Pact. II. By building a strong America—militarily, economically and spirtually. III. By strengthening the United Nations to kep the peace.

Clubwomen can help to unite the strength of America now by supporting all measures, military and economic, necessary to achieve victory in Korea and to curb aggression wherever it occurs; by working to strengthen the United Nations: by building moral at home and interpreting America truthfully broad; by making the American home a citadel for spiritual living; by believing in victory and working for it.

Mrs. Tisdale also discussed each of the departments in the F.F.W.C. program.

In conclusion Mrs. Tisdale said the General Federation needs new blood and ideas and encouraged each to do more clubwork.

A social hour followed and the hostesses served delicious refreshments to the following guests and members: Mrs. Paul Bauer, Mrs. Warren Breard, Mrs. George Forman, Mrs. Melvin Harrison, Mrs. E. L. Hoskins, Mrs. Robert Irby, Mrs. O. C. Lanier, Mrs Hal Layman, Mrs. L. H. Leverett, Mrs. A. J. McCready, Mrs. R. B. Pilant, Mrs. H. M. Rhodes, Mrs. Roland Waldroup, Mrs. W. D. Womack, Jr., Mrs. Eugene Scott, Mrs. Pearl Reynolds and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale.

Jonesville Plans Street Paving

cial)—The Jonesville town council this week authorized the Pan American Engineers to advertise for bids on the proposed paving project, by which some 20 blocks of the downtown section of Jonesville will be hard-surfaced.

Dee Brown, mayor, said that no property owners appeared to protest the project at a meeting which was set for the purpose of hearing anyone who might be opposed.

Brown said if bids are too high, the project will not be carried out at this time. Under the plan, cost of the hard-surfacing will be covered by an already-voted $43,000 bond issue and by front frontage assessments against property owners.

BRIDE OF RECENT DATE

A lovely bride of October 14 was Mrs. Clyde Webb Benson (above), formerly Miss Jane Marie Renaud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Renaud. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Benson.

Impressive Ceremony Unites Jane Renaud And Clyde Webb Benson

Vows Spoken At St. Matthew's Catholic Church Saturday, October 14

"This Is A Great Sacrament but I speak in Christ and in the Church" Eph. 5:32.

With these words the Reverend Father Marvin Bordelon began the impressive double-ring ceremony uniting in the Holy bonds of matrimony Miss Jane Marie Renaud and Mr. Clyde Webb Benson on Saturday, October 14, 1950 at ten o'clock in the morning at St. Matthews Catholic Church.

The beauty of the main altar, in rich lace cloth and massed with giant white chrysanthemums, was reflected in the mellow glow of tall waxen cathedral candles that gleamed in the backbround.

The side altars held baskets overflowing with white pom poms, and at the Chancel where the bride and groom knelt for the sacred rites, clusters of white satin ribbon and miniature chrysanthemums were placed. Lighting the candles for his cousin's marriage was Louis Renaud, Jr. of Vicksburg, Miss. and Larry McCarthy.

Prenuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Della Williamson, organist, who accompanied the soloist Mr. Charles Biggar, in Gounod's "Ave Maria" and at the signing of the register sang "Panis Angelicus." The traditional wedding marches were by Lohengrin and Mendelssohn.

Mrs. Ray L. Brock, cousin of the groom, who served as matron of honor, was strikingly gowned in beau blue taffeta. Floor length, full as to skirt, bustle back and close fitting bodice with simulated drop yoke, a rhinestone choker accentuated the lovely costume. Three quarters crushed taffeta gloves with wristlet fastening and a headdress of special design of taffeta with rhinestone ornament completed the very attractive ensemble. She carried a colonial bouquet of fall festival chrysanthemums with satin ribbon of gold.

Childhood friends of the bride, Miss Sara Louise Langford and Miss Sara Ellen Bruno, were chosen to serve as bridesmaids. They wore identical frocks of gold taffeta, headdresses and rhinestone chokers designed as that of Mrs. Brock's. They carried coloniel bouquets of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums with beau blue satin ribbon streamers. Serving the groom as best man was Mr. Ray L. Brock. The ushers were Mr. Levins Thompson, Mr. Edwin Russell and Mr. George Dent.

The petite bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in an exquisite lush ivory satin gown of classical beauty. The long basque, with tiny satin covered buttons down the back, had an out-the-shoulder yoke emphasized yoke emphasized by a small intricate design of seed pearls, with mandarin collar featuring the same uniquely beautiful design in seed pearls. The skirt, full gathered, ended in a court train. Long tight-fitting sleeves extended well over the hands in petal points. Attached to a coronet of pearls was the beautiful veil of illusion worn over the face as she walked down the aisle, and which fell in graceful finger-tip folds.

She wore the groom's gift, handsome opal and platinum ear drops and carried an heirloom lace handkerchief belonging to her devoted grandmother, Mrs. Celine Nicollet Renaud, and which has been used by generations of brides in the Nicollet family of France.

Her colonial bouquet was fashioned of satin love-knots and small white chrysanthemums, topped with an orchid. Tiny satin ribbon streamers holding miniature chrysanthemums fell in a cascade of silken beauty.

Mrs. J. B. Renaud chose for the occasion a model of black crepe, a small beaver hat of delight pink with accessories of the same shade Her corsage was pink dawn roses.

Mrs. Paul Kale, maternal aunt of the groom, was wearing black crepe with a Danish pink hat and accessories in matching shade. She wore a corsage fashioned of small bronze chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Celine Renaud, paternal grandmother of the bride, chose a dress of satin back crepe with hat and accessories of black. Her corsage was of sweetheart roses.

Following the crermony a reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt on Speed drive. The reception suite was most attractively decorated. White astors were placed at vantage points in all crystal vases. An unusually artistic arrangement of pink roses tuberoses and rose of Montana was placed on the long mirrored mantle.

The bride's table in the dining room overlaid with white cloth of imported damask and hand embroidery of soft tones in pink and blue rosebuds. Placed on a large reflector edged with candied ruching, the three tier heart-shaped wedding cake was a work of art in decorative simplicity. White rosebuds outlined each tier and a single full blown white rose tied with satin ribbon love-knots topped the lucious confection. On either end of the table embedded in maidenhair fern and satin ribbon love-knots, were lighted slender Trinity candles in silver holders.

On the long buffet a dramatic arrangement of stock, tuberoses and white ageratum was flanked by tall candles in silver holders.

Following the cutting of the cake by the bride and groom, guests were served by Mrs. Marcel Renaud. Silver trays filled with individual cakes and rose-embossed mints were passed among the guests. Punch was served from a lace covered table with fern and tuberoses encircling the crystal container. Mrs. Edwin Garver, in attractive model of black crepe worn at the waistline, presided at the refresment bowl.

Assisting in the courtesies were Miss Ninon Tanguis, who wore a lovely frock of orchid taffeta, Miss Kiki Gatazoula wore gold marquisette over taffeta. Miss Marcie Ann Renaud, attractively gowned in pink marquisette over taffeta, was in charge of the guest book, where an arrangement of sweetheart roses in a miniature bride's slipper of crystal was effectively placed.

Guests were privileged to view the many beautiful gifts showered upon the couple of sterling, china, linens and various other presents that filled to capacity the large room set aside for the display.

The bridal bouquet, thrown as she stepped from the reception rooms was caught by Miss Sara Ellen Bruno.

Mrs. Benson's going away suit was a handsome two piece blue and grey wool, grey blouse, a very chic small hat of grey, with accessories of dark blue kid. High on the lapel of the smart suit she pinned a white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The honeymoon will be spent at Galveston and at Houston. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Benson will be at home in their apartment on McQuire.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. Jean Baptiste Renaud and the late Rosina Guerriero, is an alumna of Ouachita Parish High School and Northeast Junior College. She is a member of Delta Beta Sigma and Lambda Sigma Chi sororities and is a member of the Y. W. B. C

The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Benson and grandson of the late Capt. R. P. Webb. He graduated at Ouachita Parish High School, attended Northeast Junior College and holds a B. B. A. from the University of Texas. He served for many months in the Pacific theater as navigator and is captain in the army air force reserve. He is associated with the local business office of the United Gas Pipe Line Company.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Miss Sara Louise Langford, Jackson, Miss; Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Brock and Ray Jr., Houston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Burke, Houston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Renaud and Louis Jr., Vicksburg, Miss; Mr. and Mrs. James Brownlee, Shreveport; Mrs. Victor Digby, Miss Edith Gray Digby, Ruston; Mrs. Edwin Garver, Gil and Katherine Jane Garver, Rushville, Ind. and Miss Blance Nicollet, New Orleans.

Can You Spot The Culprit Here?

By Oswald Jacoby

Written for NEA Service

"Maybe this is just a foolish question," writes a St. Louis correspondent, "but if a sensible answer is possible it would set our minds at rest. Our trouble developed in a hand in which both defenders made a serious mistake on the same trick!

"West opened the king of spades and then led the jack of spades. East realized that his partner was showing the four top honors in spades, and he therefore discarded the deuce of diamonds on the second round of spades. West continued with the ace of spades, and East discarded the deuce of clubs, thus indicating that he had no trick in either of the minor suits.

"Now came the fatal trick. West led the queen of spades, and East discarded another diamond. South ruffed with a low trump, drew trumps, and easily won th erest of the tricks.

"West was prompt to point out that if East had played the jack of trumps on the fourth spade the contract would have been defeated. South would be obliged to overruff with the queen or king of trumps, and then West would surely win a trump trick with his ten.

"East agreed with this statement. However, he argued that West should have led the low spade instead of the queen. This would have made it perfectly clear that he wanted East to ruff rather than discard. West agreed that he should have led the low spade instead of the queen. However, he argued that East should have ruffed regardless of hwich spade was led.

"In other words, each defender agrees that he made a mistake; and each insists that his partner's mistake was worse than his own. So that is our foolish question: Whose mistake was worse?"

It isn't a foolish question, and it isn't hard to find a sensible answer. West made the only mistake, and East didn't make a mistake at all.

The reason is that West knows the contract will be defeated if his partner can ruff the fourth spade with an honor. Hence it is definitely up to West to lead a low spade at the fourth trick to make sure that his partner ruffs. (If East were a beginner he might ruff with his low trump, but it may be taken for granted that a good player would ruff high.)

When West led the queen of spades at the fourth trick the effect was to tell his partner not to trump. This would be a vital message if West held the queen and two very small trumps. In that situation West would eventually make a trump trick just by stitting tight; but he would lose his trump trick if East wasted a trump on the fourth round of spades.

Three True Bills In Catahoula

Jonesville, La., Oct. 21.—(Special)—Three true bills were returned by the Catahoula parish grand jury this week in Harrisonburg.

Jesse Cagle of Jonesville was indicted for attempted murder and he and his brother, Wade Cagle, were indicted in a separate bill for aggravated battery.

Sam Curry of Sicily Island was indicted for simple battery in connection with the Labor Day weekend beating of L. M. Meyers.

Indictments of the Cagle men rose from an incident last August in which they allegedly attacked their brother-in-law, Sid Wilson, as he and his wife were sleeping on their houseboat, and in which Jesse allegedly later shot through the boat, then occupied by two teenage boys, one a son of Wilson and the other a son of Mrs. Wilson.

Minnesota, South and North Dakota produce four fifths of the U. S. flaxseed crop.

BRIDE OF RECENT DATE

A lovely bride of October 14 was Mrs. Clyde Webb Benson (above), formerly Miss Jane Marie Renaud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Renaud. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Benson.

Impressive Ceremony Unites Jane Renaud And Clyde Webb Benson

Vows Spoken At St. Matthew's Catholic Church Saturday, October 14

"This Is A Great Sacrament but I speak in Christ and in the Church" Eph. 5:32.

With these words the Reverend Father Marvin Bordelon began the impressive double-ring ceremony uniting in the Holy bonds of matrimony Miss Jane Marie Renaud and Mr. Clyde Webb Benson on Saturday, October 14, 1950 at ten o'clock in the morning at St. Matthews Catholic Church.

The beauty of the main altar, in rich lace cloth and massed with giant white chrysanthemums, was reflected in the mellow glow of tall waxen cathedral candles that gleamed in the backbround.

The side altars held baskets overflowing with white pom poms, and at the Chancel where the bride and groom knelt for the sacred rites, clusters of white satin ribbon and miniature chrysanthemums were placed. Lighting the candles for his cousin's marriage was Louis Renaud, Jr. of Vicksburg, Miss. and Larry McCarthy.

Prenuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Della Williamson, organist, who accompanied the soloist Mr. Charles Biggar, in Gounod's "Ave Maria" and at the signing of the register sang "Panis Angelicus." The traditional wedding marches were by Lohengrin and Mendelssohn.

Mrs. Ray L. Brock, cousin of the groom, who served as matron of honor, was strikingly gowned in beau blue taffeta. Floor length, full as to skirt, bustle back and close fitting bodice with simulated drop yoke, a rhinestone choker accentuated the lovely costume. Three quarters crushed taffeta gloves with wristlet fastening and a headdress of special design of taffeta with rhinestone ornament completed the very attractive ensemble. She carried a colonial bouquet of fall festival chrysanthemums with satin ribbon of gold.

Childhood friends of the bride, Miss Sara Louise Langford and Miss Sara Ellen Bruno, were chosen to serve as bridesmaids. They wore identical frocks of gold taffeta, headdresses and rhinestone chokers designed as that of Mrs. Brock's. They carried coloniel bouquets of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums with beau blue satin ribbon streamers. Serving the groom as best man was Mr. Ray L. Brock. The ushers were Mr. Levins Thompson, Mr. Edwin Russell and Mr. George Dent.

The petite bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in an exquisite lush ivory satin gown of classical beauty. The long basque, with tiny satin covered buttons down the back, had an out-the-shoulder yoke emphasized yoke emphasized by a small intricate design of seed pearls, with mandarin collar featuring the same uniquely beautiful design in seed pearls. The skirt, full gathered, ended in a court train. Long tight-fitting sleeves extended well over the hands in petal points. Attached to a coronet of pearls was the beautiful veil of illusion worn over the face as she walked down the aisle, and which fell in graceful finger-tip folds.

She wore the groom's gift, handsome opal and platinum ear drops and carried an heirloom lace handkerchief belonging to her devoted grandmother, Mrs. Celine Nicollet Renaud, and which has been used by generations of brides in the Nicollet family of France.

Her colonial bouquet was fashioned of satin love-knots and small white chrysanthemums, topped with an orchid. Tiny satin ribbon streamers holding miniature chrysanthemums fell in a cascade of silken beauty.

Mrs. J. B. Renaud chose for the occasion a model of black crepe, a small beaver hat of delight pink with accessories of the same shade Her corsage was pink dawn roses.

Mrs. Paul Kale, maternal aunt of the groom, was wearing black crepe with a Danish pink hat and accessories in matching shade. She wore a corsage fashioned of small bronze chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Celine Renaud, paternal grandmother of the bride, chose a dress of satin back crepe with hat and accessories of black. Her corsage was of sweetheart roses.

Following the crermony a reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt on Speed drive. The reception suite was most attractively decorated. White astors were placed at vantage points in all crystal vases. An unusually artistic arrangement of pink roses tuberoses and rose of Montana was placed on the long mirrored mantle.

The bride's table in the dining room overlaid with white cloth of imported damask and hand embroidery of soft tones in pink and blue rosebuds. Placed on a large reflector edged with candied ruching, the three tier heart-shaped wedding cake was a work of art in decorative simplicity. White rosebuds outlined each tier and a single full blown white rose tied with satin ribbon love-knots topped the lucious confection. On either end of the table embedded in maidenhair fern and satin ribbon love-knots, were lighted slender Trinity candles in silver holders.

On the long buffet a dramatic arrangement of stock, tuberoses and white ageratum was flanked by tall candles in silver holders.

Following the cutting of the cake by the bride and groom, guests were served by Mrs. Marcel Renaud. Silver trays filled with individual cakes and rose-embossed mints were passed among the guests. Punch was served from a lace covered table with fern and tuberoses encircling the crystal container. Mrs. Edwin Garver, in attractive model of black crepe worn at the waistline, presided at the refresment bowl.

Assisting in the courtesies were Miss Ninon Tanguis, who wore a lovely frock of orchid taffeta, Miss Kiki Gatazoula wore gold marquisette over taffeta. Miss Marcie Ann Renaud, attractively gowned in pink marquisette over taffeta, was in charge of the guest book, where an arrangement of sweetheart roses in a miniature bride's slipper of crystal was effectively placed.

Guests were privileged to view the many beautiful gifts showered upon the couple of sterling, china, linens and various other presents that filled to capacity the large room set aside for the display.

The bridal bouquet, thrown as she stepped from the reception rooms was caught by Miss Sara Ellen Bruno.

Mrs. Benson's going away suit was a handsome two piece blue and grey wool, grey blouse, a very chic small hat of grey, with accessories of dark blue kid. High on the lapel of the smart suit she pinned a white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The honeymoon will be spent at Galveston and at Houston. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Benson will be at home in their apartment on McQuire.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. Jean Baptiste Renaud and the late Rosina Guerriero, is an alumna of Ouachita Parish High School and Northeast Junior College. She is a member of Delta Beta Sigma and Lambda Sigma Chi sororities and is a member of the Y. W. B. C

The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Benson and grandson of the late Capt. R. P. Webb. He graduated at Ouachita Parish High School, attended Northeast Junior College and holds a B. B. A. from the University of Texas. He served for many months in the Pacific theater as navigator and is captain in the army air force reserve. He is associated with the local business office of the United Gas Pipe Line Company.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Miss Sara Louise Langford, Jackson, Miss; Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Brock and Ray Jr., Houston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Burke, Houston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Renaud and Louis Jr., Vicksburg, Miss; Mr. and Mrs. James Brownlee, Shreveport; Mrs. Victor Digby, Miss Edith Gray Digby, Ruston; Mrs. Edwin Garver, Gil and Katherine Jane Garver, Rushville, Ind. and Miss Blance Nicollet, New Orleans.

Can You Spot The Culprit Here?

By Oswald Jacoby

Written for NEA Service

"Maybe this is just a foolish question," writes a St. Louis correspondent, "but if a sensible answer is possible it would set our minds at rest. Our trouble developed in a hand in which both defenders made a serious mistake on the same trick!

"West opened the king of spades and then led the jack of spades. East realized that his partner was showing the four top honors in spades, and he therefore discarded the deuce of diamonds on the second round of spades. West continued with the ace of spades, and East discarded the deuce of clubs, thus indicating that he had no trick in either of the minor suits.

"Now came the fatal trick. West led the queen of spades, and East discarded another diamond. South ruffed with a low trump, drew trumps, and easily won th erest of the tricks.

"West was prompt to point out that if East had played the jack of trumps on the fourth spade the contract would have been defeated. South would be obliged to overruff with the queen or king of trumps, and then West would surely win a trump trick with his ten.

"East agreed with this statement. However, he argued that West should have led the low spade instead of the queen. This would have made it perfectly clear that he wanted East to ruff rather than discard. West agreed that he should have led the low spade instead of the queen. However, he argued that East should have ruffed regardless of hwich spade was led.

"In other words, each defender agrees that he made a mistake; and each insists that his partner's mistake was worse than his own. So that is our foolish question: Whose mistake was worse?"

It isn't a foolish question, and it isn't hard to find a sensible answer. West made the only mistake, and East didn't make a mistake at all.

The reason is that West knows the contract will be defeated if his partner can ruff the fourth spade with an honor. Hence it is definitely up to West to lead a low spade at the fourth trick to make sure that his partner ruffs. (If East were a beginner he might ruff with his low trump, but it may be taken for granted that a good player would ruff high.)

When West led the queen of spades at the fourth trick the effect was to tell his partner not to trump. This would be a vital message if West held the queen and two very small trumps. In that situation West would eventually make a trump trick just by stitting tight; but he would lose his trump trick if East wasted a trump on the fourth round of spades.

Bobbie Helen Hollis Weds Richard Batten In Home Ceremony

Miss Bobbie Helen Hollis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hollis and Richard Batten were united in marriage by W .A. Johnson, minister of the Church of Christ in Monroe.

The impressive double ring ceremony took place on September 30 in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. G. C. Adams at 1604 Jackson street in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends of the bride and groom.

The ivy covered mantel was flanked on either side by floor baskets of fern and pink dahlias. Tall white tapers in candelabra placed on the mantle made the bridal setting.

The bride given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a powder blue crepe with navy accessories. She was carrying a white Bible topped with white tube roses.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held. The bride's table was covered with a handsome lace cloth with the centerpiece an arrangement of white stock and asters. Mrs. Warren Batten and Mrs. Adams assisted with the serving courtesies.

MISS SARA SPENCER, TALLULAH BRIDE-ELECT, FETED AT TEA

Miss Sara Spencer, bride-elect of Walter Calvin Dunbar of Maryville, Tenn., was the inspiration for a lovely tea on Thursday afternoon given by Mrs. Watson McDonald at her attractive home, Willow Glen plantation near Delta with Mrs. W. F. Patton and Mrs. Zack Chambliss, co-hostess. The reception rooms were beautifully decorated, a color theme of bridal white and green being effectively used in artistic arrangements of chrysanthemums, tuberoses and other blossoms with sprays of asparagus fern, placed at vantage points.

Guests were greeted at the entrance by Mrs. McDonald, in a gown of rose crepe and lace. The honoree was especially lovely in yellow brocaded taffeta and she held a miniature bridal bouquet of lilies of the valley and tuberoses and her mother, Mrs. C. W. Spencer, next in line, was wearing a gown of aqua lace. Mrs. Chambliss was dressed in electric blue lace and Mrs. Patton, who had charge of the guest book wore white taffeta. They all wore corsages of white flowers as did those assisting in the courtesies of the dining room.

Presiding at the beautifully appointed tea table were Mrs. R. S. Gayle in pink chiffon and Mrs. Albert Sevier in black lace. The table with it's white satin cover was draped with festoons of palest green tulle caught at intervals with clusters of palest green tulle caught at intervals with clusters of tube roses and fern. The centerpeice, an exquisite arrangement of stock, tuberoses, fern and tulle featured at the base white bridal slippers and wedding bells. Dainty and delicious sandwiches in white and green confections and decorated minutes in the form of wedding rings were served by Mrs. Robert E. Brown who wore black taffeta and Mrs. Joe Milton Clark in pink chiffon.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

"Let child love child and wars will cease," quoted Mrs. W. T. Davis, our Juliette Low chairman, when she accepted the Juliette Low contributions last spring. Recently one Girl Scout Johnnie Marie Averett, of Troop 5, has had proof that the international friendship field in Girl Scouting is helping child love child. One of the 85 bags of school supplies presented at that birthday celebration contained a tiny card showing that Johnnie Marie had made that bag and chosen the contents. Now she has received a thank you from a girl in Germany, just a few miles from the Soviet-occupied border. Not all the girls and troops can receive thank you letters, but if one bag with its message of good will reached a far-away country, we may be sure that all of them did.

Speaking of international friendship, Charlotte Wooley tells us that the council program committee can furnish names and addresses of girls in Germany if any of the Intermediate girl scouts would like to start a correspondence.

One of the nicest projects we've heard of in a long time is being carried on by Troop 26, under the leadership of Mrs. Paul Thompson. The girls of the troop have chosen to work on the Good Grooming Badge fr their first fall activity. The highlight so far has been their invitation to a beauty shop, where Mrs. A. K. Ringo, a member of the troop committee, demonstrated the care of hair, nails, clothing, feet, skin. As a result, according to their leader, not one girl would skip the nightly 50 strokes with a hairbrush for anything! We agree that a well-groomed pre-teen usually grows into a mighty nice looking teenager.

A new troop of Brownies at Sherrouse, which will be given the number 12, has had several meetings under the leadership of Mrs. H. C. Sutton and Mrs. Paul Peck. The girls are almost ready for their investiture, can hardly wait, their leaders report. And they will wear their brand new uniforms when they attend church in a body on Girl Scout Sunday. With other troops in that neighborhood they plan to attend the evening service at College Place Baptist Church.

Most of the troops, we hear, are planning to attend services next Sunday, the first day of Girl Scout Week. We remember seeing a lot of brown and green uniforms last year about this time. It's very appropriate, we think, to show to the public that Girl Scouting has a spiritual basis in the promise and laws and that one of the aims of Girl Scouting is that every girl shall be a better member of her own church.

For pitching in on a moment's notice to decorate cars and make it possible for the Girl Scouts to take part in the Freedom Day parade, we commend Mrs. Bernard Levi, Mrs. Joe Haddad, Mrs. R. D. Noble, Mrs. J. E. Baugh, Mrs. H. H. Hinkle, Mrs. H. V. Brady, Mrs. Clay Aibright, Mrs. S. C. Strausser, Mrs. James McKaskle, Mrs. Harry Moore and Mrs. J. R. White proved to be energetic leaders and marched with their troop. Yes, those spic and span green uniforms and brave red ties belonged to Troop 16. Crosley School, and a mighty good showing they made.

Course In Tailoring To Be Given

"The most inexpensive garment can be given an expensive look by the correct finishes" states Mrs. Mildred Swift, associate agent with the agricultural extension department.

The agent states that on Thursday, October 26, at 9:30 a.m. a demonstration will be given on tailored finishes. The class will be held at the Agriculture Building, 704 Cypress street, West Monroe and all who are interested are invited. All women who have had the tailoring course at any time in the past five years are urged to come to the demonstrations.

"In the last year we have learned a number of short cuts in making suits and coats, and some new finishes. I would like to bring members of the old classes up to date, as well as give information to any others interested," the agent states. So many of the tailoring finishes used in making coats can be used in dress making.

Bobbie Helen Hollis Weds Richard Batten In Home Ceremony

Miss Bobbie Helen Hollis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hollis and Richard Batten were united in marriage by W. A. Johnson, minister of the Church of Christ in Monroe.

The impressive double ring ceremony took place on September 30 in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. G. C. Adams at 1604 Jackson street in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends of the bride and groom.

The ivy covered mantel was flanked on either side by floor baskets of fern and pink dahlias. Tall white tapers in candelabra placed on the mantle made the bridal setting.

The bride given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a powder blue crepe with navy accessories. She was carrying a white Bible topped with white tube roses.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held. The bride's table was covered with a handsome lace cloth with the centerpiece an arrangement of white stock and asters. Mrs. Warren Batten and Mrs. Adams assisted with the serving courtesies.

The honoree was especially lovely in yellow brocaded taffeta and she held a miniature bridal bouquet of lilies of the valley and tuberoses and her mother, Mrs. C. W. They all wore corsages of white flowers as did those assisting in the courtesies of the dining room.

Presiding at the beautifully appointed tea table were Mrs. R. S. Gayle in pink chiffon and Mrs. Albert Sevier in black lace. The table with its white satin cover was draped with festoons of palest green tulle caught at intervals with clusters of palest green tulle caught at intervals with clusters of tube roses and fern. GIRL SCOUT NEWS

"Let child love child and wars will cease," quoted Mrs. W. T. Davis, our Juliette Low chairman, when she accepted the Juliette Low contributions last spring. Recently one Girl Scout Johnnie Marie Averett, of Troop 5, has had proof that the international friendship field in Girl Scouting is helping child love child. One of the 85 bags of school supplies presented at that birthday celebration contained a tiny card showing that Johnnie Marie had made that bag and chosen the contents. Now she has received a thank you from a girl in Germany, just a few miles from the Soviet-occupied border. Not all the girls and troops can receive thank you letters, but if one bag with its message of good will reached a far-away country, we may be sure that all of them did.

Speaking of international friendship, Charlotte Wooley tells us that the council program committee can furnish names and addresses of girls in Germany if any of the Intermediate girl scouts would like to start a correspondence.

One of the nicest projects we've heard of in a long time is being carried on by Troop 26, under the leadership of Mrs. Paul Thompson. The girls of the troop have chosen to work on the Good Grooming Badge fr their first fall activity. The highlight so far has been their invitation to a beauty shop, where Mrs. A. K. Ringo, a member of the troop committee, demonstrated the care of hair, nails, clothing, feet, skin. As a result, according to their leader, not one girl would skip the nightly 50 strokes with a hairbrush for anything! We agree that a well-groomed pre-teen usually grows into a mighty nice looking teenager.

A new troop of Brownies at Sherrouse, which will be given the number 12, has had several meetings under the leadership of Mrs. H. C. Sutton and Mrs. Paul Peck. The girls are almost ready for their investiture, can hardly wait, their leaders report. And they will wear their brand new uniforms when they attend church in a body on Girl Scout Sunday. With other troops in that neighborhood they plan to attend the evening service at College Place Baptist Church.

Most of the troops, we hear, are planning to attend services next Sunday, the first day of Girl Scout Week. We remember seeing a lot of brown and green uniforms last year about this time. It's very appropriate, we think, to show to the public that Girl Scouting has a spiritual basis in the promise and laws and that one of the aims of Girl Scouting is that every girl shall be a better member of her own church.

For pitching in on a moment's notice to decorate cars and make it possible for the Girl Scouts to take part in the Freedom Day parade, we commend Mrs. Bernard Levi, Mrs. Joe Haddad, Mrs. R. D. Noble, Mrs. J. E. Baugh, Mrs. H. H. Hinkle, Mrs. H. V. Brady, Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. S. C. Strausser, Mrs. James McKaskle, Mrs. Harry Moore and Mrs. J. R. White proved to be energetic leaders and marched with their troop. Yes, those spic and span green uniforms and brave red ties belonged to Troop 16, Crosley School, and a mighty good showing they made.

Course In Tailoring To Be Given

"The most inexpensive garment can be given an expensive look by the correct finishes" states Mrs. Mildred Swift, associate agent with the agricultural extension department.

The agent states that on Thurday, October 26, at 9:30 a.m. a demonstration will be given on tailored finishes. The class will be held at the Agriculture Building, 704 Cypress street, West Monroe and all who are interested are invited. All women who have had the tailoring course at any time in the past five years are urged to come to the demonstrations.

"In the last year we have learned a number of short cuts in making suits and coats, and some new finishes. I would like to bring members of the old classes up to date, as well as give information to any others interested," th agent states. So many of the tailoring finishes used in making coats can be used in dress making.

MRS LEA THOMPSON HOSTESS AT MEETING OF REVIEW CLUB

Mrs. DeWitt Henry and Mrs. Lea Thompson were elected delegates to the meeting of Federated Women's Clubs to be held in New Orleans November 9, 10 and 11. Mrs. E. P. Cudd was elected as an alternate. Plans were also made for the club's participation in the "Democracy versus Communism" Week sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. W. L. Alexander, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Sam Smith and Mrs. A. T. Givens who reviewed two books.

Mrs. Smith gave an interesting review of "The Peabody Sisters of Salem" by Louise Hall Tharpe. The book deals with the lives of the three Peabody sisters, Mary, Elizabeth and Sophie, and how their lives are entwined in the literary world of New England during the early nineteenth century. Sophie Peabody became the wife of Nathaniel Hawthorne and was an inspiration to him during the lean years of his struggle to become a successful author. Mary, the wife of Horace Mann, helped her husband to pioneer the founding of normal schools to train teachers. The third sister, Elizabeth, was famous for her many philanthropic deeds and the founding of the first kindergartens in the United States.

"World Enough and Time" by Robert Penn Warren was the book reviewed by Mrs. Givens. Robert Warren is a well known critic, teacher, poet and novelist who has been a professor of English at Louisiana State University and the University of Minnesota. In 1946, he was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for his well known novel, "All the King's Men." The story of "World Enough and Time" is based on an actual court case in Kentucky known as the Sharp-Beauchamp case which occured in 1820. Mrs. Givens said in part: "It is a story full of action, of surprise and reversal, and of ever mounting suspense. It is a philosophical novel, a dramatization in terms of character and event of the conflict between idealism and reality; an historical novel with insights into the American past that go deeper than its colorful costume and quaint manners and customs."

Following this most interesting program, the hostess served delicious refreshments to the following members: Mrs. W. L. Alexander, Mrs. C. B. Braun, Mrs. J. K. Brothers, Jr., Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. W. T. Davis, Mrs. A. T. Givens, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Jr., Mrs. Durwood Griffin, Mrs. DeWitt Henry, Mrs. A. R. Holloway, Mrs. J. C. Loftin, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Jr., Mrs. Sam Smith, Mrs. Corbin Turpin, and Mrs. L. N. Waddell.

SPEECH THERAPY IN CITY SYSTEM

Exceptional Cases Are Being Aided By Miss Frances Barnes

Miss Frances Barnes, speech therapist of the Monroe city school system, has just completed a survey in the schools which discloses a substantial number of students requiring speech therapy. In the six schools there were found 268 pupils having speech handicaps. This number is broken down into grounds as follows:

Barkdull Faulk, 61; Central Grammar, 28; Georgia Tucker, 50; Neville, 44, Lida Benton 40; Sherrouse, 35.

The types and number of speech handicaps found are as follows: Stutterers, 24; articulatory, 214; rhinolalias (nasality) 4; dysphonias (vocal disturbances) 12; cerebral palsied, 1; clefts, 3.

The survey for the colored schools has not been completed but statistics so far consist of just the severe cases recommended by the classroom teachers. The results are as follows: Monroe Colored High School, 56; Newtown, 10. As yet the children have not been diagnosed.

Further plans for the exceptional children in the city school system are being made to check the hearing and sight of children who are referred to Miss Barnes by the classroom teachers or other persons associated with the child. At present the school needs an audiometer for making the survey. So often a child has a speech difficulty because he doesn't hear or hasn't heard the defective sound. That is the reason for checking the hearing of each speech case.

Miss Barnes is a young woman who is regarded exceptionally well qualified for the work she is following here. She received her bachelor's degree in Louisiana Tech and her master's degree in educational psychology at Louisiana State University, where she also received the Master of Arts degree. She will also receive a second Master's degree from the University of Illinois in speech correction at the close of next summer's session.

Television dramas, put on film, require about 15 minutes of camera shooting time for each minute of finished film.

MRS LEA THOMPSON HOSTESS AT MEETING OF REVIEW CLUB

Mrs. DeWitt Henry and Mrs. Lea Thompson were elected delegates to the meeting of Federated Women's Clubs to be held in New Orleans November 9, 10 and 11. Mrs. E. P. Cudd was elected as an alternate. Plans were also made for the club's participation in the "Democracy versus Communism" Week sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. W. L. Alexander, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Sam Smith and Mrs. A. T. Givens who reviewed two books.

Mrs. Smith gave an interesting review of "The Peabody Sisters of Salem" by Louise Hall Tharpe. The book deals with the lives of the three Peabody sisters, Mary, Elizabeth and Sophie, and how their lives are entwined in the literary world of New England during the early nineteenth century. Sophie Peabody became the wife of Nathaniel Hawthorne and was an inspiration to him during the lean years of his struggle to become a successful author. Mary, the wife of Horace Mann, helped her husband to pioneer the founding of normal schools to train teachers. The third sister, Elizabeth, was famous for her many philanthropic deeds and the founding of the first kindergartens in the United States.

"World Enough and Time" by Robert Penn Warren was the book reviewed by Mrs. Givens. Robert Warren is a well known critic, teacher, poet and novelist who has been a professor of English at Louisiana State University and the University of Minnesota. In 1946, he was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for his well known novel, "All the King's Men." The story of "World Enough and Time" is based on an actual court case in Kentucky known as the Sharp-Beaucnamp case which occured in 1820. Mrs. Givens said in part: "It is a story full of action, of surprise and reversal, and of ever mounting suspense. It is a philosophical novel, a dramatization in terms of character and event of the conflict between idealism and reality; an historical novel with insights into the American past that go deeper than its colorful costume and quaint manners and customs."

Following this most interesting program, the hostess served delicious refreshments to the following members: Mrs. W. L. Alexander, Mrs. C. B. Braun, Mrs. J. K. Brothers, Jr., Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. W. T. Davis, Mrs. A. T. Givens, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Jr., Mrs. Durwood Griffin, Mrs. DeWitt Henry, Mrs. A. R. Holloway, Mrs. J. C. Loftin, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Jr., Mrs. Sam Smith, Mrs. Corbin Turpin, and Mrs. L. N. Waddell.

SPEECH THERAPY IN CITY SYSTEM

Exceptional Cases Are Being Aided By Miss Frances Barnes

Miss Frances Barnes, speech therapist of the Monroe city school system, has just completed a survey in the schools which discloses a substantial number of students requiring speech therapy. In the six schools there were found 268 pupils having speech handicaps. This number is broken down into grounds as follows:

Barkdull Faulk, 61; Central Grammar, 28; Georgia Tucker, 50; Neville, 44, Lida Benton 40; Sherrouse, 35.

The types and number of speech handicaps found are as follows: Stutterers, 24; articulatory, 214; rhinolalias (nasality) 4; dysphonias (vocal disturbances) 12; cerebral palsied, 1; clefts, 3.

The survey for the colored schools has not been completed but statistics so far consist of just the severe cases recommended by the classroom teachers. The results are as follows: Monroe Colored High School, 56; Newtown, 10. As yet the children have not been diagnosed.

Further plans for the exceptional children in the city school system are being made to check the hearing and sight of children who are referred to Miss Barnes by the classroom teachers or other persons associated with the child. At present the school needs an audiometer for making the survey. So often a child has a speech difficulty because he doesn't hear or hasn't heard the defective sound. That is the reason for checking the hearing of each speech case.

Miss Barnes is a young woman who is regarded exceptionally well qualified for the work she is following here. She received her bachelor's degree in Louisiana Tech and her master's degree in educational psychology at Louisiana State University, where she also received the Master of Arts degree. She will also receive a second Master's degree from the University of Illinois in speech correction at the close of next summer's session.

MRS. J. R. WHITE GUEST SPEAKER AT 20TH CENTURY BOOK CLUB MEETING

The Welcome Branch of the 20th Century Book Club enjoyed an interesting program when it met Wednesday, October 11, in the home of Mrs. J. Norman Coon with Mrs. W. B. Wheeles as cohostess.

Mrs. Thomar Jett, president of the club, called the meeting to order with the reading of the club collect in unison and presided over a short business meeting. Mrs. Jett's reported plans being made for the annual book review to be held October 25th, at the Frances Hotel. Mrs. F. H. Peterson will review "In the Pink" by Mildred S. Topp.

Mrs. T. C. Starnes, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Henry Williams who sang two interesting numbers entitled "The Bird With A Broken Wing" by Florence Golson and "Dutch Garden" by Victor Herbert and was very ably accompanied by Mrs. W. C. Hopkins.

Mrs. J. R. White, in her usual gracious manner reviewed her very own book, "Forty Acres," being a companion book to "These Are My Hills", published about five years ago. Both books were published by Talaria Publishers of Cincinnati, Ohio. Each book has four pen sketches all done by the same artist, Caroline Williams also of Cincinnati. Mrs. White says the hills are always an inspiration and proves her love for the soil and the hills through her poems. "Forty Acres" is an outgrowth of her heritage from her ancestors who first settled in Georgia in 1798. Many of the poems depict intimate aspects of life. Through them the author with anthentic knowledge, paints life as she has known and experienced it through the years.

Readers of "Forty Acres" do not need to be philosphers—just human. Home and war and love are treated with perfect craftsmanship and spiritual understanding.

Mrs. Coon and Mrs. Wheelis invited members and guests into the dining-room for refreshments. Those present were Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. R. H. Dollar, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. Sidney Douglas, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. W. H. Giles, Mrs R. R. Griffith, Mrs. A. S. Gunter, Mrs. J. G Hicks, Mrs Thomas Jett, Mrs. E. E. Lawson, Mrs. W. D. McGee, Jr., Mrs. Morris Miller, Mrs. Leola Nixon, Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. A. C. Polk, Mrs. E. A. Porter, Mrs. Zell Smith, Mrs. Dean Sileg, Mrs. A. J. Speer, Mrs. T. C. Starnes, Mrs. Amos C. Warner, Mrs. J. R. White, Mrs. Henry Williams, and Mrs. R. J. May, Mrs. Fred Hornberger, Mrs. W. H. Gandy and Mrs. W. C. Hopkins.

Windows will close automatically when it begins to rain and open again after the rain by means of an improved device. Electric power and weather-affected controls do the job. The windows open only if the temperature outside is sufficiently high.

A litle alcohol added to gasoline in the automobile or farm tractor engine has considerable ability to prevent detonation and thereby permit the use of higher compresion ratios.

"the car for the money is PLYMOUTH"

PLYMOUTH Builds Great Cars!
PLYMOUTH Division of CHRYSLER CORPORATION, Detroit 31, Michigan

The man who really knows what you can get out of a car is a taxicab driver. His very living depends on the day-in-and-day-out performance of his vehicle. Talk to the next cab driver you meet and you're almost certain to hear: "The car for my money is Plymouth."

From their own bookkeeping, taxicab owners know about Plymouth's low operating cost. That's one of the big reasons why they back up their drivers' judgment by buying more Plymouths than any other make of car. In fact—of all standard-built cars used today as taxicabs—there are more Plymouths than all other makes combined!

The man who really knows what's in a car is the mechanic who works on it. Plymouth dealers have some of the most highly trained mechanics in the industry. They really know how good the Plymouth is. But you may think they are biased. So talk to men in independent garages who work on all makes of cars and owe loyalty to none.

Over and over, you hear these impartial mechanics say quite frankly: "The best engineered car in the low-priced field is the Plymouth."

You can also talk to millions of value-wise Plymouth owners—but, of course, they definitely are prejudiced. You can hardly blame them. For these motorists enjoy the benefits of outstanding features found in none of the other low-priced cars—or even in many automobiles costing hundreds of dollars more!

ONLY PLYMOUTH—in the lowest-priced field—gives you:

Safety-Rim Wheels—positive protection in the event of a blowout.

Safe-Guard Hydraulic Brakes—consistent, controlled, predictable braking with easy pedal pressure.

Chair-Height Seats—natural-posture support for restful riding and better view of the road.

97-Horsepower Engine and 7.0 to 1 Compression Ratio—brilliant performance with maximum power squeezed from every gallon of gas.

Floating Power—engine is cushioned on its center of balance by live rubber—for smoother, quieter ride.

And many other important advantages which your nearby Plymouth dealer will be glad to tell you about.

RUSTON BRIDE

Mrs. Charles Gilbert Rogers before her recent marriage, which was solemnized in Ruston, was the former Miss Patricia Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Blant Smith of that city. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Rogers of Farmerville, Ala.

Miss Patricia Smith Is Bride Of Sgt. Charles Gilbert Rogers

Impressive Ceremony Is Solemnized In Trinity Methodist Church Of Ruston

Miss Patricia Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Blant Smith of Ruston, became the bride of Sgt. Charles Gilbert Rogers, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Rogers of Farmerville, Ala., at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, September 24, in Trinity Methodist Church of Ruston.

Miss Patricia Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Blant Smith of Ruston, became the bride of Sgt. Charles Gilbert Rogers, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Rogers of Farmerville, Ala., at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, September 24, in Trinity Methodist Church of Ruston.

The Rev. R. R. Branton, pastor, heard the double ring vows before a setting of trailing southern smilax, entwined about the choir loft and chancel rail, while baskets of bronze and yellow mums were distinctive in the soft glow of candle light. Yellow tapers burned in branch candelabra of graduated heights.

Prior to the service Mrs. J. F. Crowder played a program of music including "To A Wild Rose", accompanied by Miss Harriet Crowder, who sang "Because", "Ave Maria" and after the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer". While the candles were being lighted by Miss Mary Ann Sumrall and Miss Sandra Ellis, Mrs. Crowder played the "Indian Love Call". She also played the traditional wedding marches.

Mrs. Alen Thurmon Turpin of Bastrop, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Chapman, Miss Barbara Self, Miss Sue Mathewes and Miss Dottie Smith. Miss Joyce Turpin and Miss Evelyn Ammon of Monroe served as junior bridesmaids, and little Miss Lucy Lou Turpin of Monroe and Miss Dottie Ammon were flower girls.

Sgt. Rogers had Mr. Walter B. Smith, Jr. as best man. Mr. David Pobst of Los Angeles, Calif., Mr. Corbin Turpin, Dr. Fred C. Ammon of Monroe and Mr. Carl Turpin ushered.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown styled with a yoke of chantilly lace apliqued with white satin flowers. The tight-fitting sleeves tapered to points over her hands. Panels of the lace helped form the full skirt of the gown, which swept into a cathedral train. The double-tiered veil of nylon illusion fell from a juliet cap of white satin trimmed with small flowers made of pearls. Her bouquet was of white glamelias, white tuberoses and stephanotis.

The attendants were dressed alike in dresses of gold and yellow taffeta styled with off-the-shoulder bertha and full skirts. They wore halo hats of the same material. The honor attendant's dress was of yellow taffeta and she carried a boyquet of bronze mums interspersed with smaller mums and tied with bronze ribbon. The bridesmaids, in gold taffeta, carried yellow mums with smaller mums interspersed and tied with yellow ribbon. The junior bridesmaids, also in gold taffeta, carried miniature bouquets like those of the bridesmaids, and the flower girls, in yellow taffeta dresses, had baskets of small yellow and bronze mums. The candlelighters wore dresses like those of the bridesmaids only of ballerina length. They had wrist corsages of bronze mums.

The bride's mother wore a floor-length dress of grey lace with a pink halo hat covered with grey veiling. Her corsage was of pink rose buds.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were hosts at a reception immediately following the ceremony in their home on University Blvd. in Ruston. Red and yellow mums were attractively arranged in the living room. Mrs. Allen Turpin asked guests to sign the bride's book as they entered, where the newly married couple standing with Mr. and Mrs. Smith and the feminine members of the wedding party received felicitations.

Miss Ruth Johnson asked guests into the dining room where the bride's table, covered with a lace cloth, was centered with a silver antique candelabra tied with nosegays of white mums and white streamers, from which white tapers reflected a soft light over the dining room. The punch bowl, at which Mrs. F. O. Adam, Jr., presided, was at one end of the table, and the wedding cake at the other. Ferns, tuberoses and white carnations were arrangd around the cake, which was served by Mrs. S. A. Griffin. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Fred Ammon and Mrs. Corbin Turpin.

Late in the evening after the bride had thrown her bouquet, caught by Miss Mathewes, she changed into her traveling suit of navy blue wool. With this she wore a hat of off-white felt, navy blue accessories, and a corsage of white fleur-deamour. After their trip to San Antonio, Texas, the young couple will live in shereveport.

Mrs. Rogers, granddaughter of Mr. C. M. Corbin and the late Mrs. Corbin of Mansfield and the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Jasper, Texas, is a graduate of Ruston High School and attended Louisiana Tech where she was affiliated with the Beta Sigma sorority.

Sergeant Rogers attended Carlowville High School and has served six years with the army air forces. While in service he was stationed in the European and Pacific theaters. He is now stationed at Barksdale Field in Shreveport.

Guests from out of town who attended the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Estis Smith, Mrs. Alton Smith and Linda, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Gunter and Eve, all of Jasper, Texas; Mrs. J. E. Turner of Houston, Texas; Miss Alma Jean Linquist, Mrs. Allen Turpin, Mrs. Corbin Turpin, Mrs. Fred Ammon, Mrs. Self, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Madden, Mr. and Mrs. George Davis and Mr. C. M. Corbin, all of Monroe; Mrs. Will Smith, Mrs. Hugh Spear, and Mrs. Carl Turpin of Bastrop; Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Gid Davis, Mr. and Mrs. L. Godwin, all of Farmerville, Ala.; Mr. Cleo Clark of Sterlington; Mr. and Mrs. Chapman and son of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Sumrall of Minden; Mrs. E. H. Singreen of Bay St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Christenberry and Miss Vivian Corbin of New Orleans.

Mrs. Allen Turpin, Sr., Mrs. Corbin Turpin, Mrs. Carl Turpin, Mrs. Allen Turpin and Mrs. Fred Ammon entertained with a rehearsal supper honoring Miss Patricia Smith and Sgt. Charles Gilbert Rogers on Saturday evening, September 23, at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club in Monroe.

The table in the private dining room covered with a white cloth with green fern trailing the length of the table had beautiful arrangements of white tuberoses and carnations placed at intervals.

Everyone enjoyed looking at the minute snapshots that were taken during the supper and then passed around for all to see.

Those present were: Miss Smith Sergeant Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Blant Smith, parents of the bride, Mr. Walter B. Smith, Jr., Mrs. J. F. Crowder, Miss Harriet Crowder, Miss Ruth Johnson, Miss Mary Ann Sumrall, Miss Sandra Ellis, Mr. Blue Hogg, Jr., Miss Barbara Chapman, Mr. Cleo Clark, Miss Barbara Self, Miss Sue Mathewes, Miss Dottie Smith, Mr. David Pobst, Miss Alma Jean Linquist, Mr. Corbin Turpin, Miss Judy Turpin, Miss Lucy Lou Turpin, Miss Mary Ruth Turpin, Mr. Allen Turpin, Miss Joyce Turpin, Dr. Fred Ammon, Miss Dot Ammon, Miss Evelyn Ammon, Miss Dorothy Ammon, Miss Betty Romaine, Mr. C. M. Corbin, Dr. and Mrs. F. O. Adam, Jr., Mr. Carl Turpin, Miss Mary Helen Turpin, and the hostesses.

After the rehearsal supper the entire party then went to the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Turpin, Jr. on Island drive in Monroe. The bride and bridegroom presented their attendants with gifts during the party.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By Oswald Jacoby

Watch Odds In Battle For Pile

Written for NEA Service

The theory involved in the play of the hand described in my last article is so important that I intend to devote this article to it.

You may recall that player A melded three aces at his first turn to play. One of the opponents promptly froze the discard pile and followed up that play by discarding a couple of aces.

This particular play was sound canasta strategy. He and his partner each held eleven cards. The opponents eleven and eight respectively. Thefore the odds favored his side in the battle for the discard pile and he was willing to start an all out fight for it.

Then player A's partner entered into the spirit of battle. He also threw away a couple of aces. Then he followed by throwing additional wild cards into the frozen pile.

This was bad canasta strategy. By playing that way he was committing his side to all out battle for the pile. They might win the battle of course, in which case he would be a hero, but the fact remained that the odds were against him. His partner only held eight cards.

A really good canasta player would have said to himself. "We can't win every hand we play. The opponents are trying to get this pile and will win the hand if they do. However, if we try to go out there is a chance that we will be able to do so before they get the pile.

"Therefore, my correct play is to add to my partner's ace meld right now and to discard without worrying too much about whether or not my discard will give away the pile. After all, if we lose it now, we still will be able to go out before we come to any great harm."

Since his partner discarded his aces poor A was in an impossible situation. He could still play for out but his chances of going out quickly would not be good. Furthermore, the discard pile had increased greatly in both size and value. Eventually A came to the conclusion that he had better go along with the fight. Hence, A discarded his wild cards also.

This last series of plays was correct canasta strategy. The discard pile had grown to a point where the side that got it would surely win a very big hand. Player A knew that the odds were against his side getting it but he did feel that it was neceessary to fight for it to the bitter end.

If you recall the last article, he did fight for it to the bitter end. However, he ran out of safe discards eventually and had go give it away.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

The punch bowl, at which Mrs. F. O. Adam, Jr., presided, was at one end of the table and the wedding cake at the other. Ferns, tuberoses and white carnations were arrangd around the cake, which was served by Mrs. S. A. Griffin. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Fred Ammon and Mrs. Corbin Turpin.

Late in the evening after the bride had thrown her bouquet, caught by Miss Mathewes, she changed into her traveling suit of navy blue wool. With this she wore a hat of off-white felt, navy blue accessories, and a corsage of white fleur-deamour. After their trip to San Antonio, Texas, the young couple will live in shereveport.

Mrs. Rogers, granddaughter of Mr. C. M. Corbin and the late Mrs. Corbin of Mansfield and the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Jasper, Texas, is a graduate of Ruston High School and attended Louisiana Tech where she was affiliated with the Beta Sigma sorority.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By Oswald Jacoby

Watch Odds In Battle For Pile

Written for NEA Service

The theory involved in the play of the hand described in my last article is so important that I intend to devote this article to it.

You may recall that player A melded three aces at his first turn to play. One of the opponents promptly froze the discard pile and followed up that play by discarding a couple of aces.

This particular play was sound canasta strategy. He and his partner each held eleven cards. The opponents eleven and eight respectively. Thefore the odds favored his side in the battle for the discard pile and he was willing to start an all out fight for it.

Then player A's partner entered into the spirit of battle. He also threw away a couple of aces. Then he followed by throwing additional wild cards into the frozen pile.

This was bad canasta strategy. By playing that way he was committing his side to all out battle for the pile. They might win the battle of course, in which case he would be a hero, but the fact remained that the odds were against him. His partner only held eight cards.

A really good canasta player would have said to himself. "We can't win every hand we play. The opponents are trying to get this pile and will win the hand if they do. However, if we try to go out there is a chance that we will be able to do so before they get the pile.

"Therefore, my correct play is to add to my partner's ace meld right now and to discard without worrying too much about whether or not my discard will give away the pile. After all, if we lose it now, we still will be able to go out before we come to any great harm."

Since his partner discarded his aces poor A was in an impossible situation. He could still play for out but his chances of going out quickly would not be good. Furthermore, the discard pile had increased greatly in both size and value. Eventually A came to the conclusion that he had better go along with the fight. Hence, A discarded his wild cards also.

This last series of plays was correct canasta strategy. The discard pile had grown to a point where the side that got it would surely win a very big hand. Player A knew that the odds were against his side getting it but he did feel that it was neceessary to fight for it to the bitter end.

If you recall the last article, he did fight for it to the bitter end. However, he ran out of safe discards eventually and had go give it away.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Miss Eugenia Nadler Is Wed To Charles Mark Noble, Jr.

Plaquemine's Church Of Holy Communion Is Scene Of Impressive Double-Ring Ceremony

An out-of-town wedding of interest here was that of Miss Eugenia Nadler, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Nadler of Plaquemine and Mr. Charles Mark Noble, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Noble of Rayville. The double-ring wedding service was performed in Plaquemine's Church of the Holy Communion October 8 at 6 o'clock, The Rev. W. E. Wilcox. Jr., officiating.

An out of town wedding of interest here was that of Miss Eugenia Nadler, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Nadler of Plaquemine and Mr. Charles Mark Noble, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Noble of Rayville. The double ring wedding service was performed in Plaquemine's church of the Holy Communion October 8 at six o'clock, the Rev. W. E. Wilcox, Jr., officiated.

Following the wedding a reception was held for the couple at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nadler. Upon returning from a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the Nobles will reside at The Elms" located near Rayville.

Mrs. Noble is a graduate of the college of education at LSU where she was a member of Kappa Delta, social sorority and Mr. Noble was graduated from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. He was a member of Kappa Sigma.

The wedding was attended by friends and relatives from all over the state.

For the occasion, the church was decorated with white chrysanthemums and lighted tapers. The altar was banked with the white blooms and seven branched candelabra holding lighted tapers. Tall formal trees fashioned of chrysanthemums and palms were used in the sanctuary.

Along the aisle down which the bridal party walked, alternate pews were marked with clusters of chrysanthemums tied with white satin bows. The outer aisles were marked with floor holders entwined with fern holding lighted cathedral tapers.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Robert Nadler, the bride chose to wear a gown of white lace over satin. A scalloped neckline topped the basque bodice and the full skirt extended into a short train. A band of illusion braided with orange blossoms held the full length veil of silk illusion in place. The bride carried a bouquet of white flowers.

Forming a contrasting background for the gown of the bride were the rose colored ensembles of her attendants. The maid of honor and sister of the bride, Mrs. William A. Morris of Albuquerque, N. M., wore a mauve satintulle veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow fuji chrysanthemums. Attired similarly to the honor attendant was the bridesmaid, Miss Suzanne Ford of Delhi.

A gown of old rose taffeta was worn by the junior flower girl and cousin of the bride, Miss Clara Nadler of Plaquemine. Completing the rose color scheme were the pale pink gowns of the flower girls, Juliane Nadler, cousin of the bride and Bebe Noble, sister of the groom. In their hair, the flower girls wore bands of pink chrysanthemums and carried matching flowers in their small baskets. William S. Nadler, Jr., cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Attending the groom as best man was his father. Groomsmen were Mr. Charles Smitherman of Shreveport and Dr. Richard Morris of New Orleans. Those chosen to usher were Mr. William A. Morris of Albuquerque and Mr. James E. Threadgille, Jr.

"I Love Thee" and "O Perfect Love" were among the musical selections played preceding the wedding. Soloist was Mrs. J. E. Ball, sister of the groom, Mrs. Ball was accompanied by Mrs. Frank Vought.

For the reception the bride's mother was attired in a gown of dusty rose lace and crepe worn with black velvet accessories and an orchid corsage. The groom's mother wore champagne lace with matching accessories. Her corsage was also of orchids.

A profusion of white chrysanthemums was used to decorate the house for the party. The flowers were seen banked on the stairway and in the dining room and living rooms. In the dining room the mantle was centered with the white blooms flanked by antique glass candelabra holding lighted candles. Large clusters of the flowers were also noted in the buffet and serving table in the dining room.

The bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake topped with small clusters of lilies of the valley. Silver branched candelabra holding white tapers were placed on the punch tables. Also seen on the tables were scattered nosegays of white blooms.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes. In his penetrating book, "Educating Our Daughters," President Lynn White, Mills College, writes that women's brains contain more phosphorous than men's. This does not mean that their brains light up quicker than men's even when they scratch their heads! No telling, though. It may be that an electrical spark does touch off an "inner light" which accounts for women's socalled "intuition." My wife gets these strange flashes, especially when I explain why I have to sit up nights with so many "sick friends" who are just blame weakly. But it's Sam Hill to prove it to her!

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Chiefly education. Psychologist E. C. Eckenrode studied 345 delinquent boys who averaged sixteen and one-half years of age. Their education was equal to that of only 10½-year-old boys. Nearly all hated school. Where the new Life Adjustment Courses have been adopted, delinquency has almost vanished. Write to the U. S. Office of Education, Washington, C. C., if you want to start these courses in your school.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Probably more than we think. However, not many make others feel as Alice Freeman Palmer, Wellesley's great former president, is said to have done. One friend said of her: "She made you feel all dipped in sunshine." What a tribute! Let's all try this sunshine art in our homes for the coming week at least. Even if it breaks a leg, you'll be so happy you won't notice it.

FLAG DONATED BY CUB SCOUTS

October Meeting Of P.-T. A. Held At Central Grammar School

The Parent-Teacher Association of Central Grammar School held its October meeting in the school auditorium Thursday, October 19, with the president, Mrs. Clyde Brown, presiding. The meeting opened with presentation of the flag by three Cub Scouts, Don Serex, Max Lowrey, and Noble Prewitt, after which the group joined in giving the pledge of allegiance and singing our national anthem.

The two sections of fourth grade then presented two interesting numbers. The pupils of Mrs. Shirley Courtney played a French singing game, "Rosina" with those of Mrs. Virginia Butler singing. Mrs. Butler's pupils then played the American singing game "The Old Brass Wagon" with those of Mrs. Courtney singing.

The general subject of the meeting was "Freedom to Grow With Health and Happiness." This topic was ably discussed by Dr. Katherine Mickel Foster who was introduced by Mrs. Eulalia McCoy, program chairman. Mrs. McCoy welcomed the speaker as a former pupil and product of Central Grammar School. She paid tribute to her as a successful practicing physician and to the active interest she is taking in civic and community affairs.

Dr. Foster in a charming manner discussed "Our Freedom to Work in Health and Happiness", saying in part:

"Our death rate since the turn of the century in America has been almost cut in half. The death rate for mothers in this country is the lowest reported by any nation in the world. At the turn of the century, pneumonia, and influenza together with tuberculosis were far ahead as the leading cause of death. Today they are in sixth and seventh place. Dreaded diseases like typhoid, diptheria and smallpox which took countless lives 50 years ago have been eliminated by preventive medicine. We could go on and on to show how and why American medicine has led the world in medical advances and this has helped to make us the healthiest strongest nation on the face of the globe.

"Your health, your freedom to work in health and happiness is being challenged today. Your physicians who have so unselfishly worked to make America a better place to live. . . . All these freedoms are being challenged today by socialism, communism, government controlled medicine. Call it socialized medicine or compulsory health insurance if you like. Germany was the first country to try regimentation and political domination of medicine in a modern world. The Nurenburg trial showed you the result. Medical care, your health and happiness suffer under government controlled medicine because the doctor is responsible to the politician first and the patient or your health second. They are overwhelmed with paper work and red tape. It means panel practice system under which doctors are assigned to patients and patients to doctors. There is no choice. England promised her people they would have a free choice but there was none. Compulsory health insurance or government controlled medicine means second rate medical care, a decline of education, training, research, the invasion of privacy in medical matter, constantly mounting taxes, one standardized brand of medicine for America. It isn't just a threat to health, it is a threat to freedom. The voluntary health plan is the American way, it is the only way to insure your freedom to work in health and happiness."

The business session followed with the reading of minutes and reports of various committees.

Members were reminded of the monthly meetings of the Twin City Council of P.-T. A. on the first Thursday of each month. A larger attendance at council meetings was urged.

Mrs. Louise Shelton's sixth grade was given the award for having the largest number of mothers present.

Following the business meeting refreshing punch and cookies were served from a beautifully appointed table by Mesdames James Moore, J. K. Lynch and D. A. Stancil.

The Latin inscription on the first U. S. coin is transiated: "I flame fly, therefor mind your business."

Joyce Tells Of New Rat Weapon

Warfarin, the new rat poison discovered at the University of Wisconsin and now being widely advertised, does not make other methods of rat control obsolete but does constitute a powerful new weapon against these destructive little animals, says Jasper J. Joyce, agricultural agent with the extension department. The new chemical has been tested by the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service and found very useful. Information on its effect and its use has been relayed to the agricultural agents by R. G. Strong, L. S. U. agricultural extension service entomologist. It is being highly advertised in farm magazines.

The Fish and Wildlife Service reports that Warfarin is effective for the control of rats and mice. It will not give effective control in a single dose, but is effective when fed as bait so that it will be consumed by the rats or mice over a period of several days. Warfarin reduces or prevents clotting of blood and produces painless death in animals by causing internal bleeding.

OCTOBER BRIDE

Mrs. Charles Mark Noble, Jr. is the former Miss Eugenia Nadler, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Nadler of Plaquemine, before her marriage in that city on October 8. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Noble of Rayville.

Miss Eugenia Nadler Is Wed To Charles Mark Noble, Jr.

Plaquemine's Church Of Holy Communion Is Scene Of Impressive Double-Ring Ceremony

An out-of-town wedding of interest here was that of Miss Eugenia Nadler, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Nadler of Plaquemine and Mr. Charles Mark Noble, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Noble of Rayville. The double-ring wedding service was performed in Plaquemine's Church of the Holy Communion October 8 at 6 o'clock, The Rev. W. E. Wilcox, Jr., officiating.

An out of town wedding of interest here was that of Miss Eugenia Nadler, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Nadler of Plaquemine and Mr. Charles Mark Noble, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Noble of Rayville. The double ring wedding service was performed in Plaquemine's church of the Holy Communion October 8 at six o'clock, the Rev. W. E. Wilcox, Jr., officiated.

Following the wedding a reception was held for the couple at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nadler. Upon returning from a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the Nobles will reside at "The Elms" located near Rayville.

Mrs. Noble is a graduate of the college of education at LSU where she was a member of Kappa Delta, social sorority and Mr. Noble was graduated from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. He was a member of Kappa Sigma.

The wedding was attended by friends and relatives from all over the state.

For the occasion, the church was decorated with white chrysanthemums and lighted tapers. The altar was banked with the white blooms and seven branched candelabra holding lighted tapers. Tall formal trees fashioned of chrysanthemums and palms were used in the sanctuary.

Along the aisle down which the bridal party walked, alternate pews were marked with clusters of chrysanthemums tied with white satin bows. The outer aisles were marked with floor holders entwined with fern holding lighted cathedral tapers.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Robert Nadler, the bride chose to wear a gown of white lace over satin. A scalloped neckline topped the basque bodice and the full skirt extended into a short train. A band of illusion braided with orange blossoms held the full length veil of silk illusion in place. The bride carried a bouquet of white flowers.

Forming a contrasting background for the gown of the bride were the rose colored ensembles of her attendants. The maid of honor and sister of the bride, Mrs. William A. Morris of Albuquerque, N. M., wore a mauve satintulle veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow fuji chrysanthemums. Attired similarly to the honor attendant was the bridesmaid, Miss Suzanne Ford of Delhi.

A gown of old rose taffeta was worn by the junior flower girl and cousin of the bride, Miss Clara Nadler of Plaquemine. Completing the rose color scheme were the pale pink gowns of the flower girls, Juliane Nadler, cousin of the bride and Bebe Noble, sister of the groom. In their hair, the flower girls wore bands of pink chrysanthemums and carried mathcing flowers in their small baskets. William S. Nadler, Jr., cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Attending the groom as best man was his father. Groomsmen were Mr. Charles Smitherman of Shreveport and Dr. Richard Morris of New Orleans. Those chosen to usher were Mr. William A. Morris of Albuquerque and Mr. James E. Threadgille, Jr.

"I Love Thee" and "O Perfect Love" were among the musical selections played preceding the wedding. Soloist was Mrs. J. E. Ball, sister of the groom, Mrs. Ball was accompanied by Mrs. Frank Vought.

For the reception the bride's mother was attired in a gown of dusty rose lace and crepe worn with black velvet accessories and an orchid corsage. The groom's mother wore champagne lace with matching accessories. Her corsage was also of orchids.

A profusion of white chrysanthemums was used to decorate the house for the party. The flowers were seen banked on the stairway and in the dining room and living rooms. In the dining room the mantle was centered with the white blooms flanked by antique glass candelabra holding lighted candles. Large clusters of the flowers were also noted in the buffet and serving table in the dining room.

The bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake topped with small clusters of lilies of the valley. Silver branched candelabra holding white tapers were placed on the punch tables. Also seen on the tables were scattered nosegays of white blooms.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes. In his penetrating book, "Educating Our Daughters," President Lynn White, Mills College, writes that women's brains contain more phosphorous than men's. This does not mean that their brains light up quicker than men's even when they scratch their heads! No telling, though. It may be that an electrical spark does touch off an "inner light" which accounts for women's socalled "intuition." My wife gets these strange flashes, especially when I explain why I have to sit up nights with so many "sick friends" who are just blame weakly. But it's Sam Hill to prove it to her!

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Chiefly education. Psychologist E. C. Eckenrode studied 345 delinquent boys who averaged sixteen and one-half years of age. Their education was equal to that o only 10½-year-old boys. Nearly all hated school. Where the new Life Adjustment Courses have been adopted, delinquency has almost vanished. Write to the U. S. Office of Education, Washington, C. C., if you want to start these courses in your school.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Probably more than we think. However, not many make others feel as Alice Freeman Palmer, Wellesley's great former president, is said to have done. One friend said of her: "She made you feel all dipped in sunshine." What a tribute! Let's all try this sunshine art in our homes for the coming week at least. Even if it breaks a leg, you'll be so happy you won't notice it.

MISS BOURGEOIS' GIVES PLATFORM

Candidate For President Of L. E. A. Advocates Co-operative Efforts

Miss Vivian Bourgeois of New Orleans, a candidate for the Louisiana Educational Association presidency, speaking recently at the Fifth District Classroom Teachers association meeting here, gave as a part of her platform the following:

"School personnel of Louisiana has failed to encourage the general public to realize that the public schools are theirs. Teachers have failed to solicit the active support of citizens in school problems. Too often in fact, they have discouraged their active interest and participation in all but a few restricted areas.

"We must mend our ways. We must adopt the initiative in arousing our citizenry to the educational needs of our children. The many problems facing our schools can only be solved through the cooperative endeavor of an informed citizenry and an alerted school personnel.

"Our low literacy rating, our draft reject rating and many other pressing problems can only be overcome when all forces in any given community are combined to work cooperatively for the greatest good of the largest number.

"We must offer every cooperation to citizen groups formed in all localities to improve education in our public schools. We must keep ourselves constantly alerted for problems which these groups of public spirited citizens can help us to resolve."

"IT COSTS LESS TO OWN THE BEST"

Without A Strong Church Neither Democracy Nor Civilization Can Survive

Listen Closely! Listen To The Church Bells Ringing On Sunday Morning . . . . .

This is a day of worship, of prayer and thanksgiving. How are we to spend this day? A picnic, hunting, or an outing might be fun, or possibly a visit to Aunt Helen's. Of course, we could turn over and go back to sleep, or complete that chore we delayed yesterday.

But as human beings whose destiny is guided by a greater power, we have no choice. Our blessings and our lives have been bestowed and not earned. They have been entrusted to our care while on earth, and they are not ours to squander or to abuse.

If you begin NOW to attend Church regularly and to support its work, you will want no other choice — for you will be turning an obligation into a great joy. As men and women it is our divine privilege to dedicate one day each week to the glory of our Benefactor.

There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Zinzendorf said to a Moravian brother a Herrnhut, "Can you go as a missionary to Greenland?" "Yes." "Can you go tomorrow?" "If the cobbler has finished my shoes I can go tomorrow." That was a quick, willing-hearted response. Wesley said, "If I had three hundred men who feared nothing but God, hated nothing but sin, and were determined to know nothing among men but Jesus Christ, and Him crucifled, I would set the world on fire." "Send us men," said a heathen "with hot hearts."

Angelo Patri:

OUR CHILDREN

PARENTAL DREADS

There are some parents who cannot overcome the fears they have for their childrens welfare, particularly their daughters! A father whose hair stands on end when a boy telephones his 16-year-old daughter often discourages the boy. Me makes the house a convent as far as his daughter is concerned.

Perhaps if such a father understood that his behavior toward his daughter was a reflection of his own character, a memory of his own youth where association between boys and girls was not altogether what he demands of his daughter, he might reconsider his edicts. Only experience can breed such a fear as this father indicates.

There is a wide span of thought and practice between turning a house into a convent for the daughters and letting them go at a loose end without protection and guidance. A wide span indeed, but one which intelligent fathers and mothers have found it possible to bridge.

There comes a time in the development of boys and girls when they seek each others company. Thoughful parents prepare for that time and instruct both boys and girls accordingly. If a friendly association exists with their parents, children take such guidance willingly. They abide by it so that when the time for boy and girl association arrives, they are ready for this next step in their growth.

This association is not merely a sexual one. Some sex feeling is in it of course, but in the main it is the tentative, experimental approach to sexual maturity. If this stage is wholesomely developed the next one, which is the real thing, will more likely be satisfying. If this stage is not permitted its development, if the boy and girl are not allowed to play together, enjoy dances and picnics together and in groups, they cannot arrive at a wholesome, healthful, satisfying maturity.

No parent rejoices wholly at the thought of his childs maturity. But that thought must be faced. Domination or seclusion will not defer that maturity though they will mar it badly. The parent who tried to shut in a girl to prevent her developing a sex interest is asking for defeat, for deceit in his child and grief for himself. Nature will have her way.

The child who has not been taught the difference between right and wrong ways of behavior before the age of 16 is beyond parental instruction. The dominating parent succeeds only in defeating his own ends.

The time to train a child in obedience is in infancy. It is a safeguard to his future. Dr. Patri gives his advice to parents in his booklet No. 301, "Obedience.

IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Oct. 21.—Wonder what happened to that cash settlement William Grant Sherry supposedly received when Bette Davis divorced him? He's advertising, in Laguna newspapers, for work as a "handy man". . . . Ha! Stars who spent so much time posing for a pictorial magazine layout at Lake Arrowhead last week were wasting their time; the two photographers (man and wife) were phonies, unconnected with any publication. . . . Don't be surprised if Gary Cooper's current plunge into independent production is a first step toward retirement as an actor. . . . Fred Astaire has six racing nags in training at his new Chatsworth ranch.

Skitch Henderson is telling pals that he will marry Faye Emerson, come January. . . . Bells to Danny Thomas, who's put all of his TV earnings into a building fund for a Florida hospital. . . . As expected, it will be Betty Hutton in the top role of Cecil B. De Mille's forthcoming circus epic, "The Greatest Show on Earth." . . . Hmmmm! Since Sharman Douglas cold-shouldered his advances, MGMers are calling Mario Cabre, the Spanish bullfighter, "Peter Lawford with a cloak.".

Semms odd, but 20th Century-Fox is getting more poison pen letters because its picture, "Take Care of My Little Girl," attacks college sororities, than it ever received as a result of racial prejudice films. . . . I hear that Charlene Wrightsman, the oil heiress who divorced Helmut Dantine a few months ago, has her next spouse picked out, and will altartrek as soon as she gets her final decree.

Shelley Winters, "loaned" by Universal-International to an independent producer for the top role in a crime melodrama titled "He Ran All The Way," did some public rejoicing the other day. "I'm delighted with the part," said she, "because I'm tired of playing in sexy dramas where I use my wiles to trap men."

Well, variety being the spice of life, it's easy to understand Miss Winters' enthusiasm, but I can't help wondering if she wouldn't be wise to conclude that other people like variety, too. I'm thinking just now of her personal publicity—most of it a steady succession of stories about her never serious, but always torrid off-screen "romances." Personally, I think she needs a change of "roles" in private life, even more than she does on the screen.

Speaking of Hollywood romances, I found a chuckle in a columnist's report that "all is well, matrimonially," between Cornel Wilde and his often-estranged missus, Patricia Knight. After announcing that happy news, the lady reporter then added a very relevant note. Wilde has been in England, working on a picture; Patricia Knight has been in Austria, starring in another film, and they have been able to see one another only on rare occasions, and then very briefly.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of the week: Universal-International's "Harvey" (James Stewart-Josephine Hull). Mary Chase's Pulitzer prize-winning comedy about an invisible rabbit becomes a strong contender for another big prize—Hollywood's 1950 Academy Award. . . . GOOD: 20th Century-Fox's "Two Flags West" (Joseph Cotten-Linda Darnell-Jeff Chandler). Here is proof once more that a really fine western can be screen entertainment for fans of all ages and conditions. . . . MGM's "Two Weeks—With Love" (Jane Powell-Ricardo Montalban-Louis Calhern). Not since the days of the Hardy pictures has Hollywood offered you a more thoroughly delightful "family. ". . . Paramount's "Trio" (Jean Simmons-Nigel Patrick-James Hayter). Another Somerset Maugham "Quartet"—less one—offers a big measure of entertainment for fans who prefer film fare on the "arty" side. . . . Universal-International's "The Milkman" (Donald O'Connor-Jimmy Durante). The kind of tip-top comedy that could easily touch off a very acceptable series. . . . BEST PERFORMANCE: Josephine Hull in "Harvey."

Read the sport pages and you'll find college prexies moaning even louder than the studio bosses about dwindling admission fees. The collegians' compiaint blames television for diminished attendance at football games; many of them complain that their schools will finish the current grid season in a sea of red ink. It's all very sad—but I could work up more sympathy if the big universities would use a little common sense and lower the prices asked for football tickets. With our local football powers charging as much as $5.50 for a seat within binocular distance of the playing field, it seems fairly obvious that television does not deserve all the blame for poor ticket sales.

STUDENTS ARE LIONS' GUESTS

Ouida Greer, Tommy Trawick, Tell Experiences In Boys' And Girls' State

Miss Ouida Greer and Tommy Trawick were present as guests of the West Monroe Lions Club at the Thursday night luncheon to give their experiences at boy and girls state. The West Monroe Lions Club sponsored Tommy Trawick at Pelican Boys State and Miss Greer at Pelican Girls State.

Mr. Trawick thanked the club for sponsoring him and stated that he had been taught very much concerning the politics and operation of our state and local governments. Tommy was elected mayor of the town in which he was supposed to reside and went through the operations of planning a city project. Theirs was a busy time and they were well occupied for the full nine days.

Miss Greer gave her views of the Girls State and said that there was not an idle moment. It seems that they were divided into political parties and each party sponsored it's own candidates for the various offices. Miss Greer stated that all of their time was not occupied with work, though, as they had two hours per day alloted to recreation.

Besides reporting on the experiences at Boys State, Tommy was present as student president of the West Monroe Llons Club in connection with the Jaycees' Civic Responsibility Day.

The tail twister. Lawrence Wilson, sponsored a history telling fest in which each Lion gave his life history. This reached it's highlight when John Bonor gave his experiences in that he was contributing to the population of the country by raising a canary and a dog.

The club is now meeting at 6:30 during the local football season for the benefit of football fans.

Parent-Teacher Meet Scheduled

The Georgia Tucker P. T. A. will meet Thursday, Oct. 26 at 3:15 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The theme of the meeting is "Freedom to Grow Through the School."

At this meeting the mothers will go to classes to meet the teachers and discuss their childrens progress. These meetings are held to promote better understanding between parents and teachers. All parents are urged to be present.

DeWitt Mackenzie:

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

We have as guest columnist today one of south Korea's most distinguished citizens—my friend Mr. Dong Sung Kim.

Mr. Kim is a newspaper publisher and a member of the south Korean national assembly. He is now at Lake Success with his country's delegation to the United Nations. While we were talking the other day I asked him why he did not write me a column on Korean problems at this time of crisis, and the following is his response to the invitation:

On June 27 I joined the flood of refugees from Seoul, fleeing from my home without even a handbag. Every possessio I owned was lost except the clothes on my back. My family was separated from me and I have not heard of any of them yet.

Amid all the gloom of that day, my mind was lightened by the belief that at last the cursed line of the 38th parallel was broken down and that when the fighting ended our nation would be re-unified at last.

My wife and my nation were saved by the prompt support sent by the United Nations under General Douglas MacArthur, the best friend the Korean nation ever had. As I drifted desolately southward before the Communist armies, the 143 members of the national assembly that managed to escape and stick together met in emergency sessions in Taejon, Taegu, and Pusan, driven on by overwhelming force.

Now the United Nations victory is assured. But here at the United Nations, where I came with our delegation, we were surprised to hear questions and doubts expressed as to what should be done about the 38th parallel line. We had never imagined that this question would be in doubt.

Under the United Nations we held an election in south Korea on May 10, 1948. We held another election under U. N. observation on May 30, 1950. During all this time, our government and the U. N. commission pleaded and worked for the opportunity to hold a similar election north of the 38th parallel line. Then, on June 25, that line was broken down by the Communist attack. It seemed incredible to us that any friends of freedom should ever think that artificial and harmful barrier should ever again be rebuilt.

Korea has paid a terrific price for re-unification and freedom. Over 60,000 of our own soldiers have been killed or wounded. About three million of our people have been driven from their homes and are living now in great hardship without shelter or enough food to eat. Most of our major cities and hundreds of our villages have been smashed or burned. Our industries are ruined. Our transportation and communications systems are destroyed. Surely this price we have had to pay has not been paid in vain.

There is much talk now of rearming Germany and Japan. The Republic of Korea should also be strongly and fully armed. The world has seen how our people can fight when weapons are available to us. It is our hope and expectation that we shall now have the tanks, and artillery, and naval vessels and planes with which we can equip an army to defend our own borders.

We welcome again the United Nations commission, to observe elections in northern Korea when conditions suitable for an election have been restored. We shall need a United Nations security force in our country until our own army is adequately expanded, trained, and equipped to face the dangers that surround us. And when we have a strong army of our own, Korea's boys will die for the cause of world freedom, just as American soldiers have died on our soil to protect our liberty.

Zinzendorf said to a Moravian brother a Herrnhut, "Can you go as a missionary to Greenland?" "Yes." "Can you go tomorrow?" "If the cobbler has finished my shoes I can go tomorrow." That was a quick, willing-hearted response. Wesley said, "If I had three hundred men who feared nothing but God, hated nothing but sin, and were determined to know nothing among men but Jesus Christ, and Him crucifled, I would set the world on fire." "Send us men," said a heathen "with hot hearts."

Angelo Patri:

OUR CHILDREN

PARENTAL DREADS

There are some parents who cannot overcome the fears they have for their childrens welfare, particularly their daughters! A father whose hair stands on end when a boy telephones his 16-year-old daughter often discourages the boy. Me makes the house a convent as far as his daughter is concerned.
Perhaps if such a father understood that his behavior toward his daughter was a reflection of his own character, a memory of his own youth where association between boys and girls was not altogether what he demands of his daughter, he might reconsider his edicts. Only experience can breed such a fear as this father indicates.
There is a wide span of thought and practice between turning a house into a convent for the daughters and letting them go at a loose end without protection and guidance. A wide span indeed, but one which intelligent fathers and mothers have found it possible to bridge.
There comes a time in the development of boys and girls when they seek each others company. Thoughful parents prepare for that time and instruct both boys and girls accordingly. If a friendly association exists with their parents, children take such guidance willingly. They abide by it so that when the time for boy and girl association arrives, they are ready for this next step in their growth.
This association is not merely a sexual one. Some sex feeling is in it of course, but in the main it is the tentative, experimental approach to sexual maturity. If this stage is wholesomely developed the next one, which is the real thing, will more likely be satisfying. If this stage is not permitted its development, if the boy and girl are not allowed to play together, enjoy dances and picnics together and in groups, they cannot arrive at a wholesome, healthful, satisfying maturity.
No parent rejoices wholly at the thought of his childs maturity. But that thought must be faced. Domination or seclusion will not defer that maturity though they will mar it badly. The parent who tried to shut in a girl to prevent her developing a sex interest is asking for defeat, for deceit in his child and grief for himself. Nature will have her way.
The child who has not been taught the difference between right and wrong ways of behavior before the age of 16 is beyond parental instruction. The dominating parent succeeds only in defeating his own ends.

The time to train a child in obedience is in infancy. It is a safeguard to his future. Dr. Patri gives his advice to parents in his booklet No. 301, "Obedience.

IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Oct. 21.—Wonder what happened to that cash settlement William Grant Sherry supposedly received when Bette Davis divorced him? He's advertising, in Laguna newspapers, for work as a "handy man". . . . Ha! Stars who spent so much time posing for a pictorial magazine layout at Lake Arrowhead last week were wasting their time; the two photographers (man and wife) were phonies, unconnected with any publication. . . . Don't be surprised if Gary Cooper's current plunge into independent production is a first step toward retirement as an actor. . . . Fred Astaire has six racing nags in training at his new Chatsworth ranch.

Skitch Henderson is telling pals that he will marry Faye Emerson, come January. . . . Bells to Danny Thomas, who's put all of his TV earnings into a building fund for a Florida hospital. . . . As expected, it will be Betty Hutton in the top role of Cecil B. De Mille's forthcoming circus epic, "The Greatest Show on Earth." . . . Hmmmm! Since Sharman Douglas cold-shouldered his advances, MGMers are calling Mario Cabre, the Spanish bullfighter, "Peter Lawford with a cloak."

Semms odd, but 20th Century-Fox is getting more poison pen letters because its picture, "Take Care of My Little Girl," attacks college sororities, than it ever received as a result of racial prejudice films. . . . I hear that Charlene Wrightsman, the oil heiress who divorced Helmut Dantine a few months ago, has her next spouse picked out, and will altar-trek as soon as she gets her final decree.

Shelley Winters, "loaned" by Universal-International to an independent producer for the top role in a crime melodrama titled "He Ran All The Way," did some public rejoicing the other day. "I'm delighted with the part," said she, "because I'm tired of playing in sexy dramas where I use my wiles to trap men."

Well, variety being the spice of life, it's easy to understand Miss Winters' enthusiasm, but I can't help wondering if she wouldn't be wise to conclude that other people like variety, too. I'm thinking just now of her personal publicity—most of it a steady succession of stories about her never serious, but always torrid off-screen "romances." Personally, I think she needs a change of "roles" in private life, even more than she does on the screen.

Speaking of Hollywood romances, I found a chuckle in a columnist's report that "all is well, matrimonially," between Cornel Wilde and his often-estranged missus, Patricia Knight. After announcing that happy news, the lady reporter then added a very relevant note. Wilde has been in England, working on a picture; Patricia Knight has been in Austria, starring in another film, and they have been able to see one another only on rare occasions, and then very briefly.

Judging from their past record, I can't imagine a set of circumstances more apt to preserve their marital bliss.

Read the sport pages and you'll find college prexies moaning even louder than the studio bosses about dwindling admission fees. The collegians' complaint blames television for diminished attendance at football games; many of them complain that their schools will finish the current grid season in a sea of red ink. It's all very sad—but I could work up more sympathy if the big universities would use a little common sense and lower the prices asked for football tickets. With our local football powers charging as much as $5.50 for a seat within binocular distance of the playing field, it seems fairly obvious that television does not deserve all the blame for poor ticket sales.

DeWitt Mackenzie:

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

We have as guest columnist today one of south Korea's most distinguished citizens—my friend Mr. Dong Sung Kim.

Mr. Kim is a newspaper publisher and a member of the south Korean national assembly. He is now at Lake Success with his country's delegation to the United Nations. While we were talking the other day I asked him why he did not write me a column on Korean problems at this time of crisis, and the following is his response to the invitation:

On June 27 I joined the flood of refugees from Seoul, fleeing from my home without even a handbag. Every possessio I owned was lost except the clothes on my back. My family was separated from me and I have not heard of any of them yet.

Amid all the gloom of that day, my mind was lightened by the belief that at last the cursed line of the 38th parallel was broken down and that when the fighting ended our nation would be re-unified at last.

My wife and my nation were saved by the prompt support sent by the United Nations under General Douglas MacArthur, the best friend the Korean nation ever had. As I drifted desolately southward before the Communist armies, the 143 members of the national assembly that managed to escape and stick together met in emergency sessions in Taejon, Taegu, and Pusan, driven on by overwhelming force.

Now the United Nations victory is assured. But here at the United Nations, where I came with our delegation, we were surprised to hear questions and doubts expressed as to what should be done about the 38th parallel line. We had never imagined that this question would be in doubt.

Under the United Nations we held an election in south Korea on May 10, 1948. We held another election under U. N. observation on May 30, 1950. During all this time, our government and the U. N. commission pleaded and worked for the opportunity to hold a similar election north of the 38th parallel line. Then, on June 25, that line was broken down by the Communist attack. It seemed incredible to us that any friends of freedom should ever think that artificial and harmful barrier should ever again be rebuilt.

Korea has paid a terrific price for re-unification and freedom. Over 60,000 of our own soldiers have been killed or wounded. About three million of our people have been driven from their homes and are living now in great hardship, without shelter or enough food to eat. Most of our major cities and hundreds of our villages have been smashed or burned. Our industries are ruined. Our transportation and communications systems are destroyed. Surely this price we have had to pay has not been paid in vain.

There is much talk now of re-arming Germany and Japan. The Republic of Korea should also be strongly and fully armed. The world has seen how our people can fight when weapons are available to us. It is our hope and expectation that we shall now have the tanks, and artillery, and naval vessels and planes with which we can equip an army to defend our own borders.

We welcome again the United Nations commission, to observe elections in northern Korea when conditions suitable for an election have been restored. We shall need a United Nations security force in our country until our own army is adequately expanded, trained, and equipped to face the dangers that surround us. And when we have a strong army of our own, Korean boys will die for the cause of world freedom, just as American soldiers have died on our soil to protect our liberty.

STUDENTS ARE LIONS' GUESTS

Miss Ouida Greer and Tommy Trawick were present as guests of the West Monroe Lions Club at the Thursday night luncheon to give their experiences at boy and girls state. The West Monroe Lions Club sponsored Tommy Trawick at Pelican Boys State and Miss Greer at Pelican Girls State.

Mr. Trawick thanked the club for sponsoring him and stated that he had been taught very much concerning the politics and operation of our state and local governments. Tommy was elected mayor of the town in which he was supposed to reside and went through the operations of planning a city project. Theirs was a busy time and they were well occupied for the full nine days.

Miss Greer gave her views of the Girls State and said that there was not an idle moment. It seems that they were divided into political parties and each party sponsored it's own candidates for the various offices. Miss Greer stated that all of their time was not occupied with work, though, as they had two hours per day alloted to recreation.

Besides reporting on the experiences at Boys State, Tommy was present as student president of the West Monroe Lions Club in connection with the Jaycees' Civic Responsibility Day.

The tail twister, Lawrence Wilson, sponsored a history telling fest in which each Lion gave his life history. This reached it's highlight when John Bonor gave his experiences in that he was contributing to the population of the country by raising a canary and a dog.

The club is now meeting at 6:30 during the local football season for the benefit of football fans.

'Vest Pocket Lab Halts Potato Weevil

By Alton E. Broussard

A tough little weevil that ravaged a $17 million vegetable crop in Louisiana has been stopped in its tracks by two workers in a vest-pocket laboratory on the Southwestern Louisiana Institute campus at Lafayette.

The villain in this scientific Buck Rogers story is the sweet potato weevil, an unwelcome immigrant that almost succeeded in ruining Louisiana's biggest and most valuable vegetable crop.

The nocuous beetle apparently originated in the Bahamas, was washed to sea by hurricanes, landed on our Gulf coast where it took up residence in a specie of seaside morning glory that is a distant relative of the sweet potato. From that beginning the invaders spread out over Southwest Louisiana and found comfortable quarters in the tubers of the fast developing and profitable yam industry.

As a result, just when the crop was bringing $17 million a year into the state the weevil infestation became so bad that the crop was apparently doomed.

Quarantines, applied to control or limit the area of infestation to southwest Louisiana, partially cut off shipments of sweet potatoes and so limited the movement and sales that profits dribbled dangerously.

At this crucial point was begun the counterattack that saved the crop, controlled the infestation, and opened up the channels to outside markets.

To lead the attack the United States Department of Agriculture selected from its ranks a slightly-built cigar-smoking bug fighter, C. H. Gaddis, who had played a major part in controlling, such disastrous pests as the pink bollworm, the Mediterranean fruit fly, the Japanese beetle, the gypsy moth, and the European corn borer.

With the cooperation of the state department of agriculture and Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Gaddis established a laboratory consisting of a couple of mobile fumigators on truck trailers and a quonset hut. The laboratory is on the Southwestern farm and is so unassuming and unpretentious that few who see it know what it is.

Gaddis was on stranger to weevils or sweet potatoes. He was reared on a Georgia farm and for the past 34 years he has been engaged in entomological and pathological work. Among his store of experiences are engagements against the sweet potato weevil in Florida and in the coastal regions of Georgia.

For help at Lafayette he was assigned Herbert Morgan, an up-and-coming young member of the U. S. Bureau of Entomology and plant quarantine; and such aid as he might need from time to time from the state department of Agriculture and from S. L. I.

All personnel and facilities of the S. L. I. College of Agriculture were made available, on call, to Gaddis by the president of the institute, Dr. Joel L. Fletcher, and the dean of the ag college, Dr. T. J. Arceneaux.

Some spade work had been done on the weevil infestation in a short-lived laboratory at Sunset, La., but the war had put an end to that laboratory. It had been determined there, however, that methyl bromide fumigation would kill the weevil.

Finding a "weapon" that would kill the bug was a minor phase of the project. Many insecticides would kill the pests but one had to be found that would not injure the delicate sweet potato or the consumers.

To find the solution, Gaddis and his assistant built fumigation chambers and ran hundreds of tests with methyl bromide and other fumigants to get exact information.

Because the weevil enters the potato while it is growing in the field and stays inside for months, it was necessary to find a killer that would penetrate the yam sufficiently to kill the pest at all stages of its development and yet not damage the potato or peel the enamel off the consumer's teeth.

Hundred's of tests made at the quonset hut lab proved that methyl bromide was the best fumigant for the purpose and also determined the right amount and method to be used. Now, many thousands of bushels of sweet potatoes are fumigated annually with negligible injury to the potato and none to its consumers.

Fumigation chambers have been placed at convenient locations in the golden yam belt of the state and Louisiana inspectors supervise the operation. In some instances the potatoes are fumigated in refrigerator cars or truck vans. In all cases the fumigation in refrigerator cars or truck vans. In all cases the fumigation is done just before shipment.

Second problem to be solved by the little lab was to find a means of checking what the entomologists call "build-up infestation," or an increase in the weevil population in potatoes stored in commercial kilns.

This "build-up" was one of the biggest sore spots of the weevil problem. The wily weevil develops slowly in cool weather, but in the spring he, too, gets ideas and out he comes bent on romance. In due time the weevil population in stored potatoes doubles, and doubles, and doubles. So do the holes they dig in the yams and when the shipper begins to move his produce to market he has more holes and weevils than he has potatoes.

Not only does this build-up play havoc with stored sweet potatoes --it plays, or could play the dickens with southern sweet potato areas into which the infested yams might be shipped. Northern states didn't worry too much about the bugs because Yankee winters will kill them off; however, southern sweet potato states wouldn't permit Louisiana yams to be shipped in or pass through en route to northern markets after the weather became warm.

As a consequence the state department of agriculture found it necessary to establish a "clean-up" date by which time all sweet potatoes had to be moved out of the Lafayette area (the state's yam belt) or be burned or dehydrated.

The "clean-up" deadline was usually around April 1 and it shortened the marketing period, frequently causing financial loss because some shippers had to sell their yams at a loss rather than destroy them.

Gaddis knew that DDT would kill the weevils because the poison had already been used usccessfully on seed stock; however, he also knew that the ever-cautious public health authorities would probably turn thumbs down on a proposal to dust table stock potatoes with the insecticide unless he could prove it was safe.

Extensive tests were made with insecticides known to have a high margin of safety when used on food products. From these tests methoxychlor dust emerged with flying colors.

Meantime, W. E. Anderson, state commissioner of agriculture, was so concerned about the weevil problem that he spent considerable time in Washington discussing the matter with various government authorities.

As a result it was arranged by federal public health officials, the state commissioner, and the U. S. bureau of entomology and plant quarantine that Gaddis should start another series of tests, this time to perfect a weapon against "build-up."

The state supplied the Lafayette laboratory with sweet potatoes for the experiments and the bugologist began dusting and testing hundreds and hundreds of bushels of infected yams. He washed the potatoes in a standard washing machine and other wise simulated ordinary commercial handling. Then he had state and federal chemical laboratories analyze the results.

The reports showed that both DDT and methoxychlor dust when used properly were not harmful to consumers.

The job wasn't finished, however. Gaddis found that ordinary dust applicators were not suitable for dusting sweet potatoes in crates, the only practical method of performing the operation. Gaddis knew from long experience with sweet potatoes that they were delicate — easily bruised and otherwise damaged in handling. Hence it was found necessary to dust the tubers in their crates to avoid spilling them out and recrating them. The yams are stored in crates, and emptying and refilling crates would also be a slow and costly operation.

ARGUMENT OVER FIRES GOES ON

Some Sheep And Cattlemen Think Burning Over Pastures Necessary

By Edmond Le Breton

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Heavy rains this week put out the forest fires blazing in several parts of Louisiana, but the argument as to who is responsible for most of the fires crackled merrily on.

It is an old and hardy argument that opposes two points of view poles apart. The state forestry commission, anxious on principle about any fire started for any reason in or near the woodlands it is charged with protecting, fights the ancient practice of burning off grazing lands in the spring and fall. Some landowners, sheep and cattlemen and others, insist that the burning is necessary and that the danger of disastrous forest fires resulting is, at least, greatly exaggerated.

The conflict got hot enough during the fire season just past for a commission spokesman to talk about an organized effort to "blacken western Beauregard parish," and for State Sen. Gilbert Hennigan of Fields to accuse the commission of using "strong arm methods" to intimidate parish residents into admitting setting fires.

The commission says that between July 1 and October 15 there were 828 forest firest in Louisiana, burning 51,184 acres, and that of these 332 fires covering 41,791 acres were in Beauregard parish. This is a high rate for late summer and fall, which usually do not compare with spring in the amount of burning.

The pro-burning school holds that it is necessary to remove accumulated dead grass to give the nutritious new growth a better chance; that sheepmen have found certain ailments spread among their flocks more readily when the grass is high and that lambs sometimes are lost in the thick weeds. There is some contention, too, that a moderate amount of burning over helps the growth of young trees.

The commission, citing authorities in the state university animal husbandry department, denies practically all these counts. It says burned pastures lack valuable roughage and tend to grow up with the less nutritious grasses predominating, that parasite infestations are encouraged when sheep stay in burned fields and that the improvement claimed for grass in burned lands is only apparent—it is just easier to see new green growth against a background of low-lying ashes.

The firefighting agency says it has proof that more than 90 per cent of forest fires are man-made and classes more than 50 per cent as incendiary—set for reasons it considers not valid. Among these it classified unjustified attempts to improve grazing (not controlled fires on a person's own land), efforts to kill snakes, boll weevils, and other pests—even in some cases, germs—as plain spite.

It says that accidents—the tossed cigarette, the trash fire that gets out of control and the like—account for most of the rest, since the only real natural cause of forest fires is lightning.

Famed Love Poems Have Centennial

By Cynthia Lowry
AP Newsfeatures Writer

New York—A hundred years ago a short love poem — destined to be a classic—first appeared in print.

"How do I love thee? Let me count the ways.

"I love thee to the depth and breadth and height

"My soul can reach, when feeling out of sight

"For the ends of Being and Ideal Grace. . ."

It was the work of a minor poet, Elizabeth Barrett, and through the poem and 43 other sonnets, the world had its first inkling of a legendary romance.

A firm of London publishers in October, 1850, brought out a new edition fo Elizabeth's peotry, just four years after her marriage to poet Robert Browning. In the edition were the new works, linked by the title, "Sonnets from the Portuguese."

They are quoted whenever and wherever the poetry of love is discussed. Through the years Browning and his wife have been subjects of a steady stream of biography. A smash Broadway hit, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," starred Katherine Cornell in what many believed her greatest role. It retold the familiar story of how a strong man's love and tenderness carried a frail woman from invalidism and retreat from the world to a normal, happy life.

Now, upon the centennial of publication, book dealer Philip C. Duschnes of New York has published privately a 500-copy special edition of "Sonnets from the Portuguese," edited by Browning-expert Fannie Ratchford.

Miss Ratchford, who is connected with the University of Texas, writes a brief history of the Brownings and the sonnets.

She tells of Elizabeth's happy childhood, of her difficult father and then of the series of deaths and tragedies which shocked her into lingering illness and dependence on pain-killing drugs.

She was a recluse, living in her father's home at 50 Wimpole Street when she met Browning, climaxing a long and intellectually ardent correspondence. It took persistence and great persuasive powers on Browning's part to achieve the meeting, for she would see none but old friends and members of her family. Apparently, it was love at first sight.

In September, 1846 the couple was secretly married in London. Elizabeth returned to her father's home, and a week later Robert and Elizabeth Browning eloped to Italy.

Miss Ratchford says that Elizabeth never told her husband of the poetry she wrote to him until three years after their marriage — after their son was born. Browning read them — declaring them to be "the finset sonnets written in any language since Shakespearer's," and insisted they be included in the next edition of her earlier-published "Poems." Because the sonnets were so revealing, the Brownings decided to pretend they were merely Elizabeth's translations of some Portuguese poems. The ruse was so thin and flimsy, however, scarcely anyone was fooled.

The centennial edition too recalls the grrat literary forgery connected with the sonnets.

By 1890 the Brownings and their work had turned into something of a cult. Copies of this supposedly rare first edition were sold to Browning collectors for large sums. The highest sale recorded is $1,250.

It was not until 1934 that the whole thing was definitely exposed as a fraud. Suspicious rare book detectives established that the edition was printed on paper not manufactured until 1874 and was printed in a type face which had not even been designed or cut until after 1880.

Browning enthusiasts had been duped — but because of the pamphlet's strange history, copies today bring $100 as curiosities.

Icelandic Communists Have Suffered Defeat At Polls

By Ivar Gudmundsson
AP Newsfeatures

Reykjavik, Iceland — The influence of the Icelandic Communist party is waning.

It has just suffered its most serious setback within the ranks of the labor union since the party was established here 16 years ago under the name of "The United Workers Party—the Socialists."

This is the first real sign since the end of World War II that the Red movement in Iceland is on the decline.

Although the Communists lost one member of Parliament in the general elections last winter, they still polled 19.5 per cent of the total number of votes cast.

The swing away from the extreme left appeared during the past few weeks, when local labor gates to the Labor Union Congress of Iceland. These are held every two years. The fight is between the Communists and the Social Democrats, who are supported by the Conservatives and Agraians in an alliance called the "Democratic Front." The Communists have sought adherents under a "United Front."

Two years ago the "Democratic Front won control of the Congress by a solid majority. This year, although a few unions have yet to elect their delegates, it is clear that the "Democratic Front" will have a much larger majority.

Girl Scouts Here Helping Young Girl

Girl Scouts of America, and especially those of Monroe, are bettering the feeling of European countries toward the United States by sending packages to girls their own age in the war torn countries.

Johnnie Marie Avery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Avery, 116 Register street, West Monroe, sent such a package to a little Hungarian girl who is living in a displaced persons camp with her mother in Germany.

MARGARETE MESSANAS

Johnnie Marie received a letter and a picture recently from Margarete Messanas. The letter read as follows:

"I am sending you a picture of myself. I could not send a better one because of the circumstances which we have been living in for so long. I don't remember how long we have been living like this, but I hear my mother relating our fly from our homeland, Hungary. Though I am only eight years old, I have lived and seen life at its worst side.

I ought to go to school, but we have no teacher for the present, they have all emigrated. Last year I finished the second class of the camp grammar school and hope to attend a "real" school this fall somewhere in the U. S. I would describe you our school but I believe it will be enough to mention one thing: Rain drops are very often falling on our heads, coming down through the holes.

All people are living in barracks of wood which may be eight or ten years old. There are 200 people living at this camp, many of us want to emigrate, but there are also people, sick or old, that are not able to complete the work a sponsor would expect them to do. They have to stay here in Germany, but will be transported to another camp which is farther from the Soviet zone.

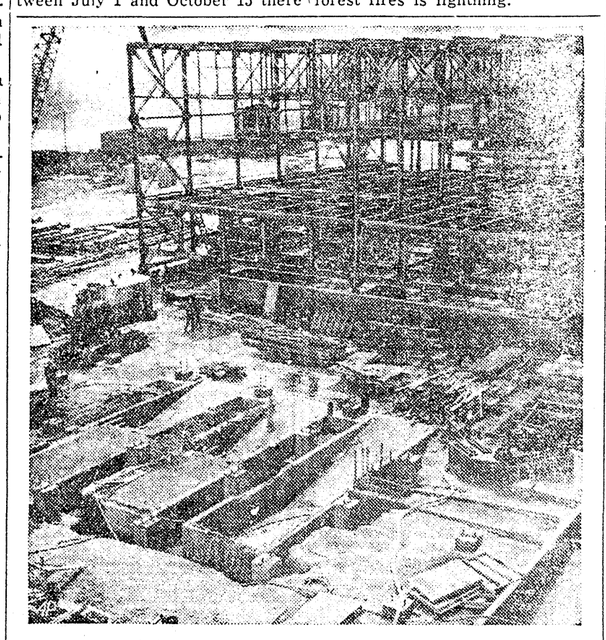
There is only my mother and I. I do not remember my father who was a soldier when we had to leave Hungary six years ago. Of course, mother is everything to me, parent, friend, teacher, and doctor.

This letter is written by one of our contrymen who knows some English, but of course he cannot be perfect without continuous speaking in English. I myself know some German words. My final goal is to learn several foreign languages.

The weather is cold rainy today. The beautiful summer is over to much regret of us children. They are forecasting a long autumn and cold winter this year.

I enjoyed the presents you have sent to Europe and which came to my hand last week. I am trying to thank you for your kindness and to make myself understood and to introduce myself."

Johnnie Marie is a member of Girl Scout troop number five, under the sponsorship of Mrs. C. W. Thomas.



Huge coal "laundry" is now taking shape. It will have the appearance of a modern factory and will process 1,500 tons of coal an hour.

World's Largest 'Laundry' Will Open November First

By Charles R. Lewis
AP Newsfeatures

Cadiz, O. — A $10,000,000 coal "laundry" described as the world's largest is taking shape on a hill near this eastern Ohio community.

When the cleaning plant built by a coal company goes into operation about November 1, it will process 1,500 tons of coal an hour.

Using water from a 65 - acre lake with a 250,000,000-gallon capacity, it will clean "black diamonds" moving in three separate circuits at a rate that will permit the loading of a railroad car in less than two minutes.

The circuits will come together in the loading zone in such a way as to provide various commercial lump sizes or combinations of sizes needed by individual customers.

Four sizes of coal will be run through the plant, and will be separated by screening processes.

Six dryers similar to today's automatic washing machine and equipped with a circular drying spinner will remove the water from the coal after it has been washed.

Four flash dryers will reduce further the moisture content of the fuel to two and one-half per cent.

The plant will have the appearance of a modern factory. It will be almost dust free, with surrounding grounds terraced and planted in grass and flowers—something almost unheard of around a coal operation.

Preparation Engineer Russell Wilmot said 15 to 20 percent of all the coal weight passing through the plant would be rejected in the cleaning process.

Unwashed coal loaded for consumer use today, he said, is 10 to 15 per cent ash. The cleaning plant will reduce the ash to seven and one-half per cent.

Two railroads—the Nickel Plate and Pennsylvania — will service the new facility, and are investing in it. Forty miles of tracks and yards are being laid in the vicinity.

Cave Reveals Great Beauty

By Frank Hodge
AP Newsfeatures

Auckland, New Zealand — The first modern men to penetrate parts of New Zealand's Karamu Cave have found the most beautiful stalactite formations known in this dominion.

The lovely natural traceries in limestone were found deep in the huge Karamu cave which has about eight miles of passages. It is 13 miles southeast of Hamilton, which is 80 miles south of Auckland.

Seven members of the New Zealand speleological (cave) society have returned to Auckland after making an exploratory survey of Karamu.

President H. G. Lambert of the society told newsmen the tortuous network of narrow passages in the cave hold New Zealand's most beautiful stalactite formations, but added that they are so inaccessible that few people will ever see them.

'Vest Pocket Lab Halts Potato Weevil

By Alton E. Broussard

A tough little weevil that ravaged a $17 million vegetable crop in Louisiana has been stopped in its tracks by two workers in a vest-pocket laboratory on the Southwestern Louisiana Institute campus at Lafayette.

The villain in this scientific Buck Rogers story is the sweet potato weevil, an unwelcome immigrant that almost succeeded in ruining Louisiana's biggest and most valuable vegetable crop.

The nocuous beetle apparently originated in the Bahamas, was washed to sea by hurricanes, landed on our Gulf coast where it took up residence in a specie of seaside morning glory that is a distant relative of the sweet potato. From that beginning the invaders spread out over Southwest Louisiana and found comfortable quarters in the tubers of the fast developing and profitable yam industry.

As a result, just when the crop was bringing $17 million a year into the state the weevil infestation became so bad that the crop was apparently doomed.

Quarantines, applied to control or limit the area of infestation to southwest Louisiana, partially cut off shipments of sweet potatoes and so limited the movement and sales that profits dribbled dangerously.

At this crucial point was begun the counterattack that saved the crop, controlled the infestation, and opened up the channels to outside markets.

To lead the attack the United States Department of Agriculture selected from its ranks a slightly-built cigar-smoking bug fighter, C. H. Gaddis, who had played a major part in controlling, such disastrous pests as the pink bollworm, the Mediterranean fruit fly, the Japanese beetle, the gypsy moth, and the European corn borer.

With the cooperation of the state department of agriculture and Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Gaddis established a laboratory consisting of a couple of mobile fumigators on truck trailers and a quonset hut. The laboratory is on the Southwestern farm and is so unassuming and unpretentious that few who see it know what it is.

Gaddis was on stranger to weevils or sweet potatoes. He was reared on a Georgia farm and for the past 34 years he has been engaged in entomological and pathological work. Among his store of experiences are engagements against the sweet potato weevil in Florida and in the coastal regions of Georgia.

For help at Lafayette he was assigned Herbert Morgan, an up-and-coming young member of the U. S. Bureau of Entomology and plant quarantine; and such aid as he might need from time to time from the state department of Agriculture and from S. L. I.

All personnel and facilities of the S. L. I. College of Agriculture were made available, on call, to Gaddis by the president of the institute, Dr. Joel L. Fletcher, and the dean of the ag college, Dr. T. J. Arceneaux.

Some spade work had been done on the weevil infestation in a short-lived laboratory at Sunset, La., but the war had put an end to that laboratory. It had been determined there, however, that methyl bromide fumigation would kill the weevil.

Finding a "weapon" that would kill the bug was a minor phase of the project. Many insecticides would kill the pests but one had to be found that would not injure the delicate sweet potato or the consumers.

To find the solution, Gaddis and his assistant built fumigation chambers and ran hundreds of tests with methyl bromide and other fumigants to get exact information.

Because the weevil enters the potato while it is growing in the field and stays inside for months, it was necessary to find a killer that would penetrate the yam sufficiently to kill the pest at all stages of its development and yet not damage the potato or peel the enamel off the consumer's teeth.

Hundred's of tests made at the quonset hut lab proved that methyl bromide was the best fumigant for the purpose and also determined the right amount and method to be used. Now, many thousands of bushels of sweet potatoes are fumigated annually with negligible injury to the potato and none to its consumers.

Fumigation chambers have been placed at convenient locations in the golden yam belt of the state and Louisiana inspectors supervise the operation. In some instances the potatoes are fumigated in refrigerator cars or truck vans. In all cases the fumigation in refrigerator cars or truck vans. In all cases the fumigation is done just before shipment.

Second problem to be solved by the little lab was to find a means of checking what the entomologists call "build-up infestation," or an increase in the weevil population in potatoes stored in commercial kilns.

This "build-up" was one of the biggest sore spots of the weevil problem. The wily weevil develops slowly in cool weather, but in the spring he, too, gets ideas and out he comes bent on romance. In due time the weevil population in stored potatoes doubles, and doubles, and doubles. So do the holes they dig in the yams and when the shipper begins to move his produce to market he has more holes and weevils than he has potatoes.

Not only does this build-up play havoc with stored sweet potatoes --it plays, or could play the dickens with southern sweet potato areas into which the infested yams might be shipped. Northern states didn't worry too much about the bugs because Yankee winters will kill them off; however, southern sweet potato states wouldn't permit Louisiana yams to be shipped in or pass through en route to northern markets after the weather became warm.

As a consequence the state department of agriculture found it necessary to establish a "clean-up" date by which time all sweet potatoes had to be moved out of the Lafayette area (the state's yam belt) or be burned or dehydrated.

The "clean-up" deadline was usually around April 1 and it shortened the marketing period, frequently causing financial loss because some shippers had to sell their yams at a loss rather than destroy them.

Gaddis knew that DDT would kill the weevils because the poison had already been used usccessfully on seed stock; however, he also knew that the ever-cautious public health authorities would probably turn thumbs down on a proposal to dust table stock potatoes with the insecticide unless he could prove it was safe.

Extensive tests were made with insecticides known to have a high margin of safety when used on food products. From these tests methoxychlor dust emerged with flying colors.

Meantime, W. E. Anderson, state commissioner of agriculture, was so concerned about the weevil problem that he spent considerable time in Washington discussing the matter with various government authorities.

As a result it was arranged by federal public health officials, the state commissioner, and the U. S. bureau of entomology and plant quarantine that Gaddis should start another series of tests, this time to perfect a weapon against "build-up."

The state supplied the Lafayette laboratory with sweet potatoes for the experiments and the bugologist began dusting and testing hundreds and hundreds of bushels of infected yams. He washed the potatoes in a standard washing machine and other wise simulated ordinary commercial handling. Then he had state and federal chemical laboratories analyze the results.

The reports showed that both DDT and methoxychlor dust when used properly were not harmful to consumers.

The job wasn't finished, however. Gaddis found that ordinary dust applicators were not suitable for dusting sweet potatoes in crates, the only practical method of performing the operation. Gaddis knew from long experience with sweet potatoes that they were delicate — easily bruised and otherwise damaged in handling. Hence it was found necessary to dust the tubers in their crates to avoid spilling them out and recrating them. The yams are stored in crates, and emptying and refilling crates would also be a slow and costly operation.

ARGUMENT OVER FIRES GOES ON

By Edmond Le Breton

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Heavy rains this week put out the forest fires blazing in several parts of Louisiana, but the argument as to who is responsible for most of the fires crackled merrily on.

It is an old and hardy argument that opposes two points of view poles apart. The state forestry commission, anxious on principle about any fire started for any reason in or near the woodlands it is charged with protecting, fights the ancient practice of burning off grazing lands in the spring and fall. Some landowners, sheep and cattlemen and others, insist that the burning is necessary and that the danger of disastrous forest fires resulting is, at least, greatly exaggerated.

The conflict got hot enough during the fire season just past for a commission spokesman to talk about an organized effort to "blacken western Beauregard parish," and for State Sen. Gilbert Hennigan of Fields to accuse the commission of using "strong arm methods" to intimidate parish residents into admitting setting fires.

The commission says that between July 1 and October 15 there were 828 forest firest in Louisiana, burning 51,184 acres, and that of these 332 fires covering 41,791 acres were in Beauregard parish. This is a high rate for late summer and fall, which usually do not compare with spring in the amount of burning.

The pro-burning school holds that it is necessary to remove accumulated dead grass to give the nutritious new growth a better chance; that sheepmen have found certain ailments spread among their flocks more readily when the grass is high and that lambs sometimes are lost in the thick weeds. There is some contention, too, that a moderate amount of burning over helps the growth of young trees.

The commission, citing authorities in the state university animal husbandry department, denies practically all these counts. It says burned pastures lack valuable roughage and tend to grow up with the less nutritious grasses predominating, that parasite infestations are encouraged when sheep stay in burned fields and that the improvement claimed for grass in burned lands is only apparent—it is just easier to see new green growth against a background of low-lying ashes.

The firefighting agency says it has proof that more than 90 per cent of forest fires are man-made and classes more than 50 per cent as incendiary—set for reasons it considers not valid. Among these it classified unjustified attempts to improve grazing (not controlled fires on a person's own land), efforts to kill snakes, boll weevils, and other pests—even in some cases, germs—as plain spite.

It says that accidents—the tossed cigarette, the trash fire that gets out of control and the like—account for most of the rest, since the only real natural cause of forest fires is lightning.

Famed Love Poems Have Centennial

By Cynthia Lowry

AP Newsfeatures Writer

New York—A hundred years ago a short love poem — destined to be a classic—first appeared in print.

"How do I love thee? Let me count the ways.

"I love thee to the depth and breadth and height

"My soul can reach, when feeling out of sight

"For the ends of Being and Ideal Grace. . ."

It was the work of a minor poet, Elizabeth Barrett, and through the poem and 43 other sonnets, the world had its first inkling of a legendary romance.

A firm of London publishers in October, 1850, brought out a new edition fo Elizabeth's peotry, just four years after her marriage to poet Robert Browning. In the edition were the new works, linked by the title, "Sonnets from the Portuguese."

They are quoted whenever and wherever the poetry of love is discussed. Through the years Browning and his wife have been subjects of a steady stream of biography. A smash Broadway hit, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," starred Katherine Cornell in what many believed her greatest role. It retold the familiar story of how a strong man's love and tenderness carried a frail woman from invalidism and retreat from the world to a normal, happy life.

Now, upon the centennial of publication, book dealer Philip C. Duschnes of New York has published privately a 500-copy special edition of "Sonnets from the Portuguese," edited by Browning-expert Fannie Ratchford.

Miss Ratchford, who is connected with the University of Texas, writes a brief history of the Brownings and the sonnets.

She tells of Elizabeth's happy childhood, of her difficult father and then of the series of deaths and tragedies which shocked her into lingering illness and dependence on pain-killing drugs.

She was a recluse, living in her father's home at 50 Wimpole Street when she met Browning, climaxing a long and intellectually ardent correspondence. It took persistence and great persuasive powers on Browning's part to achieve the meeting, for she would see none but old friends and members of her family. Apparently, it was love at first sight.

In September, 1846 the couple was secretly married in London. Elizabeth returned to her father's home, and a week later Robert and Elizabeth Browning eloped to Italy.

Miss Ratchford says that Elizabeth never told her husband of the poetry she wrote to him until three years after their marriage — after their son was born. Browning read them — declaring them to be "the finset sonnets written in any language since Shakespearer's," and insisted they be included in the next edition of her earlier-published "Poems." Because the sonnets were so revealing, the Brownings decided to pretend they were merely Elizabeth's translations of some Portuguese poems. The ruse was so thin and flimsy, however, scarcely anyone was fooled.

The centennial edition too recalls the grrat literary forgery connected with the sonnets.

By 1890 the Brownings and their work had turned into something of a cult. Copies of this supposedly rare first edition were sold to Browning collectors for large sums. The highest sale recorded is $1,250.

It was not until 1934 that the whole thing was definitely exposed as a fraud. Suspicious rare book detectives established that the edition was printed on paper not manufactured until 1874 and was printed in a type face which had not even been designed or cut until after 1880.

Browning enthusiasts had been duped — but because of the pamphlet's strange history, copies today bring $100 as curiosities.

Icelandic Communists Have Suffered Defeat At Polls

By Ivar Gudmundsson

AP Newsfeatures

Reykjavik, Iceland — The influence of the Icelandic Communist party is waning.

It has just suffered its most serious setback within the ranks of the labor union since the party was established here 16 years ago under the name of "The United Workers Party—the Socialists."

This is the first real sign since the end of World War II that the Red movement in Iceland is on the decline.

Although the Communists lost one member of Parliament in the general elections last winter, they still polled 19.5 per cent of the total number of votes cast.

The swing away from the extreme left appeared during the past few weeks, when local labor gates to the Labor Union Congress of Iceland. These are held every two years. The fight is between the Communists and the Social Democrats, who are supported by the Conservatives and Agraians in an alliance called the "Democratic Front." The Communists have sought adherents under a "United Front."

Two years ago the "Democratic Front won control of the Congress by a solid majority. This year, although a few unions have yet to elect their delegates, it is clear that the "Democratic Front" will have a much larger majority.

Girl Scouts Here Helping Young Girl

Girl Scouts of America, and especially those of Monroe, are bettering the feeling of European countries toward the United States by sending packages to girls their own age in the war torn countries.

Johnnie Marie Avery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Avery, 116 Register street, West Monroe, sent such a package to a little Hungarian girl who is living in a displaced persons camp with her mother in Germany.

MARGARETE MESSANAS

Johnnie Marie received a letter and a picture recently from Margarete Messanas. The letter read as follows:

"I am sending you a picture of myself. I could not send a better one because of the circumstances which we have been living in for so long. I don't remember how long we have been living like this, but I hear my mother relating our fly from our homeland, Hungary. Though I am only eight years old, I have lived and seen life at its worst side.

I ought to go to school, but we have no teacher for the present, they have all emigrated. Last year I finished the second class of the camp grammar school and hope to attend a "real" school this fall somewhere in the U. S. I would describe you our school but I believe it will be enough to mention one thing: Rain drops are very often falling on our heads, coming down through the holes.

All people are living in barracks of wood which may be eight or ten years old. There are 200 people living at this camp, many of us want to emigrate, but there are also people, sick or old, that are not able to complete the work a sponsor would expect them to do. They have to stay here in Germany, but will be transported to another camp which is farther from the Soviet zone.

There is only my mother and I. I do not remember my father who was a soldier when we had to leave Hungary six years ago. Of course, mother is everything to me, parent, friend, teacher, and doctor.

This letter is written by one of our contrymen who knows some English, but of course he cannot be perfect without continuous speaking in English. I myself know some German words. My final goal is to learn several foreign languages.

The weather is cold rainy today. The beautiful summer is over to much regret of us children. They are forecasting a long autumn and cold winter this year.

I enjoyed the presents you have sent to Europe and which came to my hand last week. I am trying to thank you for your kindness and to make myself understood and to introduce myself."

Johnnie Marie is a member of Girl Scout troop number five, under the sponsorship of Mrs. C. W. Thomas.

Cave Reveals Great Beauty

By Frank Hodge

AP Newsfeatures

Auckland, New Zealand — The first modern men to penetrate parts of New Zealand's Karamu Cave have found the most beautiful stalactite formations known in this dominion.

The lovely natural traceries in limestone were found deep in the huge Karamu cave which has about eight miles of passages. It is 13 miles southeast of Hamilton, which is 80 miles south of Auckland.

Seven members of the New Zealand speleological (cave) society have returned to Auckland after making an exploratory survey of Karamu.

President H. G. Lambert of the society told newsmen the tortuous network of narrow passages in the cave hold New Zealand's most beautiful stalactite formations, but added that they are so inaccessible that few people will ever see them.

"Apart from a handful of explorers no one has been far into the main cave or more than about half-way down a side passage," said Lambert. "To go further into the cave one has to descend a 25 foot drop by a rope and travel on through passages obstructed by falls of rock, deep pools and difficult formations."

Huge coal "laundry" is now taking shape. It will have the appearance of a modern factory and will process 1,500 tons of coal an hour.

World's Largest 'Laundry' Will Open November First

By Charles R. Lewis

AP Newsfeatures

Cadiz, O. — A $10,000,000 coal "laundry" described as the world's largest is taking shape on a hill near this eastern Ohio community.

When the cleaning plant built by a coal company goes into operation about November 1, it will process 1,500 tons of coal an hour.

Using water from a 65 - acre lake with a 250,000,000-gallon capacity, it will clean "black diamonds" moving in three separate circuits at a rate that will permit the loading of a railroad car in less than two minutes.

The circuits will come together in the loading zone in such a way as to provide various commercial lump sizes or combinations of sizes needed by individual customers.

Four sizes of coal will be run through the plant, and will be separated by screening processes.

Six dryers similar to today's automatic washing machine and equipped with a circular drying spinner will remove the water from the coal after it has been washed.

Four flash dryers will reduce further the moisture content of the fuel to two and one-half per cent.

The plant will have the appearance of a modern factory. It will be almost dust free, with surrounding grounds terraced and planted in grass and flowers—something almost unheard of around a coal operation.

Preparation Engineer Russell Wilmot said 15 to 20 percent of all the coal weight passing through the plant would be rejected in the cleaning process.

Unwashed coal loaded for consumer use today, he said, is 10 to 15 per cent ash. The cleaning plant will reduce the ash to seven and one-half per cent.

Two railroads—the Nickel Plate and Pennsylvania — will service the new facility, and are investing in it. Forty miles of tracks and yards are being laid in the vicinity.

Randolph Scott Coming To Joy Screen In 'The Cariboo Trail'

'Gabby' Hayes And Bill Williams Also Featured In Gold Rush Film

Randolph Scott in a big scale Cinecolor western, "The Cariboo Trail," has been announced as the next attraction at the Joy Theatre, where it is due to start a run on Thursday. The Nat Holt production, being distributed by Twentieth Century-Fox, co-stars George "Gabby" Hayes and top features Bill Williams, Victor Jory and Karin Booth.

Dealing with the Cariboo country of central British Columbia and a combination cattle drive and gold rush that took place in the area during the opening of the Pacific Northwest, "The Cariboo Trail" is said to reveal some of the most rugged mountain and woodland country on the continent, all photographed in the natural colors of Cinecolor.

'The White Tower' Is Playing At Paramount

Glenn Ford, Valli, Claude Rains and Oscar Homolka Head the production filmed on glacial slopes of Mont Blanc in color by Technicolor opening at the Paramount Theater today.

With scenes at the actual locale of the story in the French Alps, RKO radio's "The White Tower," stars Glenn Ford, Valli, Claude Rains and Oscar Homolka in a suspenseful romantic drama of mountain climbing, as filmed throughout in color by Technicolor.

The plot turns on an attempt by six persons of different nationalities to ascend a higherto-unclimbed peak. Each of them has a different kind of urge to conquer the ice-clad pinnacle. The conflicts that develope between various members of the party and the romance between a young American flier and an Italian girl, motivate the action of the enthralling story.

Ford and Miss Valli have the romantic leads, with Rains as a French author, Homolka as a veteran Swiss guide, Sir Cedric Hardwicke as a British naturalist, and Lloyd Bridges as a German officer. All the exteriors were photographed in and around the village of Chamonix and on the glaciers and snow fields of the world-famous Mont Blanc, giving the film a striking realism all the way through to its surprise climax.

'The Big Hangover' Opens At Joy Today

Van Johnson is an honor student whose chances at making good with a big law firm are impaired socially by the fact that he once almost drowned in a monastery cellar filled with century-old brandy. As a result, even one sniff of spirits sends him into an alcoholic spin. Elizabeth Taylor is the boss's daughter who is determined to cure Van of his curious malady. Mike is a dog—who talks! Between the three of them, they make M-G-M's "The Big Hangover," currently showing at the Joy Theatre, one of the most original and uproarious comedies to reach the screen in a long, long time.

"The Big Hangover" is Norman Krasna's triple-threat creation. He wrote it, directed it and produced it. And he has infused all three of these arts with a brilliance, originality and wit that makes this extraordinary story not only completely believable but preposterously funny, from the very opening sequence in which Van is narrowly saved from disgracing himself when he is forced to drink a toast on his employer's birthday, to the drama's climactic episode in which the idealistic neophyte lawyer (again influenced by alcohol) denounces his superiors as hypocrites and resigns from an assured future to fight for the right of the humble. And Miss Taylor sticks to Van to the end because she is in no doubt but what he will one day become president of the United States!

Van Johnson and Elizabeth Taylor are ideally teamed in this constantly diverting comedy. Johnson has a field day of laughs in the scenes in which he tries to cure himself of his alcohol allergy by experimenting with a teaspoonful of brandy and is convinced that his dog is making wisecracks at him. He is equally effective in the idealistic moments when he attempts to set the world on its feet overnight. The eye-filling Miss Taylor also has a romping time as the amateur psychiatrist who bravely tackles her toughest case, and there are splendid performances on the part of Percy Waram and Fay Holden as Elizabeth's knowing parents, Leon Ames as the honest aide to the district attorney, Selena Royle and Edgar Buchanan as Van's battling aunt and uncle, and Gene Lockhart as the law firm partner whose greatest delight is to get Van drunk. Then there is Mike, a tail-wagger of dubious Airdale ancestry, who is a scene-stealer if there ever was one. Just wait until you hear him talk!

'Kiss Tomorrow Goodbye' Features Barbara Payton, Helena Carter

James Cagney, who's never bothered much with love in his screen life, finds himself enmeshed with not only one female, but two, thus finding himself in what is for Cagney a new type of screen situation, in "Kiss Tomorrow Goodbye," a Cagney Productions drama. The Warner Bros. release begins its local engagement at the Paramount Theater on Thursday.

For while "Kiss Tomorrow Goodbye" presents Jimmy as everybody likes him—rough, and handy with guns—it also shows him as a man who attracts the ladies like flowers attract the bees. That is a facet of Cagney his films have seldon revealed.

It's also a position for which a lot of males would envy him. Jimmy's two leading ladies are among the most beautiful actresses in Hollywood. One is Barbara Payton, a blonde, who offers Cagney her last $20 bill. The other is redheaded Helena Carter, who lays a $30,000,000 fortune at Cagney's feet. He doesn't kick it around, either.

Jimmy doesn't pretend, as a lot of men might, that it isn't fun.

"Who wouldn't enjoy having two beautiful girls chase him, ev the screen?" he grinned.

As to which of the girls Jimmy has the answer to tha

It isn't a matter of w Barbara Payton or Helena wins," smiled Jimmy, "but Cagney lose? Figure it ou yourself. Can a man ever these circumstances?"

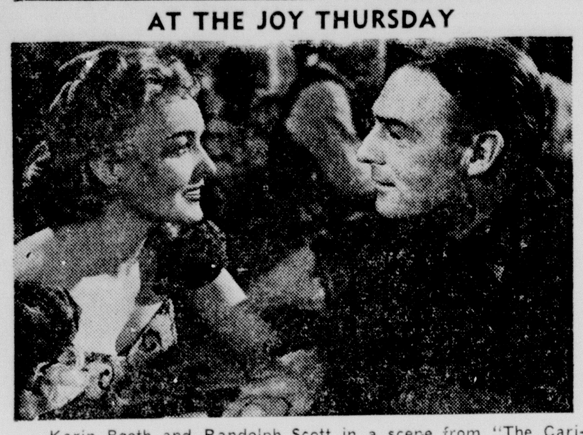
AT THE JOY THURSDAY



Karin Booth and Randolph Scott in a scene from "The Cariboo Trail," a 20th Century-Fox release in color by Cinecolor.

'Gabby' Hayes And Bill Williams Also Featured In Gold Rush Film

Randolph Scott in a big scale Cinecolor western, "The Cariboo Trail," has been announced as the next attraction at the Joy Theatre, where it is due to start a run on Thursday. The Nat Holt production, being distributed by Twentieth Century-Fox, co-stars George "Gabby" Hayes and top features Bill Williams, Victor Jory and Karin Booth.

Dealing with the Cariboo country of central British Columbia and a combination cattle drive and gold rush that took place in the area during the opening of the Pacific Northwest, "The Cariboo Trail" is said to reveal some of the most rugged mountain and woodland country on the continent, all photographed in the natural colors of Cinecolor.

'The White Tower' Is Playing At Paramount

Glenn Ford, Valli, Claude Rains and Oscar Homolka Head the production filmed on glacial slopes of Mont Blanc in color by Technicolor opening at the Paramount Theater today.

With scenes at the actual locale of the story in the French Alps, RKO radio's "The White Tower," stars Glenn Ford, Valli, Claude Rains and Oscar Homolka in a suspenseful romantic drama of mountain climbing, as filmed throughout in color by Technicolor.

The plot turns on an attempt by six persons of different nationalities to ascend a higherto-unclimbed peak. Each of them has a different kind of urge to conquer the ice-clad pinnacle. The conflicts that develope between various members of the party and the romance between a young American flier and an Italian girl, motivate the action of the enthralling story.

Ford and Miss Valli have the romantic leads, with Rains as a French author, Homolka as a veteran Swiss guide, Sir Cedric Hardwicke as a British naturalist, and Lloyd Bridges as a German officer. All the exteriors were photographed in and around the village of Chamonix and on the glaciers and snow fields of the world-famous Mont Blanc, giving the film a striking realism all the way through to its surprise climax.

COMING ON PARAMOUNT STAGE

Above you see one of the many scenes from the "Asylum of Horrors" stage show playing the Paramount Theater on Saturday, October 28, at midnight for one performance only. These are just a few of the many beautiful girls that assist Dr. Silkini, the Ghost Master, as he presents his terrorific and blood-curdling happenings. At this performance only in addition to the show will be the personal appearance of Miss Claire Roberts, beautiful Hollywood starlet. Don't miss seeing the Frankenstein Monster in person. Critics say that Frankenstein is more gruesome on the stage than on the screen. Don't forget Saturday at midnight at the Paramount Theater. Be sure of a seat by buying your tickets now in advance.

'The Big Hangover' Opens At Joy Today

Van Johnson is an honor student whose chances at making good with a big law firm are impaired socially by the fact that he once almost drowned in a monastery cellar filled with century-old brandy. As a result, even one sniff of spirits sends him into an alcoholic spin. Elizabeth Taylor is the boss's daughter who is determined to cure Van of his curious malady. Mike is a dog—who talks! Between the three of them, they make M-G-M's "The Big Hangover," currently showing at the Joy Theatre, one of the most original and uproarious comedies to reach the screen in a long, long time.

"The Big Hangover" is Norman Krasna's triple-threat creation. He wrote it, directed it and produced it. And he has infused all three of these arts with a brilliance, originality and wit that makes this extraordinary story not only completely believable but preposterously funny, from the very opening sequence in which Van is narrowly saved from disgracing himself when he is forced to drink a toast on his employer's birthday, to the drama's climactic episode in which the idealistic neophyte lawyer (again influenced by alcohol) denounces his superiors as hypocrites and resigns from an assured future to fight for the right of the humble. And Miss Taylor sticks to Van to the end because she is in no doubt but what he will one day become president of the United States!

Van Johnson and Elizabeth Taylor are ideally teamed in this constantly diverting comedy. Johnson has a field day of laughs in the scenes in which he tries to cure himself of his alcohol allergy by experimenting with a teaspoonful of brandy and is convinced that his dog is making wisecracks at him. He is equally effective in the idealistic moments when he attempts to set the world on its feet overnight. The eye-filling Miss Taylor also has a romping time as the amateur psychiatrist who bravely tackles her toughest case, and there are splendid performances on the part of Percy Waram and Fay Holden as Elizabeth's knowing parents, Leon Ames as the honest aide to the district attorney, Selena Royle and Edgar Buchanan as Van's battling aunt and uncle, and Gene Lockhart as the law firm partner whose greatest delight is to get Van drunk. Then there is Mike, a tail-wagger of dubious Airdale ancestry, who is a scene-stealer if there ever was one. Just wait until you hear him talk!

Long May It Wave

Pasadena, Calif.—(AP)—It was hot and Clyde Partsch, 70, was parched.

He reached into his icebox for a bottle of ice water and downed a glassful. At a hospital, where they pumped his stomach after he complained of an ache, they informed him he'd guzzled a neutralizing preparation for permanent waves.

OUT-THRILLING THEM ALL!

Guns And Gals In Hand Mark Cagney's Latest Film, Coming To Paramount

'Kiss Tomorrow Goodbye' Features Barbara Payton, Helena Carter

James Cagney, who's never bothered much with love in his screen life, finds himself enmeshed with not only one female, but two, thus finding himself in what is for Cagney a new type of screen situation, in "Kiss Tomorrow Goodbye," a Cagney Productions drama. The Warner Bros. release begins its local engagement at the Paramount Theater on Thursday.

For while "Kiss Tomorrow Goodbye" presents Jimmy as everybody likes him—rough, and handy with guns—it also shows him as a man who attracts the ladies like flowers attract the bees. That is a facet of Cagney his films have seldon revealed.

It's also a position for which a lot of males would envy him. Jimmy's two leading ladies are among the most beautiful actresses in Hollywood. One is Barbara Payton, a blonde, who offers Cagney her last $20 bill. The other is redheaded Helena Carter, who lays a $30,000,000 fortune at Cagney's feet. He doesn't kick it around, either.

Jimmy doesn't pretend, as a lot of men might, that it isn't fun.

"Who wouldn't enjoy having two beautiful girls chase him, even on the screen?" he grinned.

As to which of the girls wins, Jimmy has the answer to that one.

It isn't a matter of whether Barbara Payton or Helena Carter wins," smiled Jimmy, "but does Cagney lose? Figure it out for yourself. Can a man ever win in these circumstances?"

Dan Hardy Heads Tech Freshmen

Ruston, Oct. 21.—(Special)—Dan Hardy of Shreveport was elected president of the freshman class at Louisiana Tech in the run-off election held in Howard auditorium recently. Hardy received a 175-vote majority of the approximately 310 ballots cast by the freshman group.

Hardy's opponents in the run-off were John Tigg of Shreveport and Glen Roberts of Rayville.

United Nations Ponders Its Own Postal System

Will Go Into Effect If Approved By Two-Thirds Of Those Voting

By ADELAIDE KERR

Lake Success, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Someday, on a visit to the United Nations, you may be mailing postcards home with a U. N. postmark and stamp.

The U. N. assembly, now in session, will consider definite plans to establish a United Nations postal administration. No one can predict the outcome but if it is approved by a two-thirds majority of those present and voting, it will go into effect. It is estimated it would take about six months after that to set the machinery in motion.

The U. N. postal administration would be housed on the mezzanine floor of U. N.'s new 39 story glass-walled permanent headquarters in New York. According to the plan, it would have its own special stamps and postmark and would offer all the usual post office services. The postal services would be performed on behalf of U. N. by the United States post office department, which would operate something like a concession. It would handle the mail of the secretariat and delegations and could be used by the visiting public.

Besides this, the U. N. postal administration itself would operate a philatelic agency where you could buy U. N. stamps for your collection during a visit or purchase them by mail. It would do business in scores of different languages and currencies.

U. N. stamps would be issued in all the standard popular denominations. Special designs would be worked out for them—probably as a result of international competition, though this has not been definitely decided.

The idea of a U. N. postal administration was introduced in the general assembly three years ago and proceeded through a series of studies, negotiations and assembly discussions to the present stage. Originally, it had been hoped the U. N. could operate its postal service itself. But investigations revealed so many international complications and such high cost of operation that the U. N. made the agreement with the U. S. post office department. It was worked out between President Truman and U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie.

"The U. N. postal administration would have the character of a small national postal administration," says E. D. Brodnax, chief of the U. N. communications and records division, which conducted many of the studies and negotiations.

"There are several precedents for its formation, such as the Vatican City's agreement with the Italian government and the agreement between the principality of Lichtenstein and the Swiss government.

"Under the agreement the U. S. post office department would get the same revenue that it gets now for operating the U. S. branch post office at Lake Success, where it handled more than two million pieces of mail last year. All revenue from stamp sales for mailing purposes would go to the U. S. post office department. All that accrues from stamps sold for philatelic purposes would go to the U. N. postal administration. The agreement recognizes that a certain amount of stamps sold to collectors may find their way to use in the mails and provides for reimbursement to the U. S. post office department in such cases."

'But there are ramifications and possibilities so great that they submerge any inclination to gain revenue," says Brodnax.

"If we had a U. N. postal administration, we might stamp the mail with slogans, just as countries do. We could call attention to the U.N. children's fund and scores of other U. N. activities that millions of people in this world still don't know about. We could use those slogans to show to people all over the world, what the United Nations is and what it is trying to do."

Architects Here To Have Exhibits

Work by north Louisiana architects will be among that shown at an exhibit of current Louisiana architecture scheduled in New Orleans Nov. 10 through 12 in connection with the fourth annual convention of the Louisiana Architects Association.

Milton King of Monroe, a member of the convention planning committee, said the exhibit "is designed to acquaint citizens with the importance of sound architectural planning in their daily lives, whether it be in their homes, offices or public buildings. The profession is striving, during a period of rising costs, to give the public the maximum in convenience, comfort, safety and beauty in its buildings."

Charles R. Colbert, New Orleans, chairman of the L. A. A.'s exhibit committee, reported that more than 40 Louisiana firms had submitted photographs, plans or models of commercial, industrial, religious, public and residential structures. Following the convention, the exhibits will go on tour of the state under the auspices of the Louisiana art commission.

Among the outstanding speakers scheduled for the meeting are Louis Justemer Washington, D. C., noted city planner; Morris Ketchum, New York, authority on store design; Ralph Walker, New York, president of the American Institute of Architects and Walter Rolfe, Houston, Tex.

More than 125 practicing architects from Louisiana and adjoining states are expected to attend this session.

James Marlow:

THE NATION TODAY

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Except for the hoots and howls of the office seeking politicians, this was almost like a normal week. Almost.

With the Korean war rushing to a close, Americans no longer were tensed on the edge of their chairs, as they had been for quite a while.

As the Korean fighting moved a little one side of the front pages, there was more room for life as it's lived here.

To be sure, there was the usual crop of murders, suicides, and even rape, ample proof that this is still less than a civilized world.

The gamblers and crooked cops felt the hot breath of exposure on their necks, much to the indignation of many people who probably had gambled a bit themselves.

But it was the politicians who furnished the most entertainment or amazement or shock, depending on the viewpoint, particulary in New York with their letter-writing.

All over the country red-faced politicos worked themselves into lathers, chanting to the customers the ancient tune of office-seekers: "I'm wonderful and he's no good."

Since this will get worse before it gets better, which is after the election in November, we'll have more of the same for several weeks.

But those things which made it news were only surface stuff even though it may have given the impression of the good old days of normalcy.

Lights burned at night in the Pentagon where the plans are made for building up the armies of the western world.

And in daylight the parking areas around the Pentagon were never more jam-packed with the cars of those who work in the great stone building: office help and officers.

For, quietly, the orders were going out to manufacturers to make this or that for the army, navy, airforce.

And all this, all over the country, was bringing more people into more jobs as the U. S. tightened its belt for the long haul.

By this time there was not much reason for doubting the haul will be long, indeed, stretching into the future perhaps for years.

All the signs point to a continued program of getting ready for war, if war becomes necessary.

And there'll be changes. There seemed no doubt of that. Maybe not great ones, but enough to keep things from being fully normal.

Two of President Truman's closest advisors—men who help him in his planning—made that pretty clear in what they said this week.

They were W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the national security resources board, and John R. Steelman, assistant to the president.

Symington held out no hope for an early end to controls or rearming. In an interview he called for higher taxes and stiffer curbs on credit. He talked of the long haul.

So did Steelman in a speech he gave last night. He, too, spoke of higher taxes. Taking the long view of a long program, he said:

"For many months and even years to come we will have to do without some things we would like to have and make some of the things we have now last longer.

ONE VIRGINIA CAMPAIGN LATE

Heat Is Generated Fast In 'Fighting Ninth' District

By Frank H. Fuller

Bristol, Va., Oct. 21.—(AP)—In Virginia's "fighting ninth" congressional district, where heated political campaigns are as regular as autumn colors on its mountains, the heat has had to be generated in a short time this year.

Democratic Rep. Thomas B. Fulgate, Ewing banker and farmer, is opposed by George C. Sutherland, 64-year-old attorney of Grundy, who has long been active in Republican councils but never held public office.

Neither got started very early on a campaign. Fugate, winner over T. Eugene Worrell two years ago by only 3,084 votes, left advance planning largely to his supporters while waiting for congress to adjourn. Sutherland waited until late September to name a campaign manager.

"Two weeks will be sufficient for me," Sutherland told party leaders in a pre-campaign get-together.

Organization work of both parties has been going foward with little outward show. And in the "fighting ninth" both parties regard that as more important than oratory. It begins before the May deadline for paying poll taxes and continues to see that those who have paid are registered and go to the polls.

Both sides say they expect a smaller total vote than two years ago. What effect will this have? Ask the Democrats and you get one answer. Ask the Republicans and you get another.

By Charles Whiteford

Baltimore, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Over on the eastern shore of Maryland people are pretty independent. It's always hard to tell which way the nine "sho' " counties making up the first congressional district will swing until the last one is heard from. Heavy Democratic registration doesn't mean a thing.

Ask Rep. Edward T. Miller, 55-year-old Republican seeking his third straight term.

Miller, a World War II colonel who wound up with a major general's commission in the Chinese army, defeated Democratic Dudley G. Roe for re-election by 1,004 votes in 1946.

He was elected by a 2,676-vote margin two years ago over S. Scott Beck, member of one of the Shore's leading Democratic families.

This time the Democrats have chosen State Senator Thomas F. Johnson as their candidate. Johnson, a suave, well-dressed man in his forties, is a proven vote-getter.

Both sides are claiming victory. Independent observers say that a Democratic split brought about by one of the sharpest party primaries for governor in many years, should help the chances of every Republican on the ticket.

Miller voted for the Taft-Hartley act. Both the A. F. L. and C. I. O. have formally endorsed his opponent. What effect this will have is problematical. The shore is predominately an agriculture and fisheries area, but a good many of the Chesapeake Bay oyster and crab packing houses have been unionized the past few years.

Cub Scouts Will Have Air Program

All Cub Scouts of this area are requested to listen to the Scout Meeting of the Air Monday night, October 23, over radio station KMLB at 7:45 p.m. The program to be presented is of special interest to Cub Scouts and their parents.

The Scout Meeting of the Air is a regular weekly feature of station KMLB, being presented in cooperation with the Ouachita Valley Council Boy Scouts of America.

Rayville Club To Serve Supper

The Rayville Art and Civic Club, of that town, will serve a chicken spaghetti supper Wednesday, November 1 in the Catholic church at 7 o'clock.

After the supper has been served Lingo will be enjoyed and the proceeds will be devoted to the newly-organized Rayville band.

Advance ticket sale is now in progress by Mrs. Jack Mann, Jr. She can be reached by phoning 435, in Rayville.

Lactose, a sugar found only in milk, has the same chemical formula as sucrose, but it is not nearly as sweet and can be fermented by yeast.

PLANE GASOLINE DRIVE WORKING

'Very Satisfactory Progress' Made Toward 25,000 Barrels Daily

By Charles Haslet

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The drive to boost aviation gasoline production by 25,000 barrels daily is making "very satisfactory progress" and has won a good reaction from the oil industry, government officials say.

The increased production, which it is hoped will be realized by the end of the year, is wanted for defense purposes.

The program has not brought about a reduction in the octane content of civilian-use gasoline, officials said, adding that whether it does will depend on developments.

"The program isn't out of the woods yet, but it looks like we'll make the goal by the end of the year," the officials said.

The battle over control of rich oil lands beneath the marginal seas along the nation's coasts appears headed again for congress following a supreme court decision last Monday.

The court refused to reconsider its recent decision that the government has paramount rights to the so-called tidelands along Texas and Louisiana coasts and oil industry officials consider it unlikely that the court would change its mind.

Nevertheless, the states have until Oct. 31 to file a second request for rehearing.

Senator Connally (D.-Tex.), expressing disappointment at the most recent court ruling, declared congress will be called upon to "exert its power and authority in behalf of state ownership."

Representative Teague (D.-Tex.) said he thought congress would approve legislation guaranteeing ownership by the states but he added he was not certain there would be enough votes to override a presidential veto.

It may be several days before Bruce Brown, of Pan Am Southern Corp., New Orleans, decides if he will accept a position as deputy director of the PAD in the interior department, a representative of a Washington oil organization said.

The industry representative said he understood a proposed executive order was under preparation which might make it possible for such men as Brown to come into government defense posts without making too great a financial sacrifice.

Oil jobbers are ready to ask congress to put commercial petroleum cooperatives on the same tax basis as the independent businesses with which they compete.

Otis Ellis, representative here of the National Oil Jobbers Council, said there is no quarrel with farmers' cooperatives.

Oil co-ops do pay some taxes, he said, but not enough in relation to competing businesses.

The bureau of mines has reported that the nation's oil and oil products pipe line system increased 25,463 miles to a total of 152,814 miles between May 1, 1941 and Jan. 1, 1950.

Capacity of the network also has increased greatly.

The pipeline transportation subcommittee of the National Petroleum Council will meet in Tulsa next Tuesday to study data it has already obtained and to begin preparation of a report to the main committee, the council said.

K. C. KNIGHTS TO ALEXANDRIA

Will Participate In Big Rally Scheduled There Today

Today Knights of Columbus will go to Alexandria to attend the "Christ the King" rally held there at 5 p.m. They will travel there and back in cars provided for the occasion. Members of the Fourth degree will go full dressed and it is expected that 2,000 people will participate in a procession headed by His Excellency, the Bishop of Alexandria, Charles P. Greco and many dignitaries.

Bishops from all over the state, Msgr. J. C. Marsh and many outstanding Catholics from the Monroe area are to attend.

On October 31 there will be an officers meeting of the K of C held in the home of George Heller, Edgewater Gardens, where Mr. and Mrs. Heller will be hosts at an evening banquet.

The five point program of the Knights is well under way and many events are planned for the coming weeks ahead, George Tonore is general program chairman.

The K. of C. Fourth degree will be held, together with installation of officers, on Sunday November 12. At this time the Knights will go in a body to communion attending the 8 a. m. mass at St. Matthew's church. Both 3rd degree and 4th degree members will attend and Bishop Greco will say the mass and deliver the sermon. He also will attend the breakfast following the mass.

Rubber is believed to have been used by the American Indians before the arrival of Columbus.

AUTO DEALERS' WEEK IS FIXED

Spots Ways In Which Franchise-Holders Aid In Prosperity

The week of October 22 to 28, inclusive, will be observed throughout the country as National Automobile Dealer Week, according to Monroe franchised dealers.

"This is the second year that the National Automobile Dealers Association has sponsored this program to spotlight the many ways in which the nation's franchised new car dealers and the great automotive industry, which they represent in their own communities, are contributing to both national and local progress and prosperity.

"Everyone, even those who don't drive, benefit in many ways from the vehicles which have made America mobile. The farmer's trucks and cars enable him to sell or buy in his choice of market and bring him within reach of conveniences once found only in cities. The worker's automobile makes it possible for him to live, work and go where he desires. For the consumer, cars and trucks make possible the delivery to his home of nearly everything made or grown anywhere in the world.

"Throughout the years, hundreds of refinements have been added to cars making them better in every way—in riding comfort, ease of operation, beauty, power and economy. Better construction and greatly improved inspection, maintenance, and repair services by the nation's franchised car dealers have more than quadrupled the life span of the family car in the past 30 years. Moreover, franchised new car dealers are making substantial contributions in all sections of the country to highway safety and improvement projects and helping solve the traffic congestion and parking problems for the nation's motorists. Obviously, motorists have ample reason to join with the nation's dealers in this good will program to encourage even closer cooperation and greater progress in the future."

Negro Struck By Auto Suffering Head Injury

He was taken, by a Mulhearn ambulance, to the Conway Memorial Hospital where the extent of the injury was not determined late last night. Franklin lived at 104 North Eleventh street.

Police said he was struck by a car driven by Sara Staten, Negro.

Officers said the man apparently stumpled into the path and in to vehicle.

United Nations Ponders Its Own Postal System

Will Go Into Effect If Approved By Two-Thirds Of Those Voting

By ADELAIDE KERR

Lake Success, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Someday, on a visit to the United Nations, you may be mailing postcards home with a U. N. postmark and stamp.

The U. N. assembly, now in session, will consider definite plans to establish a United Nations postal administration. No one can predict the outcome but if it is approved by a two-thirds majority of those present and voting, it will go into effect. It is estimated it would take about six months after that to set the machinery in motion.

The U. N. postal administration would be housed on the mezzanine floor of U. N.'s new 39 story glass-walled permanent headquarters in New York. According to the plan, it would have its own special stamps and postmark and would offer all the usual post office services. The postal services would be performed on behalf of U. N. by the United States post office department, which would operate something like a concession. It would handle the mail of the secretariat and delegations and could be used by the visiting public.

Besides this, the U. N. postal administration itself would operate a philatelic agency where you could buy U. N. stamps for your collection during a visit or purchase them by mail. It would do business in scores of different languages and currencies.

U. N. stamps would be issued in all the standard popular denominations. Special designs would be worked out for them—probably as a result of international competition, though this has not been definitely decided.

The idea of a U. N. postal administration was introduced in the general assembly three years ago and proceeded through a series of studies, negotiations and assembly discussions to the present stage. Originally, it had been hoped the U. N. could operate its postal service itself. But investigations revealed so many international complications and such high cost of operation that the U. N. made the agreement with the U. S. post office department. It was worked out between President Truman and U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie.

"The U. N. postal administration would have the character of a small national postal administration," says E. D. Brodnax, chief of the U. N. communications and records division, which conducted many of the studies and negotiations.

"There are several precedents for its formation, such as the Vatican City's agreement with the Italian government and the agreement between the principality of Lichtenstein and the Swiss government.

"Under the agreement the U. S. post office department would get the same revenue that it gets now for operating the U. S. branch post office at Lake Success, where it handled more than two million pieces of mail last year. All revenue from stamp sales for mailing purposes would go to the U. S. post office department. All that accrues from stamps sold for philatelic purposes would go to the U. N. postal administration. The agreement recognizes that a certain amount of stamps sold to collectors may find their way to use in the mails and provides for reimbursement to the U. S. post office department in such cases."

'But there are ramifications and possibilities so great that they submerge any inclination to gain revenue," says Brodnax.

"If we had a U. N. postal administration, we might stamp the mail with slogans, just as countries do. We could call attention to the U.N. children's fund and scores of other U. N. activities that millions of people in this world still don't know about. We could use those slogans to show to people all over the world, what the United Nations is and what it is trying to do."

Architects Here To Have Exhibits

Work by north Louisiana architects will be among that shown at an exhibit of current Louisiana architecture scheduled in New Orleans Nov. 10 through 12 in connection with the fourth annual convention of the Louisiana Architects Association.

Milton King of Monroe, a member of the convention planning committee, said the exhibit "is designed to acquaint citizens with the importance of sound architectural planning in their daily lives, whether it be in their homes, offices or public buildings. The profession is striving, during a period of rising costs, to give the public the maximum in convenience, comfort, safety and beauty in its buildings."

Charles R. Colbert, New Orleans, chairman of the L. A. A.'s exhibit committee, reported that more than 40 Louisiana firms had submitted photographs, plans or models of commercial, industrial, religious, public and residential structures. Following the convention, the exhibits will go on tour of the state under the auspices of the Louisiana art commission.

Among the outstanding speakers scheduled for the meeting are Louis Justemer Washington, D. C., noted city planner; Morris Ketchum, New York, authority on store design; Ralph Walker, New York, president of the American Institute of Architects and Walter Rolfe, Houston, Tex.

More than 125 practicing architects from Louisiana and adjoining states are expected to attend this session.

James Marlow:

THE NATION TODAY

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Except for the hoots and howls of the office seeking politicians, this was almost like a normal week. Almost.

With the Korean war rushing to a close, Americans no longer were tensed on the edge of their chairs, as they had been for quite a while.

As the Korean fighting moved a little one side of the front pages, there was more room for life as it's lived here.

To be sure, there was the usual crop of murders, suicides, and even rape, ample proof that this is still less than a civilized world.

The gamblers and crooked cops felt the hot breath of exposure on their necks, much to the indignation of many people who probably had gambled a bit themselves.

But it was the politicians who furnished the most entertainment or amazement or shock, depending on the viewpoint, particulary in New York with their letter-writing.

All over the country red-faced politicos worked themselves into lathers, chanting to the customers the ancient tune of office-seekers: "I'm wonderful and he's no good."

Since this will get worse before it gets better, which is after the election in November, we'll have more of the same for several weeks.

But those things which made it news were only surface stuff even though it may have given the impression of the good old days of normalcy.

Lights burned at night in the Pentagon where the plans are made for building up the armies of the western world.

And in daylight the parking areas around the Pentagon were never more jam-packed with the cars of those who work in the great stone building: office help and officers.

For, quietly, the orders were going out to manufacturers to make this or that for the army, navy, airforce.

And all this, all over the country, was bringing more people into more jobs as the U. S. tightened its belt for the long haul.

By this time there was not much reason for doubting the haul will be long, indeed, stretching into the future perhaps for years.

All the signs point to a continued program of getting ready for war, if war becomes necessary.

And there'll be changes. There seemed no doubt of that. Maybe not great ones, but enough to keep things from being fully normal.

Two of President Truman's closest advisors—men who help him in his planning—made that pretty clear in what they said this week.

They were W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the national security resources board, and John R. Steelman, assistant to the president.

Symington held out no hope for an early end to controls or rearming. In an interview he called for higher taxes and stiffer curbs on credit. He talked of the long haul.

So did Steelman in a speech he gave last night. He, too, spoke of higher taxes. Taking the long view of a long program, he said:

"For many months and even years to come we will have to do without some things we would like to have and make some of the things we have now last longer.

ONE VIRGINIA CAMPAIGN LATE

By Frank H. Fuller

Bristol, Va., Oct. 21.—(AP)—In Virginia's "fighting ninth" congressional district, where heated political campaigns are as regular as autumn colors on its mountains, the heat has had to be generated in a short time this year.

Democratic Rep. Thomas B. Fulgate, Ewing banker and farmer, is opposed by George C. Sutherland, 64-year-old attorney of Grundy, who has long been active in Republican councils but never held public office.

Neither got started very early on a campaign. Fugate, winner over T. Eugene Worrell two years ago by only 3,084 votes, left advance planning largely to his supporters while waiting for congress to adjourn. Sutherland waited until late September to name a campaign manager.

"Two weeks will be sufficient for me," Sutherland told party leaders in a pre-campaign get-together.

Organization work of both parties has been going foward with little outward show. And in the "fighting ninth" both parties regard that as more important than oratory. It begins before the May deadline for paying poll taxes and continues to see that those who have paid are registered and go to the polls.

Both sides say they expect a smaller total vote than two years ago. What effect will this have? Ask the Democrats and you get one answer. Ask the Republicans and you get another.

By Charles Whiteford

Baltimore, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Over on the eastern shore of Maryland people are pretty independent. It's always hard to tell which way the nine "sho' " counties making up the first congressional district will swing until the last one is heard from. Heavy Democratic registration doesn't mean a thing.

Ask Rep. Edward T. Miller, 55-year-old Republican seeking his third straight term.

Miller, a World War II colonel who wound up with a major general's commission in the Chinese army, defeated Democratic Dudley G. Roe for re-election by 1,004 votes in 1946.

He was elected by a 2,676-vote margin two years ago over S. Scott Beck, member of one of the Shore's leading Democratic families.

This time the Democrats have chosen State Senator Thomas F. Johnson as their candidate. Johnson, a suave, well-dressed man in his forties, is a proven vote-getter.

Both sides are claiming victory.

Independent observers say that a Democratic split brought about by one of the sharpest party primaries for governor in many years, should help the chances of every Republican on the ticket.

Miller voted for the Taft-Hartley act. Both the A. F. L. and C. I. O. have formally endorsed his opponent. What effect this will have is problematical. The shore is predominately an agriculture and fisheries area, but a good many of the Chesapeake Bay oyster and crab packing houses have been unionized the past few years.

PLANE GASOLINE DRIVE WORKING

'Very Satisfactory Progress' Made Toward 25,000 Barrels Daily

By Charles Haslet

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The drive to boost aviation gasoline production by 25,000 barrels daily is making "very satisfactory progress" and has won a good reaction from the oil industry, government officials say.

The increased production, which it is hoped will be realized by the end of the year, is wanted for defense purposes.

The program has not brought about a reduction in the octane content of civilian-use gasoline, officials said, adding that whether it does will depend on developments.

"The program isn't out of the woods yet, but it looks like we'll make the goal by the end of the year," the officials said.

The battle over control of rich oil lands beneath the marginal seas along the nation's coasts appears headed again for congress following a supreme court decision last Monday.

The court refused to reconsider its recent decision that the government has paramount rights to the so-called tidelands along Texas and Louisiana coasts and oil industry officials consider it unlikely that the court would change its mind.

Nevertheless, the states have until Oct. 31 to file a second request for rehearing.

Senator Connally (D.-Tex.), expressing disappointment at the most recent court ruling, declared congress will be called upon to "exert its power and authority in behalf of state ownership."

Representative Teague (D.-Tex.) said he thought congress would approve legislation guaranteeing ownership by the states but he added he was not certain there would be enough votes to override a presidential veto.

It may be several days before Bruce Brown, of Pan Am Southern Corp., New Orleans, decides if he will accept a position as deputy director of the PAD in the interior department, a representative of a Washington oil organization said.

The industry representative said he understood a proposed executive order was under preparation which might make it possible for such men as Brown to come into government defense posts without making too great a financial sacrifice.

Oil jobbers are ready to ask congress to put commercial petroleum cooperatives on the same tax basis as the independent businesses with which they compete.

Otis Ellis, representative here of the National Oil Jobbers Council, said there is no quarrel with farmers' cooperatives.

Oil co-ops do pay some taxes, he said, but not enough in relation to competing businesses.

The bureau of mines has reported that the nation's oil and oil products pipe line system increased 25,463 miles to a total of 152,814 miles between May 1, 1941 and Jan. 1, 1950.

Capacity of the network also has increased greatly.

The pipeline transportation subcommittee of the National Petroleum Council will meet in Tulsa next Tuesday to study data it has already obtained and to begin preparation of a report to the main committee, the council said.

K. C. KNIGHTS TO ALEXANDRIA

Will Participate In Big Rally Scheduled There Today

Today Knights of Columbus will go to Alexandria to attend the "Christ the King" rally held there at 5 p.m. They will travel there and back in cars provided for the occasion. Members of the Fourth degree will go full dressed and it is expected that 2,000 people will participate in a procession headed by His Excellency, the Bishop of Alexandria, Charles P. Greco and many dignitaries.

Bishops from all over the state, Msgr. J. C. Marsh and many outstanding Catholics from the Monroe area are to attend.

On October 31 there will be an officers meeting of the K of C held in the home of George Heller, Edgewater Gardens, where Mr. and Mrs. Heller will be hosts at an evening banquet.

The five point program of the Knights is well under way and many events are planned for the coming weeks ahead, George Tonore is general program chairman.

The K. of C. Fourth degree will be held, together with installation of officers, on Sunday November 12. At this time the Knights will go in a body to communion attending the 8 a. m. mass at St. Matthew's church. Both 3rd degree and 4th degree members will attend and Bishop Greco will say the mass and deliver the sermon. He also will attend the breakfast following the mass.

Rubber is believed to have been used by the American Indians before the arrival of Columbus.

Spots Ways In Which Franchise-Holders Aid In Prosperity

The week of October 22 to 28, inclusive, will be observed throughout the country as National Automobile Dealer Week, according to Monroe franchised dealers.

"This is the second year that the National Automobile Dealers Association has sponsored this program to spotlight the many ways in which the nation's franchised new car dealers and the great automotive industry, which they represent in their own communities, are contributing to both national and local progress and prosperity.

"Everyone, even those who don't drive, benefit in many ways from the vehicles which have made America mobile. The farmer's trucks and cars enable him to sell or buy in his choice of market and bring him within reach of conveniences once found only in cities. The worker's automobile makes it possible for him to live, work and go where he desires. For the consumer, cars and trucks make possible the delivery to his home of nearly everything made or grown anywhere in the world.

"Throughout the years, hundreds of refinements have been added to cars making them better in every way—in riding comfort, ease of operation, beauty, power and economy. Better construction and greatly improved inspection, maintenance, and repair services by the nation's franchised car dealers have more than quadrupled the life span of the family car in the past 30 years. Moreover, franchised new car dealers are making substantial contributions in all sections of the country to highway safety and improvement projects and helping solve the traffic congestion and parking problems for the nation's motorists. Obviously, motorists have ample reason to join with the nation's dealers in this good will program to encourage even closer cooperation and greater progress in the future."

Negro Struck By Auto Suffering Head Injury

Roosevelt Franklin, Negro, about 40, suffered a head injury last night when he was struck by an automobile on Eleventh street.

He was taken, by a Mulhearn ambulance, to the Conway Memorial Hospital where the extent of the injury was not determined late last night. Franklin lived at 104 North Eleventh street.

Police said he was struck by a car driven by Sara Staten, Negro.

Officers said the man apparently stumpled into the path and in to vehicle.
